No Night Racing in 1969 Planned for Track Here

By Richard Crabb

No night racing is planned for Arlington Park in 1969.

There will, however, be some changes in the hours at which racing goes on. Arlington management plans for more racing late in the afternoon and early evening. This will amount to an extension of the Friday schedule which has proven successful at Arlington Park in recent seasons. For several years Friday racing has begun late in the afternoon at Arlington Park.

"We are planning on making use of the late afternoon and early evening time," reports Mrs. Marge Everett. It is possible that two or three days a week, the starting time may be 4 p.m.

"Such a schedule would have a number of advantages. It will enable many more people to come to the races after their business day.

"Fans still will be coming to the track before the evening rush hour, and they will be leaving well after the evening rush hour is over, say between 8 and 9 o'clock," Mrs. Everett explained.

Arlington Park has completed its annual application to the Illinois Racing Board, seeking authorization for 1969 dates. All pari-mutuel racing establishments in Illinois are required to make application early in November so the racing board can consider the allocations of dates at its November meetings.

The board's first session of its November meeting is scheduled for Saturday. There is no requirement to list the racing hours, except that they must conform to the state law, which limits racing between noon and midnight.

Arlington has petitioned for 103 days of racing in 1969, the same number as allocated to the track here this season. If the Arlington petition is approved, racing will begin May 12, 1969 and continue until Sept. 8, 1969.

As has been the case for years, Hawthorne Race Track has petitioned for the final week of the Arlington meet which would give Hawthorne Labor Day, regularly one of the peak days of the year in racing in the Chicago area. The racing board has turned down similar petitions several times in the past.

With major new facilities available for the first time, Arlington Park will make plans for its biggest year in 1969. The new Arlington Hotel will be open ahead of the beginning of the racing season. A new 1,800 foot deep well is being completed this month to provide the additional water that will be needed at Arlington Park to include the 400-room hotel.

An additional 500 horse stalls are to be completed also before the racing season begins in May, and so is a new section of the stands.

The 1968 ttend attendance was 1,638,483, an average of 15, 907 per day. The largest single day's attendnnce in 1968 occured on Labor Day, when 36,636 fans came to the Arlington Heights track.

A total of $154,480,581 was wagered during the year, of which $130 million was returned through the peri-mutual system to the individuals who held winning tickets. An all-time record for n single day's wagers was on Labor Day when $2,959,000 was placed in bets on the horses during about four hours.

Hersey Defends Youth, Truth and Controversy

By Ben Clark

Pulitzer prize winning novelist John Hersey sat Saturday in the high school named for him in Arlington Heights and told educators there for a press conference:

"We must trust our kids."

"If a boy of 18 is old enough to offer his life for his country, then we must believe that he is mature enough to really understand what is really in these 'adult' books."

HERSEY had been asked by William Daletski, chairman of the school's division of English and fine arts, where one could draw the line on material-also acceptable to parents - that is assigned to students to read for English courses.

"That's a very tough problem from your seat," he said. "You cannot hide from intelligent young people today what's going on.

"Any attempt to censor...can only lead to distortion," Hersey declared.

Here for the entire weekend to dedicate the new school, Hersey returned to the same theme the following day, at the climax ceremony where he made the main speech:

"I should give notice here and now that I shall go on writing about controversial matters because I believe that somewhere in the body of the controversy must lie the heart of truth--that kind of truth which every child, as well as every writer, seeks," he said.

"Of course, if at some time you decide you've made a bum bet on me, all you have to do is take down those letters out front," Hersey went on.

"The phrase 'student power' was obviously modelled on the phrase 'black power' and this kinship in phrases is symbolic of a paralled in perceptions.

"LIKE the Negroes, these students have tended to see themselves as helpless, as objects of suspicion, and as being considered troublemakers. To put it another way, these students sense that the older generation doesn't trust them.

"There probably has never been a generation of American youth more deserving of trust," Hersey said.

Wearing the Hersey High letter sweater and class ring that was presented him earlier, Hersey, 54, and his wife answered educators' questions Saturday.

He said that today there is an urgency to prepare the young for certain roles that are consistent with the national welfare.

"But," said Hersey, "let each person be wholly himself." This would result in the greatest good for the greatest number," he said.

STUDENTS present were interested in Hersey's feelings about the role of police in the United States today.

"Police have come to believe that the courts, from the U.S. Supreme Court on down, have made their task difficult of carrying out law enforcement."

He continued, "Therefore, it seems that some of the police have attempted to be or thought they should be both police and correction officers, on the spot."

What might improve this situation, Hersey was asked.

"Pay policemen more, and try to encourage our best educated men to enter the police forces," he said.

Admitting he felt there were conditions that needed improving on the "civilian" side of present disorders, Hersey said, however, that he felt in all such instances police "should be held accountable for their actions."

HERSEY mentioned the mob unrest in Chicago during the Democratic convention in August. He said he felt that the actions of the police then showed they feared no punishment by the courts and acted accordingly.

Hersey was asked whether he was the engineer, narrator of the thread of the tale in "A Single Pebble," a novel he wrote depicting travel on China's Yangtze River.

"No," replied the author, but he related that he had traveled by junk on that river, and talked considerable to persons who had made the entire trip described in the novel.

He said he felt the United States had mishandled relations with China, since the Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) era.

"THERE has been a deficit in our policy with China in past years, and I believe we are just now catching up," he said.

Hersey, the son of missionary parents was born in China, and lived there until he was 11. He speaks fluent Chinese.

He said he believes a big deterrent to solution of national problems is the silent majority.

"The intelligent majority is silent," said Hersey.

'Get Found,' Writes Hersey

John Hersey, writer-in-residence and master of Pierson college, Yale University, reinforced the empathy between himself and the faculty of Hersey High school Saturday, when he was on a tour of the new high school named for him.

His actions and remarks also indicated why he, the father of five, seemed as close as is possible to closing the generation gap, between himself and today's youth.

Roland Goins, prinicipal of Hersey, led Mr. and Mrs. Hersey and several faculty members on the tour.

IN AN ENGLISH classroom, a montage that depicted poverty and other factors leading to present youth protests, contained in the lower right hand corner of the rectangle, the words, "Get lost!"

Asking William Saletski, division chairman of English and the fine arts, if he might sign the work, Hersey wrote, "No! No! Get Found!"

Later, in a typing room, Goins noted that the modern-looking desks in the room had been constructed by students at Hersey.

The slant of the desks' legs gave them a rakish appearance, almost one of motion.

"Looks like they're going somehwere," said Hersey with a smile, referring at the same time to both the students who had made them and the desks.

New Group Picks Name Tomorrow

Choosing the name for a new Arlington Heights homeowners organization will head the group's agenda at its second meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in MacArthur Junior High School.

The family suggesting the name chosen will receive a year's free membership in the newly-formed association, announced President Delmar Manning, 2107 Robin Hood Ln.

At the initial meeting committees were formed and investigatory reports concerning area taxes, traffic safety and park improvements will be discussed.

Hersey High mascot, n Siberian Huskie puppy named "Manasia," is held by John Hersey, for whom the newest School District 214 high school was named. Student Judy Scherpelz, 7 N. Wheeling Rd., Prospect Heights, who won Manasia during the Hersey High Homecoming ceremonies, tells author Hersey about the dog.

It's American Education Week

25 Ways to Make A Book Report

By Nancy Bachmann

Reading is something your child should enjoy, especially since this week is American Education Week.

And book reports should be something he likes as much as reading, rather than just an assignment he hands in because a teacher told him to.

HERE ARE 25 suggestions for ways your child can make a book report. All have been used by children.

Write a diary for one of the characters in your book.

Prepare a puppet show or marionette show about your book. Present a radio program about your book. Prepare a movie or television program about your book.

Creat an original mobile about characters in your story. Write a letter from one character to another within your book, or a letter from a character in one book you have read to another character in a separate book.

"SELL" YOUR book to the class. Prepare an advertising poster about it. Write an original story which has been inspired by your reading of the book.

Design clay or cardboard figures to represent characters from your book. Draw an illustration of an important incident in the story. Create a diorama of an incident in the story.

Describe the mood, setting, and style of writing used by the author of the book you have chosen.

USING THE diagram for a plot (steps leading to and from the climax) trace the incidents in the book.

Prepare a dramatization, or pantomime, of a scene or incident in your book. Try a written or oral critique, a critical estimate of your book.

Select from the book a minor character who witnessed or took place in an important incident in the book. Write an account of this incident through the eyes of this character.

Write a detailed description of a character or characters in your book.

Select a passage from your book to read aloud to your class. Be prepared to explain the events leading up to your chosen selection.

TAKE PART in a teacher-student conference about your book. Or take part in a conversation with other students about the books you each have read. Ask an adult to verify the time, location, and number of students taking part in such a "book conversation."

Present a comparison of one book with another.

At Carl Sandburg School, my class will be using some of these ideas later on in the year.

Right now, we're trying a new system.

EVERYBODY in the class—and the teacher-- reads one book every two weeks. All our names, including mine, get put into a hat.

The person whose name is drawn must make an impromptu two-minute speech to the class about the book he has read.

Last week my name was drawn. And I had to give a book report in front of my students.

Earthquake? Call Police

BY GARY SCHIFFMAN

Saturday's earthquake prompted calls to northwest suburban police and fire departments.

The calls began shortly after 11 a.m. when the tremor shook Illinois and 21 other states.

"At first we didn't know any more than the callers," said Chuck Slater, communications operator for the Arlington Heights police.

ONE CALLER said she thought a big truck was "dragging" down her street. Another complained that the upstairs neighbors in her apartment building were breaking up their furniture.

The mystery was solved about 15 minutes after the calls began, when an unidentified dispatcher from one of the 13 area departments on the northwest suburban police channel announced that a Chicago radio station had broadcast news of an earthquake.

There were no reports of injuries or damage here. Spokesmen for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Commonwealth Edison Co. and Peoples Gas Co. said their facilities were not affected.

The quake, which registered between four and five on the Richter seismographic scale of earthquake intensity, was not felt in the suburbs to the extent it was felt by Chicagoans, theorized Det. Sgt. James Roel of the Des Plaines Police Department.

"People on upper floors of tall buildings are more apt to feel the effects of the earth movement," Roel said, "and there aren't that many tall buildings out here."

NOVELIST John Hersey referred to the tremor Sunday afternoon in his dedication speech at the high school bearing his name.

Hersey said, "Your superintendent, Dr. (Edward) Gilbert, having learned that Mrs. Hersey and I were to land at O'Hare a few minutes past 11 o'clock, very thoughtfully and generously arranged an earthquake to celebrate our arrival."

Mount Prospect Approval Needed For Project in Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights is asking Mount Prospect's Approval Tuesday night to build two sewage detention basins in Arlington Heights.

The reason for this is Arlington Heights will use federal Housing and Urban Development funds (HUD) which are distributed in this area under the auspices of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission. The planning commission requires approval for such federally funded projects in one community by surrounding communities, according to Mount Prospect Mayor Daniel Congreve.

One basin is to be built on S. Arlington Heights Rd. with an overflow line extending northeasterly to an existing defunct sewage treatment plant north of Central Rd. south of the Chicago & North Western Ry. tracks in Arlington Heights.

Will Arlington Heights be granted the request?

Mount Prospect Village Manager Robert Moore and village engineer William McManamon are recommending that the village board Tuesday night do so, and send a letter to the Northeastern Illinois Planning commission.

Wheeling Teacher State Winner

Dean De Poy, 436 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights, music instructor at Wheeling High School, has been named Illinois Teacher of the year.

"I feel very humble. I didn't expect this and I don't know if I deserve it," De Poy said.

DePoy will go to Springfield in the near future for a recognition day. He will be honored by state and school officials, including Thomas Shirley, principal of Wheeling High, Edward Gilbert, superintendent of District 214, and Robert Hanrahan, Cook County superintendent of schools.

Afterwards, DePoy will travel to Washington where he will be interviewed by a committee of the National Education Association for the title of national teacher of the year. If DePoy is selected as one of the five finalists in the national competition, a reporter from Look magazine will go to Wheeling to observe his teaching methods.

The winner will be chosen from the five finalists on the basis of Look reporter's observations.

Dates for recognition day and DePoy's trip to Washington have not been set yet, but DePoy said the national teacher selection probably will be held sometime in December.

DePoy has taught music at Wheeling High School since the school opened in 1964. Earlier this year, he was named teacher of the year for Cook County.

The results of DePoy's work can be seen Saturday at Symphony of Wheeling High School will give a concert in the school theatre, 900 S. Elmhurst, Wheeling.

Among the selections on the program will be "An Original Suite" by Gordon Jacob, "When Jesus Wept" by William Schuman, "Chester," also by Schuman, "The Free Lance March" by John Philip Sousa, and "Beguine Again" by Glen Osser.

"CRUMBLING" BONES

Osteoporosis is a loss of calcium in the bones. The bones become less solid. This can cause more frequent fractures. Some changes in the joints may result, causing arthritic type pains. Women past their menopause are susceptible because hormone changes can result in a calcium loss, without sufficient replacement of new calcium to the bones.

Relief is slowly possible. Your physician may prescribe a special vitamin supplement to encourage depositing of calcium. Often intake of hormones is helpful. The diet should include calcium-rich foods.

Why wait for a gas self-cleaning oven?

Go out and buy one.

The ranges good cooks have been holding out for are here. New gas ranges with self-cleaning ovens. (And everything else.)

The oven cleans itself automatically. Reduces dirt and soil to clean, white, wipe-away ash. And you can even vary the cleaning cycle according to the amount of soil in your oven.

But that won't help you cook any better.

What will...are the features of gas ranges. Traditional ones, like precision control of every phase of top-of-stove cooking. And new exciting ones...like automatic cooking and gas infrared broiling.

(Gas infrared broiling units cook quickly...provide eye-appealing browning, too.)

Election Post-Mortem; News of a New Club

BY PAUL HOPPE

At St. Viator High School last week, presidential election results kept students and faculty busy talking.

Several Viator boys were disappointed by tha Republican victory.

A Humphrey supporter, Conrad Rubinkowski, 3340 Brookmeada, Rolling Meadows, a senior and editor of the column "Lion's Lines" in the school paper, said, "I'm disappointed. I feel that the young paople who backed McCarthy should have realized that Humphrey needed their support.

"But they acted without serious thought and now Tricky Dick, the World's Greatest Prestidigitator, is in for a four year stand in the White House, backed by the Don Rickles of politics."

DAN KIVLAHAN, 9 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights, a junior, was greatly disappointed. He was for Humphrey all the way.

He feels that the American public looked at Humphrey as a weak Lyndon Johnson and did not consider his previous records before his election in 1964.

Dan also commented on the system that wa use in the nomination and election of the president and vice president. He feels that the popular vote should be used because under the present system there is no democracy. A select group nominates and elects the man. It is not a true voice.

FATHER Robert Erickson, C.S.V., who teaches Calculus, Math IV, and Religion IV, was also disappointed by the election. The Democratic ticket, he said, was the only one that could lead the country in the future. Fr. Erickson felt that the electoral college is not representative of the people and is not a part of democracy.

TOM BARCLAY, 15 E. Kenneth, Prospect Haights, a sophomore, says, "The election is our latest netional tragedy. Hopefully there will be a four-year low in the assassination trend."

NEW HELP FOR SENIORS

This year, St. Viator's Guidance Department has an organization to help juniors and seniors narrow down their college choices. Ed Hussey of Hoffman Estates, a senior, is president of the new College Club. Moderators Owen Fox and Father Joseph Sander, C.S.V. act as club advisors.

On-campus visits at a number of colleges have been arranged for Viator students by the club. Representatives from college admission offices will also be visiting St. Viator's to talk to interestad students. The club has also rearranged the school's collection of college catalogs, so that students can find the schools they want more easily.

LION BRIEFS

Tha sock hop featuring "The Rotary Connection" has been cancelled by President Mark Abata. No reasons were available.

The auditorium, destroyed by fire last spring, is almost finished. Practices for the annual musical "Carousel" will begin inside. Before, they wera being held in tha cafeteria.

A committee has been set up to obtain information about all school organizations for next year's student handbook.

DOCTOR SAYS

Testing Modern Drugs Slow, Laborious Process

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

From time to time some new drug is hailed as a cancer cure. So far, all such claims have proved false and for a very good reason. Cancer is not a single disease and when a cure is found, it will probably be effective against only one or two types of cancer.

Some persons have the mistaken idea that doctors don't want a cancer cure and would try to discredit one if it were found.

This is the sheerest nonsense as, whenever a treatment of proven worth is found for any disease, the doctors can't wait to give it to their patients.

Some doctors keep a list of patients with incurable diseases and assure them that as soon as any worth-whila drug is found that might benefit them they will call the patients in so that they can get it without delay.

Doctors hava already tried a large number of new drugs for such malignant conditions as leukemia and Hodgkin's disease which, even though they are not curative, have given the victims added years of comparative comfort.

Those who say that doctors will accept a new drug only if it is discovared by another doctor forget that doctors were quick to accept reserpine derived from the Rauwolfia of Hindu folk madicina and ephedrine from the unschooled "medicine men" of China.

At this very moment our large drug houses are sending explorers into remote lands to learn the secrets of native herb doctors and other primitive healers.

Famous quacks often come up with alleged cures for cancer and other diseases.

That they are quacks is shown by the fact that when they die their secret dies with them, whereas, when a worthy medical discovery is made, the discoverer gives it freely to the world. To cite a single example, Sir Alexander Fleming gave tha world the life-saving antibiotic, penicillin.

One of the difficulties in testing any new drug in human cancer patients is the fact that such a long time (at least five years) must elapse after an apparent cure before one can say that the danger of a recurrence has passed.

Another difficulty is that a few victims of cancer succeed in building up an immunity to their disease. If this event coincides with the testing of a worthless drug the drug may get the credit for a cure it did not accomplish or even contribute to.

Modern drugs are now first tested on cultures of cancer cells. If the drug shows promise, it is tested on mice with different types of malignancy.

If these tests appear to be successful, testa with very small doses in human subjects must be made to see whether the drug is too toxic to normal cells. If not, then and only then, can it be tried on patients with cancer.

Q – My doctor says I have periarteritis nodosa and that there is no cure for it. He says I should take cortisone for the rest of my life. What do you think?

A -- Periarteritis (or polyarteritis) nodosa may affect the smaller arteries anywhere in the body. Sometimes the disease clears up spontaneously after several years. One of the cortisonelike drugs is the only treatment that offers the victim any hope of relief.

Hersey Arrives With Earthquake

By Catherine O'Donnell

So lo and behold, as the American Air Lines plane bearing Author John Jersey and his attractive wife was held in its pattern over O'Hare waiting for clearance, there was an earthquake.

District 214 Superintendent Edward Gilbert said later on Saturday that he hadn't ordered it as part of the ceremonies that dedicated the naw school named after Hersey.

It was just about the only thing on Saturday that wasn't part of the scheduled or unscheduled activity that kapt the Herseys moving right through the weekend.

SPEAKING OF earthquakes and just about everyone around town was on Saturday, Hersey described one he'd been in in Mexico City.

He was in a restaurant topping off a lunch of chicken covered with chocolate sauce. When the walls and furniture began shaking, he thought tha feeling he had might have been caused by the entree. He is a quietly charming man.

It was difficult to decide exactly what was the biggest attraction of the day. There were so many. The school is elegant and furnished with the latest in what's being used to educate today's youngsters. The young girl guides in their lovely orange short culottes, brown barets and brown, white and orange plaid wool ponchos were devastating.

Tha school mascot, a Husky puppy named, Masasia "It's Russian," was there tugging at his leash until he gave up and fell asleep on tha cafeteria floor.

Custodian Steve Glantz said that Saturday was one of the busiest days he'd had since tha school opened last September.

WITH PATIENT and unending courtasy Hersey walked through the endless corridors, in and out of endiass rooms and signad endless autographs.

He signed paperback copies and hard-cover copies of his books, scraps of paper and the orange cover of the dedication day booklet. He autographed collages in an English classroom and he even looked interasted in the teacher's lounge which was distinguished by a sign that read in vari-colored hand print, "POLISH EMBASSY STUDENTS OFF LIMITS."

It was the handiwork of art teacher, John Monnett.

He gave his autograph in Chinese to a young student named Milt Chen who ran a recent campaign with the slogan think chink.

During Hersey's tour of the building he was escorted by Dr. Gilbert and Hersey School Principal Ronald Goins, Assistant Jack Martin and their wives and Mrs. Hersey.

He ended in the cafeteria with the usual souvenir of autograph signers, someone's pen.

HE IS A tall, laan, good-looking man with almost-white hair. Ha wore a brown letterman's sweater with the shadowed "H" which he thought was upsidedown. He had been presented to him earliar by the students of Hersey.

It was almost irregular for a Yale man to look as good as he did in a sweater that could have been a Harvard, if the colors were right.

One of his old football teammates from Yale was on hand to greet him. He was Charles Ewart of Arlington Heights, who, with his wife, Juliatte, has baan looking forward to this day since the announcement of the new high school's name was made.

Barbara Hersey is a pretty woman with dark brown eyes, black hair and a pleasant smile. She said her husband did his writing in the morning and that he was oblivious to all household sounds except that of a telephone ringing. She was born in Chicago but left when she was nine years old. The couple live in New Haven.

OTHERS ON hand to say "hello" were Mr. and Mrs. J. Elston. He is with the District 23 School Board. Arlington Heights Woman's Club president Jackie Lidge, the Rev. Donald Hobbs of the Prospect Heights Community Church, and South Junior High School PTA president Ileane Furman.

All of the newspaper writers disappeared after tha conference. Except one. He was Mike Dresser, news editor of the school paper The Correspondent.

Mike, a friendly youngster, not only jotted down many notes, he even carried a few spare copies of his newspaper to pass out.

The most memorable thing about the entire afternoon was that everyone seemed to feel so much at home. Although the school has been opened only a few months it seems to have been there forever. John Hersey should be truly proud.

A Day Dedicated To World Peace

1918 - Veterans Day - 1968

Fifty years have passed since the original Armistice Day or Veterans Day (as it is now called) . . . fifty years and many wars since the day in 1918 when "the war to end all wars" ended. We commemorate the anniversary of this day with the belief that peace will prevail and wars will end; with the hope for mutual understanding between nations and good will among all peoples; and with a sincere tribute to those who have valiantly fought for our country.

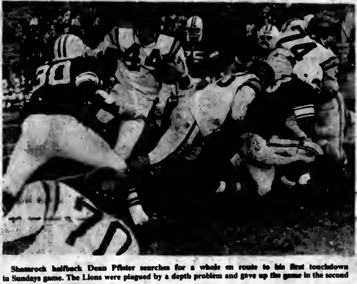
Arlington jayvee fullback Mike Hart flies through the air over where the Hersey line was supposed to be. Arlington won the game for the conference jayvee crown, 23-20.



Shamrock halfback Dean Pfister searches for a whole en route to his first touchdown in Sundays game. The Lions were plagued by a depth problem and gave up the game in the second half.

Wheeling Socks Prospect Then Soaks Coaches

By Dava Garland

When the final gun sounded Friday night, Wheeling Coach John Liljeberg and his assistants breathed easier for a short time as the Wildcats survived a scare and a high scoring see-saw battle with Prospect to win one of the highest scoring contests of the season 52-35.

The victory nailed down second place in the Mid-Suburban League for the 'Cats as well as a trip to the showers for Liljeberg and the other Wildcat coaches after the ballgame. However, after the soaking, the Wheeling players presented Liljeberg and his assistans with a bottle of champaign as a vote of thanks for a job well done.

THE GAME SIGNALLED the beginning of one era and the end of another for Wheeling High School football. Friday night the Wheeling High Spur Club dedicated the Wheeling stadium lights officially as the Cats ended their first year of football under the lights.

Friday also signalled the end of the Bastable football dynasty at Wheeling. Jack Bastable, the 'Cats' brilliant running back is the last of the Bastables to attend Wheeling because of the split with Hersey High School.

This fall Bastable rewrote the record books at Wheeling by scoring a record 20 touchdowns for the 'Cat varsity as they chalked up a 6-3 record.

The Wildcats survived a bad scare Friday night against Prospect and they didn't win walking away as the score would indicate. Prospect scored more points against the Wildcats' defense than any team has managed all season, including league champion Arlington. The Knights came back from an 18-point deficit to take a three-point lead in the second quarter, but couldn't hold onto it.

THE SEE-SAW BATTLE began when Dave Hendren recovered a Knight fumble on the Prospect 21 with 10 minutes to go in the first quarter. In two carries Bastable took the ball to the four yard line. From there, quarterback Ron King, went around right end on a keeper for the score. The conversion attempt by Jay Lesniak was wide.

The Knights turned over the ball after four plays and Wheeling scored again on a 54-yard drive in seven plays. Bastable and Mark Janus brought the ball from the 'Cat 46 to the Prospect 39, then Bastable took a pitch from King and hit Lesniak with a 35-yard bomb which carried to the four yard line before Rick Soduski prevented the TD.

The third Wildcat tally came in the top of the second quarter as Bastable chalked up his second touchdown to cap a 57-yard scoring march. The score came on a screen pass from King which was good for 20 yards. Lesniak missed the extra point conversion.

WITH THE SCORE 18-0 Prospect started to play catch-up football and almost pulled out a win. The Knights scored on a 68-yard drive in three plays after halfback Scott Crawford brought the Wheeling kickoff back to the Knight 32 yard line.

On the first play quarterback Mike Gaffney was dumped by Darrell Berendt, Hendren and Bill Craighead for a five yard loss, however, on the next play, fullback Steve Grant brought the ball out to the 50 yard line on a draw play before Rick Schachner made the stop.

Gaffney again gave Grant the call and he went all the way over the right side of the 'Cat defense for the touchdown with nine and a half minutes to go in the half. The conversion attempt by Dave Lundstdet was good.

The next time the 'Cats got the ball Prospect put up a good pass rush and it paid off handsomely. King was forced to hurry a pass and Bob Anderson picked it off and ran it back untouched 47 yards for the Knights' second score. Lundstedt's kick was good, making the score 18-14, and a new ballgame.

THE KNIGHTS GOT the ball right back as King fumbled a hand off on the first Wheeling series at the 'Cat 29 yard line. Seven plays later Prospect took the lead. Gaffney took the ball to the 25 on a keeper than hit Anderson in the flat for nine yards to the 16. Four plays later Grant took the ball in from nine yards to the 16. Four plays later Grant took the ball in from nina yards out on another draw play. Lundstedt's kick was good.

The 'Cats didn't stay down for long as they marched 66 yards for a score the next time they had the ball. Bastable and Stew Oakley took the ball from the Wheeling 34 out to the 50 yard line where Bastable made a one-handed catch of a King screen pass and went all the way for his third TD. His kick was good putting the 'Cats on top 25-21.

On the next series of downs Glen Roth picked off a Gaffney aerial at the Prospect 35 yard line and ran it back to the seven before being stopped by half of the Knight offensive unit. On the first play Bastable took a pitchout from King, rolled to his right and found Jay Jobst with a seven yard touchdown pass in the endzone. Bastable's kick was good.

The Knights were the first to draw blood in the second half as they marched 79 yards in 11 plays for their fourth score. Grant and Gaffney did all of the work with Grant pounding the middle of the 'Cat defense and Gaffney going around the ends. Gaffney scored on a keeper from about a foot out to bring the Knight back to within four points at 32-28 after the conversion was made.

Five plays later, Bastable came through again as he tossed a 42-yard bomb to Lesniak in the clear for his second touchdown of the year. Bastable's conversion was good putting the Cats on top 39-28, but the game was far from over.

On the next series Prospect ended up punting to Bastable, who promptly returned the punt 64 yards to the Knight four yard line behind a good wall of blockers.

Three plays later he went over from a yard out, but his boot was wide, leaving the score 45-28 with 10 minutes to play in the fourth period.

THE KNIGHTS didn't waste time making a come back. The next time the 'Cats had the ball Soduski hit King, who coughed up the ball into the arms of Jim Merritt for a 36-yard touchdown run off a fumble recovery. Lundstedt's fifth straight kick was good, bringing the Knights with in 10 points as the board read 45-35, Wheeling.

Eleven plays later the 'Cats put the icing on the cake with a 65 yard touchdown drive. Bastable, Janus and Lane Luoma brought the ball to the Knight 20 in nine plays, then Bastable took a pitchout from King, was forced to scramble, and ended up pitching the ball back to King at the one yard line.

From there Janus went over with 2:44 left to play. Lesniak's kick was good putting the score at 52-35.

During the final two minutes the air was full of footballs as the Knights tried to get back in the ball game. However, Schachner and Tom Zasadney both picked off Knight aerials as the 'Cats hung on for the final two minutes.

"IT WAS A wild one," according to Liljeberg. He was impressed with the Knight's offensive unit. "We expected more trouble than with Conant, and we got it. They had more than one good running back and one good receiver,"

"On top of that, our defense played only fair. They moved the ball well on two plays, the draw play, and on our mistakes. We gave them three touchdowns."

"Their side's runs and passes didn't hurt us too badly. They got away only one good pass, a 43-yard bomb just before the half. We didn't want to out-score them, but we had to."

"We planned for a low scoring contest. As it was, we had to hang on for dear life during the second and third quarters."

Visit Museum

Second graders from the Sunset Park School in Mount Prospect went on a field trip to the Field Museum of Natural History on Oct. 30.

The 46 students heard a talk and saw a demonstration on "How Animals Prepare for Winter," and a model of a tree with flaps containing displays.

Under each flap was an animal or bird which hibernates all or part of the winter.

Knights' Fall Sports Banquet Tomorrow Night

Prospect High School's Fall Sports Banquet will be held tomorrow evening at 6:45 in the school cafeteria.

Speaker for the evening will be Howard Fletcher, head football coach at Northern Illinois University in De Kalb. Fletcher has been coaching the Huskies for 13 years, turning out, among other top grid stars, George Bork, Little All-American and now an assistant coach at Prospect.

Fletcher also coached three teams which made it to the Mineral Water Bowl, the only post-season bowl game their conference, then the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference would allow them to enter.

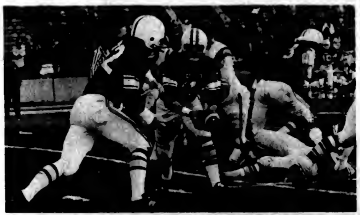
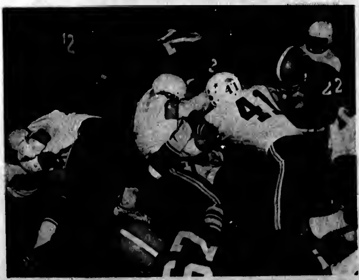
Behind the blocking of Greg Craighead (74) and Mike Thomas (67), Wheeling's all-state candidate Jack Bastable heads for more yardage in Friday night's game against Prospect. Bastable scored four TD's and threw for two more in the Wildcats' victory. Knight Sandy Quillen (32) is on the way to try and bring down Wheeling's ace.

Doug Houchkins looks down field for reciever Rich Olsen whom he found for 11 yards and a FV first down, as fullback Mark Ennes provides protection.

Prospect's Scott Crawford (41) chases a loose ball just as futilely as the Knights chased Wheeling for second place in the league. On hand to offer resistance are 'Cats Nick Hardl (81) and Bill Craighead (77).



Lion quarterback Ken Preski hands off to halfback Bill Madden in the opening quarter of Sunday's game with St. Patricks. Madden had a big job filling a vacancy left by co-captain Mark Walinski, but did a fine job in the Lions' 26-18 loss.



Jack Bastable's (32) forward motion is contained by Prospect defenders Bruce Busse (20), Rick Sedlacki (81) and Scott Crawford (41), however, the Wildcat star was given a touchdown on the play, Wheeling's second of the night. Note goal line by Busse's left foot which has not been crossed by Bastable, whose foot (white shoe) moved no further and Bastable ended the play standing up behind line of scrimmage. SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) -- A good day for speculation -- especially for the Scorpio who has made a study of his objective. Facts and figures tell the tale.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) -- Employ intuition and experience in equal measure today if you would see the best results in weeks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) -- If asked your opinion of another, be honest but at the sa... me tactful. You can make or break another's opportunity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) -- Go out of your way to make friends of enemies. You will be needing all of the former you can get in the near future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 21) -- Events may merge one into the other today without your taking much notice. Make every effort to see things distinctly.

ARIES (March 22 - April 20) -- Make yourself worthy of another's trust and thereby do yourself a great service. Times are changing rapidly.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21) -- As a consequence of recent activites, this should be a most memorable day. Do your best to gain another's trust.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) -- Don't deviate from your first story. A day when you could be unjustifiably accused because of a small detail.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) -- Though others may be taking more than their share of present rewards, your turn will come sooner than you think. Patience!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) -- Important insights into present problems should mark this day for Libra. Don't take any suggestion too lightly.

District 214 Will Allow Smoking Unless Student Smoking Increases

Will student smoking areas on school grounds cause an increase in student smoking?

"We don't know if it will or not," said Frank Smith, president of District 214's School Board. "We are trying smoking areas as an experiment. If we find they increase student smoking, we will abolish them."

About 40 residents of the high school district attended a school board meeting last night when the student smoking question was placed on the agenda. Many came to protest a recent board decision to allow principals to establish student smoking areas on school grounds, subject to the approval of Edward Gilbert, district superintendent.

SMITH SAID that since forcing students to stop smoking failed in District 214, the board has decided to try to teach students not to smoke.

"We plan to launch a vigorous anti-smoking campaign in district high schools," he said. "We will do our best to cooperate with parents who don't want their children to smoke by stopping those students from using the students smoking areas.

"Also, we are trying to get speakers from groups like the Illinois Youth Commission and the Northwest Community Hospital to address students on the dangers of smoking. Right now, I am negotiating to use commercials prepared by the Cancer Society of daily announcement broadcasts over the speaker systems of district schools."

Smith noted that he has been chairman of the area Cancer Society for six years, and although that group has tried to stop smoking in many ways, it has never asked for legislation forbidding people to smoke.

"ALLOWING students smoking areas was a bad decision," said Fred Wegner, 341 Ambleside Dr., Des Plaines. "It will encourage students to smoke and smoking is dangerous. Student smoking can be minimized by a policy of keeping students in schools during lunch hour and confiscating all cigarettes found."

Smith said that student smoking is a problem in every high school in the United States, and is a problem the school board of District 214 takes very seriously. He explained that the smoking area that has been established at Forest View High School is being used as a testing ground to see if making students smoking legal will discourage students from smoking.

"Principal Lawrence Jenness of Forest View is counting the number of students who smoke each day. He will compare the number of students who smoked before the area was established with the number of students smoking in the area.

"If we find more students are smoking now that it is allowed on school property, we will go back to our former policy of forbidding smoking on school grounds," Smith said.

JENNESS noted that his calculations indicated that the number of students smoking remained about the same, but stated that it was too early to tell what the trend in student smoking is at Forest View.

Mrs. Robert Bates, 1317 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights said that students are not adults and should not be allowed to smoke.

"I think high school children are young adults and should be treated as such," said Richard Bachhuber, member and secretary. "Smoking should be approached as a health problem, not a discipline problem."

Bachhuvar added that education should not be equated with confinement, and said that when students were forbidden to smoke, they smoked in lavatories and under stairs in schools, creating a fire danger.

JENNES SAID that punishing students for smoking did not stop them from smoking, but sometimes did result in having them drop out of school. Students occasionally are expelled from school for smoking Jenness said.

"I was a police counsellor at Forest View for two years and I am one of the people who first asked for student smoking areas to be established," said Paul A. Buckholz, 2420 E. Kensington, Arlington Heights, a member of the Arlington Heights Police force. "Police counsellors at the schools do not have authority to patrol the off-campus areas students used for smoking, and drug-peddlers could have approached students there and sold them marijuana," he said.

Henry Szala, 4 N. Louis, Mount Prospect, chairman of the Police and Fire Commission, said that police counsellors could not be sure students were not smoking marijuana unless they checked each cigarette.

Richard Chierico, 420 W. Wood Palatine, a teacher at Elk Grove High School, said be didn't know whether he approved of the school board's decision. "We can't judge the policy now," Chierico said. "We will have to wait until we see the results at Forest View before we decide if the policy is a good one or not."

Smith said that Forest View is the only high school in District 214 at which a smoking area for students has been established, and that permission for other smoking areas would not be given until it is clear that these areas do not encourage students to smoke.

Hersey High Adds Vocation Courses

Addition of four courses to Hersey High's vocational education program was approved at a District 214 board meeting last night.

Also approved were an addition to the administration center parking lot and a training program for maintenance workers. Superintendent Edward Gilbert was instructed to prepare a maintenance manual for each school.

COURSES IN vocational machine drafting, vocational graphics, graphics I and technical illustration should be offered at Hersey, Roderick McLennan, assistant superintendent told the board.

Students would learn to draw pictures showing how parts fit together to form a finished product for an assembly line in technical illustration, McLennan said. Graphics I would introduce students to photo-offset printing, and vocational graphics would prepare students for a career in printing. Vocational illustration would qualify students for drafting jobs.

McLennan added that the Lay Citizen's Committee for Hersey has asked for a vocational wing in the industrial education section of the school. These classes with others he plans to recommend to the board in a few weeks would provide this vocational education, McLennan said.

Richard Bachhuber, board member, asked if the students at Hersey wanted to take these courses.

McCLENNAN SAID that a large number of students from Hersey were interested in going to George Westinghouse, a vocational school in Chicago, after graduation. This indicates that they want their high school to educate them for non-academic careers, he said.

McLennan said that the courses proposed for Hersey would be flexible enough to fit in well with the vocational education center planned for District 214 in conjunction with Districts 207 and 211. The vocational center will be a co-operative program between schools in these districts to offer an enriched vocational program to their students.

An addition to the south of the parking lot at H.L. Slfehenmeyer Administration Center, 799 W. Kensington, Mount Prospect, was approved by the board. Funds not to exceed $6,549 were appropriated for the extension, which will provide 46 additional parking spaces.

Edward Gilbert, superintendent, said that the administration center's 51-car parking lot often is filled. When the addition to the administration center is completed, 18 new staff members will start working in the administration center and eight of the existing parking spaces will be used for a truck turnaround area.

SCHOOL conference rooms cannot accomodate all the meetings that take place simultaneously in the district, and teachers and administrators often hold their meetings at the administration center. This adds to the parking problem, Gilbert said. Off-street parking is not available near the administration center, he added.

The board decided to have the addition to the parking lot built immediately. Construction costs will rise in January, Gilbert said, and work should be done before a hard freeze sets in.

Bachhuber suggested that a maintenance manual describing machines, heating systems and electrical systems and other such things be prepared for each building. This was approved by the board.

Batteries Stolen

Batteries were stolen yesterday from four road graders at Burr Oak and Brighton in Arlington Heights.

Police said the graders were being used on Burr Oak where the street is being paved.

New signal lights are in place but not yet working at the intersection of Buffalo Grove (Windsor Dr.) and Palatine Rds. Work on signals for the intersection is expected to be complete by Nov. 15. The lights were installed after two girls were killed at the intersection Sept. 25, sparking local residents to protest the lack of signals at what they termed a "death corner." Bus Firm Asks For Fare Boost United Motor Coach Co. is planning a fare increase of about 10 per cent for its routes here.

The proposal is before the Illinois Commerce Commission which must approve the hike before it can go into effect.

The bus company has asked that fares of 50 cents be increased 5 cents and that fares of 50 cents or more go up 10 cents.

Discounts on commuters' tickets would be reduced to 5 per cent. The discount rate now is 10 per cent. Students tickets would cost 2½ cents more. A book of 20 tickets now selling for $3 would cost $3.50.

Elmer Schuemann, vice president and general manager of United Motor Coach, Des Plaines said that the company needs higher fares to meet rising costs.

"Every month this year the number of riders and our revenues have gone down while our costs have gone up," Schuemann said. "We've had a deficit every month. We just can't go on like that."

"We hope the increase will put us in the black."

Schuemann said that all suburban bus lines have had the same problem.

"And every suburban carrier either has got a fare increase or has applied for one."

He said that there has been a 7 per cent decrease in the number of persons riding United Motor Coach since the beginning of the year.

Authors' Series Ends Tomorrow

Norman Richards and Frances Altman, Arlington Heights residents who write books for children, will exchange views at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

It will be the last in the series of local authors sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Mrs. Altman, 604 W. Hintz, who has two children, began writing as a child and won three national awards at the age of 12. She began writing for trade publications 10 years ago while studying journalism at the University of Tulsa.

She has had more than 100 pieces accepted by magazines, has written radio continutity and done newspaper work. She is now on the woman's page staff of the Arlington Day.

Her books include "Reggie the Goat" and "George Gershwin, Master Composer." She is now writing the autobiography of Herbert Prochnow, prominent Chicago banker.

Richards, 2209 N. Verde, Arlington Heights, is editor of Chicago magazine and formerly was managing editor of "Mainliner," the magazine supplied to passengers on United Air Lines.

The father of three, he has published 12 juvenile books and many magazine articles on aviation and travel. Two of his books, "Old Ironsides" and "Giants in the Sky," were offered by the Junior Literary Guild.

Other local authors in the series have included Richard Dunlop, author of "Doctors of the American Frontier;" Richard Crabb, who wrote "Empire on the Platte;" Bruce Ladd, author of "Crisis in Credibility," and Richard Frisbie, whose books include "Who Put the Bomb in Father Murphy's Chowder?."

These books, autographed by the authors, will be available for purchase, according to Mrs. John E. Foley.

These students at Thomas Junior High are weeding the "nature court" in which are found unusual plants. The teens are in the plot of native prairie grass standing considerably above their heads. The grass, once a blanket each year over much of the midwest, is now all but extinct. From left are Becky Lephart, 711 E. Marian; John Geertz, 1321 Highland; and Alice Lorenz, 2126 N. Elizabeth, all of Arlington Heights.

School Movie Premiere Here Thursday

By Richard Crabb

There is to be a premiere of a new color motion picture in Arlington Heights Thursday evening, and the public is invited.

The Arlington Heights Public Schools of District 25 will hold a premiere showing of its new motion picture, "Outdoor Education," at the Dryden School.

Also on Thursday evening, the district's board of education will hold another of its neighborhood meetings. This will be the regular first November meeting of the board, but instead of meeting at the Administration Building on W. South St., the board will meet at the Dryden School.

THE PUBLIC is invited to attend both the board meeting and the first showing of the new motion picture.

The District 25 schools began its outdoor education program in 1955, with a 3-year program in which student participation was optional. Gradually the program evolved until outdoor education now is taught to all fifth graders. This year, 1,100 students took part.

Although the outdoor teaching program continues throughout much of the school year for fifth graders, the field teaching phase of the program takes place in the early fall.

Since the program began, Camp Reinberg and adjoining Deer Grove Forest Preserve north of Palatine has been visited by all students enrolled. Some preparatory work is done before students go to Camp Reinberg. The study continues indoors after the field study.

STRESSED in the outdoor education program is a long list of subjects that have a bearing on most of the subjects taken by fifth graders. Major attention is focused upon geology, forestry, pond life and soil and water conservation.

As a result of the outdoor education program, "nature courts" are being developed at Miner and Thomas Junior High School. Each school has a completely enclosed area of considerable size.

Students with special interest in the outdoor studies care for these special areas where there can be seen a wide range of plant life including such rare plants as native prairie grass that once blanketed most of the midwest and which now is all but extinct.

Science Safety Rules For Education Week

By Donald H. Riek

Science ideas you try out at home can be fun.

But here are some safety rules you should always follow:

Don't wear clothing that might catch fire. Girls especially should watch long, fluffy sleeves, or long hair.

WEAR SAFETY goggles or glasses whenever you are heating liquids or working with chemicals that might get in your eyes. They don't cost very much, and you can get them from a science supply house.

Have a fire extinguisher handy, and know how to use it.

You don't need to use dangerous chemicals for home experiments. You should not be working with strong acids, alkalies, or poisonous chemicals. Use vinegar whenever you need an acid, and washing soda for a base. You can buy washing soda at the grocery store.

Don't play or work with mercury. If your younger brother breaks a thermometer, take the mercury away from him. Mercury is toxic, or harmful, and it can be absorbed through your skin.

NEVER TASTE or smell any chemical. Keep the area where you are working well-ventilated.

Be careful not to pick up hot test tubes.

Use plastic tubing instead of glass tubing to avoid cuts. Science supply houses and hobby shops usually sell plastic tubing.

Teacher Gives Tips On Science

Donald H. Riek of Long Grove, who will be writing three articles on science for The Day during American Education Week, supervises teachers in 15 schools for Palatine-Rolling Meadows District 15.

Previously, he taught in high schools and junior high schools in Wisconsin and downstate Illinois. He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin, and a master's from Miami University, in Oxford, Ohio.

In addition, he has taken part in numerous workshops, including special studies in Inquiry Training, and has done additional graduate work.

$2,100 Loot In Burglary

Burglars escaped with $2,100 worth of merchandise from the apartment of Raymond Bozin at 1210 N. Dale yesterday.

It occurred late in the afternoon while the apartment was unoccupied, police said.

Missing are a mink stole, a lamb coat, two diamond rings, a gold wristwatch and 20 neckties.

Police said the intruders apparently gained entrance to the apartment by prying open the front door.

Marks were also found on the front door of an apartment in the same building belonging to Jane Hasalman, though police said it apparently was not entered. Two other apartments in the building were not touched, according to police.

Village Hires New Sanitarian

Arlington Heights has hired its fourth sanitarian within the last 12 months, culminating a search for applicants that has lasted more than a month.

Assistant Village Manager John Coste said last night that Morris Albeum, a Chicago resident, was picked from among four applicants.

Coste said Albeum will begin his job Nov. 25.

Labbe succeeded William Mack, who in turn had taken over for Richard Dawson.

Coste said Albeum was hired for about $9,000 a year.

"Albeum has worked for the Cook County Health Department for the last nine years," Coste said. He said Albeum worked in the western district of the health department, with its office in Morton Grove.

"He'll be in charge of all aspects of environmental sanitation," Coste said, "concerning such things as air pollution, dust control, and rodent control"

The village sanitarian also is responsible for inspecting all food handling operations, including restaurants.

Coste, who has handled the sanitarian job while the village screened applicants, said he would be glad to have Albeum take over."

"Now I can get back to my other duties," Coste said.

Orientation will be held in two sessions; one for third, fourth and fifth grade classes and one for kindergarten, first and second grades.

Leisure

The Arlington Heights Youth Commission decided last night to investigate recreation facilites and potential in area schools, churches, parks, and civic organizations.

The Commission outlined 11 areas of interest to it. These included youth employment, recreation, participation in community affairs, delinquency, and leisure.

Commissioner James Ewart said the group may investigate each of the eleven areas, beginning with leisure.

By Interested Women

Unit of Church Women Formed

BY LOU ANN BLAIR

Tenaciously holding onto the dream of a unit of Church Women United in Northwest Cook County, is a group of women from several denominations and faiths in our area who have met regularly since last March. They are motivated by the concern that local church women should combine their efforts in many areas of action and cross denominational lines for greater strength and larger purpose.

The group began meeting after the March 1 World Day of Prayer observance at the Southminster Presbyterian Church. Interested women from churches who participated in that observance formed a steering committee and have been assisted by Mrs. O. Ivan Cole of 221 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, a member of the National Board of Church Women United.

WORK BEGAN with individual members of the steering committee purchasing handbooks which describe the structure and program of the national movement and subscribing to the monthly magazine "The Church Woman." The group took on a more stable character by electing Mrs. Cole chairman and Mrs. Melvin Borne secretary-treasurer. Three planning groups were formed to work in the areas of public relations, bylaws and general meetings, under the leadership of Mrs. James E. McGlasson, Mrs. R. B. Yadon and Mrs. Lloyd C. Blair.

Public relations were undertaken first with the organization of a speakers bureau. Talks were given to women's organizations in local churches to acquaint them with the purpose, structure and program of a local unit.

The steering committee now feels that the time has come for a general meeting and have mailed over 200 flyers to ministers and presidents of women's church groups announcing the time and place. All who attend will be asked to express their interest and approval for the formation of a local unit.

KEY WOMEN on the steering committee are prepared to lead small discussion groups and share their knowledge and enthusiasm gained from their study of the movement and the advantages of having a local unit of Church Women United in Northwest Cook County.

The proposed unit will include women who are members of churches in Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village and Palatine and other communities if an interest is expressed. Units for women in Barrington churches and in Des Plaines were organized several years ago.

Church Women United is a national movement "to encourage church women to come together in a visible fellowship to witness to their faith in Jesus Christ."

They have been united since 1966 in three ecumenical areas: celebrations which include World Day of Prayer, World Community Day and May Fellowship Day; in the development of new dimensions in Christian fellowship between denominations and faiths, and action on local, national and international levels.

Music Students, Here Is Your Chance

BY MARGARETE MURPHY

A great opportunity to perform with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra is yours, if you are aspiring for musical excellence and wish to audition at Orchestra Hall at 1 p.m. Monday, Nov. 25.

The invitation to enter has been extended by Acting Music Director Irwin Hoffman to young people under 17, residing in the Metropolitan Chicago area, and will be judged by a panel of distinguished Chicago musicians. The audition must include one movement of a standard solo concerto, and contestants must provide their own accompanists.

FREDERICK Stock, music director from 1905 to 1942, inaugurated this annual competition. Winners, in addition to performing with the orchestra at Youth Concerts, will receive cash awards, the first being $500, second $250.

The cash awards were established by Louis Sudler, president of the Orchestral Association, in memory of his mother, Susan C. Sudler.

The 1967 winner, cellist, Lawrence Foster, was 12 years old at the time and in the 7th grade at Masterman Laboratory and Demonstration School, Glen Ellyn. He selected to play the Saint-Saens Concerto in A minor, which is one movement in length. He also had the honor to appear with Leonard Bernstein in the New York Philharmonich Orchestra's Young People's Concert in July, 1968.

THE 1968 winner, pianist James Adler, was 16 and a student at South Shore High School, Chicago. His winning selection was Rachmaninoff's Variations on a Theme of Paganini, also a single movement.

Based on their winning the Youth Auditions, both boys are scheduled to appear in concerts and recitals this winter.

This is one way to try your wings. Win or lose, it is an unforgettable experience. Hearing cellist Foster in 1967 was thrilling. He looked like a boy who might enjoy a game of ball, yet he was the master of his instrument, and enjoyed sharing his music.

Any music student not prepared to participate in Youth Auditions this year, may want to attend the winners' concert for inspiration and try next year. As the old motto says, Nothing ventured, nothing gained.

How to use antiques and occasional containers found in the home for unusual holiday flower arrangements will be demonstrated for members of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club at their annual conservation and garden program Monday, Nov. 18.

Mrs. C. E. Carter, nationally accredited Flower Show judge, will fashion the arrangements at the Recreation Park field house from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Club members may take a break from "note-taking" at noon with a salad luncheon, according to Mrs. Gilbert Krohn, chairman of the conservation and garden department.

MRS. CARTER, a local resident for two years, is a member of the Illinois Judges Council, Flower Show Judges Forum, and for the last two years has been a member of the schedule and staging committee of the Illinois Garden Club for the World Flower and Garden Show given at the International Amphitheatre.

Tickets for the salad luncheon may be obtained from Mrs. Charles Innocentini (253-1962) or Mrs. Samuel Curry (392-6476). Mrs. E. S. Reinhard and Mrs. Bernard Maas are the luncheon hostesses.

Cancer Film For Women

The social service committee of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club and its cancer study group headed by Mrs. Lawrence Borre will show the film, "Time and Two Women" at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library Wednesday, Nov. 13 at 10 a.m.

THE FILM is part of an educational program of the American Cancer Society to alert all women to their responsibility in the problem of uterine cancer. It will be shown in the Dunton Room and Dr. Eugene Meyer will be on hand to answer questions.

The Friends of the Library committee asked Mrs. Borre to arrange for this showing at the coffee interlude provided for mothers of pre-school tots attending the Wednesday morning story-time sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club.

All area women who are interested are invited to see this film. The library doors are open at 9:45 on Wednesdays to encourage the prompt beginning of these programs.

'He Won't Listen'

Talk with a Teacher

BY ESTHER CULTON

Dear Mrs. Culton: My two-year-old won't listen when I read to him. What do you think is wrong?

A young mother

Just scoop that two-year-old into your lap and reach for a magazine or A First Picture Book. He will find joy in recognizing something he has seeo before even if he calls every picture of a man "Daddy."

The first books for very little children should show pictures of his new found world; pictures on which your child can exercise his speech by naming things. Turn the pages slowly and look for a dog, cat, horse, baby. Your enthusiasm here will be important.

You might also try letting Mother Goose have her chance. You can sing the rhymes or say them as long as you say them rhythmically. Don't try to hold his attention for too long a time in the beginning because at this age his attention span will be short. I think that after lunch or before bedtime would be the best time to try. Don't just decide all of a sudden that you want to read to him and take him away from his play.

I would like to hear from you agaio telling me what happened.

DEAR MRS. CULTON: Should I allow my child to read comic books?

Worried

Comic books are here to stay. Wise parents know this and try to handle the situation in a sensible way. Forbidden books arouse twice the interest they would if they were not forbidden. The urge to raad tham becomes so strong he will go to a friend's house or hide when ha reads them. They are going to read them one way or another.

The important thing is "What else does he do?" How much of his spare time does he spend reading comic books? There are several reasons why he buys these books. Prices vary from 10 to 25 cents and he is usually counting his spending budget carefully.

A comic book story moves fast and there is a great deal of plot and action. It takes no real effort on his part to read and understand this material. They are fun to collect and exchange. Last, but not least, many children would like to do the things that Batman or Dennis the Menace do but couldn't or wouldn't dare.

If teachers and parents have over the years shared stories, poems, and books with a child, comic books will not hold a place of too much importance to your child.

DEAR MRS. CULTON: What can I do to help my child to learn to spell?

A worried mother

First- Your child must learn to hear the sounds in words.

Second - He must know the letters which stand for the sounds.

Third - Look at words to see if they are spelled the way they sound. Children who have had no ear training will have trouble. (Talk to his teacher about this.)

Fourth - If a word is not spelled as it sounds then your child must study the word. Pronounce the word and use it in a sentence. Have him repeat the letters in the word by looking at the book. Tell him to close his eyes and repeat the letters in the word. You might try having him trace the latters in the air using his fingers. You could have him pretend he is a sky writer. Then he should write the word on paper without looking at the book.

If you are going to make a habit of helping your child with spelling you should use his school spelling book as your guide. This book is written by experts and carefully chosen by your school's teachers.

DEAR MRS. CULTON: How can I help my child learn to enjoy good literature?

Love of good literature must be started with the preschool child and continued through the years. A mother who doesn't read will find it difficult to create a love of good books in her children and a teacher who doesn't read will have the same problems.

We must start the habit of deriving sheer enjoyment from the written page. Read the best to your child. Classics and more classics -- Winnie the Pooh, Peter Pan, Alice in Wonderland, Rootabaga Stories and many more. Make it a habit to read poetry to your child. Let him read with you and to you -- books he can understand and love.

Young adults fail when they build a house without a place for books, and when they use only the television set. Where we succeed is when we build a house around books and as Harry Golden might say, "Read! Read! Enjoy! Enjoy!

DOCTOR SAYS

Ganglions, Not Serious Are Best Let Alone

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Ganglion, a rather common lesion, is a hernia or rupture of the enveloping capsule of one of the joints between the small bones of the wrist. It is sometimes called a synovial cyst. It is seen more often in women than in men but the cause is not known.

It is not serious and in most persons, produces no symptoms. A few, however, may complain of weakness in the wrist and of mild pain on making a tight fist.

A ganglion sometimes disappears spontaneously or when it accidentally receives a hard blow. Many ganglions have been treated at home by administering a sharp blow with the family Bible, but this treatment is not recommended because of the danger of a more serious injury. Following this treatment the ganglion usually returns.

If it causes no trouble and is not too noticeable, it is best to leave it alone.

Complete surgical removal is advised by some authorities but this involves a prolonged recovery period. Most doctors prefer a simpler method of treatment, such as withdrawal of the fluid through a syringe, then injecting hydrocortisone into the cyst.

Another method that has been highly successful is drawing a suture through the cyst, tying it loosely in place and gently pressing the fluid out. A sterile dressing is then applied and every day the dressing is removed so that the suture can be drawn back and forth. After eight or nine days, the cyst is empty and the suture has caused a foreign body reaction which prevents a recurrence.

Q -- I do a lot of housecleaning with ammonia. Are the fumes harmful to the lungs?

A -- Although a heavy exposure to ammonia fumes following an industrial accident may cause damage to the lungs, liver and kidneys, the household use of ammonia would irritate only the nose, throat and eyes. This can be minimized by working with the windows open or by using an electric fan in the room.

Q -- Can a 55-year-old woman catch chicken pox? Several days after exposure to this disease, I broke out with a large number of very itchy pimples all over my body.

A -- Anyone who has never had chicken pox can get it. It is called a childhood disease only because that is when most people have it. Your description would surely fit this diagnosis.

Q -- X rays of a relative who is 65 show calcium deposits in his aorta. Can anything be done for this?

A -- The deposits cannot be dissolved. Surgical removal is sometimes possible. For ways to prevent further progress of this disease, see preceding question.

A -- Only insofar as it helps to reduce the blood cholesterol level when it is given in large doses.

Earthquake

By Catherine O'Donnell

It was amazing on Saturday to discover how many knowledgeable people recognized the earthquake for what it was.

Raymond O'Donnell was in his office at United Air Lines huge building on Algonquin Road when he distinctly felt his chair shaking. He looked at the window and the venetians blinds were shaking.

In the Barber Shop at Arlington Market, Maurice Ryan, one of the barbers was talking to his wife Sue. Their home is on Fairview in Mount Prospect.

She told him how she heared this loud sound and thought their two children were jumping around in their bedroom. She ran in to chastise them and they were sitting quietly reading books.

"It looks as if the room is tipping," she told Manager Carl Peterson.

There were all kinds of similar reports from people who knew something was happening but didn't exactly know what.

One man drove into Chicago to meet an old friend. He called his wife to say they had met and while they talked, he reported that the telephone was dancing across the desk.

"You started pretty early," she said as she hung up.

"And I didn't have a drink," he moaned.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

David Toepke, the vocational counselor at Hersey, did not have his car and he was scheduled to attend a meeting last Friday afternoon away from the building. That simple fact started a chain of events that would make a good episode in a situation comedy.

He asked Police Counselor Mike Schenkal if he could borrow his car.

"It's a green 1952 Oldsmobile," Mike told him giving him the keys. Dave went out into the parking lot found the green Oldsmobile, got in, started it and drove off.

A short time later one of the construction workers came hurrying into Counselor Schenkel's office. Someone had taken his car, he said. It was a green 1962 Oldsmobile.

Mike went into the parking lot with the man to make certain that he had not parked it in a different spot. He walked past his own car and thought briefly that Toepke must have returned earlier than expected.

Mike and the owner of the missing car went back into the school building after searching unsuccessfully and Mike called the police.

When the police came, Mike had second thoughts about the speed of the Toepke's meeting. He said he wouldn't be back for a couple of hours and yet Mike's car was back.

The police took down the license number of the missing car and things were beginning to really churn when Counselor Toepke returned.

He was in the missing car. He had gone out, didn't quite remember what year model Mike had said, got into the first green Oldsmobile he'd seen, and drove off when the keys fitted.

However, all's well that ends well. All three drivers were re-united with their own cars.

Tame Panthers 47-6

Cards Close Out Most Successful Season Ever

By Curt Wilson

The Arlington Cardinal football squad capped their 1968 season and finalized their undisputed claim on the Mid-Suburban League crown with a 47-6 devastation of Glenbard North, bringing to a close a string of nine wins and no losses.

The Cards coasted all the way, comandeering a 34-0 lead before the half. Glenbard managed to break through the solid Arlington defense once in the second half, but they were allowed a mere 14 yards and a single first down in the first half, which was the Cardinals' half all the way.

IN THE GAME, halfback Dennis Meacham put the Cardinals over the 300 points-scored mark as he tallied the sixth touchdown for Arlington in the second half.

After the first kick-off, the Panthers were pushed back into a fourth-and-21 situation and forced to punt, leaving the Cards on the Glenbard North.

The strong running of Meacham pushed the ball to two first downs and the Panther 15 yard line. Dean Schmelzer carried to the nine, Meacham added another yard and fullback Dave Ewart swept left to make the first Arlington touchdown with 5:58 left in the first period.

JAY HARRIS was successful on the extra point boot, giving the Cards the lead that was not endangered at any point in the game.

As in their first try, the Panthers were contained by the hard-hitting Card defense, picking up only a yard in four tries.

The second time they took over the ball, the Cardinals scored again, as they did the first seven times they touched the ball.

WILL HEINEMANN ran back the punt to the Arlington 44, and skull-crushing Meacham added five more yards. Quarterback Todd Somers hit end Jim Baumgartner with a pass at the Panther 45, and Baumgartner picked his way to the 33.

Meacham carried again, this time to the 27, and Somers again connected with an aerial to Baumgartner, who was waiting at the 13.

Two plays yielded no gain, but with a fourth and three situation, reliable Meacham got the first down at the three, and scored on the following play with eight seconds left in the quarter. Harris missed the PAT.

ON THE NEXT set of plays, Glenbard picked up their only first down of the half, and came within three yards of another before relinquishing the ball.

Arlington took over at their own 46, and Ewart ran for a yard on the first play. Somers hit Schmelzer with a pass at the Panther 40 and the fleet slotback made his way to the 30.

Somers kept for five yards, and Dan Selleck was on hand to recover a fumble on the next play and prevent a loss of the ball or yardage.

EWART MADE it all the way to the six, and Meacham added another yard. Somers faded and then went left to the four. Ewart carried next and came within about six inches of the TD.

The next time, Ewart made sure he was over the line for the third Card touchdown at 5:53 in the second quarter, and Harris sailed the extra point attempt through the uprights for a 20-0 lead for Arlington.

When they took posession of the ball again, the Panthers were plagued first by a delay of game penalty, and then a missed pass by Glenbard quarterback Jeff Dowd.

On the next play, Heinemann snatched on a fly the ball after it popped out of Dowd's arms and ran it back 25 yards for another quick score at 4:55. Harris' PAT was once again good.

THE ALERT Baumgartner recovered the kickoff at the Panther 45, putting the Cardinal scoring apparatus in motion again. Meacham picked up two yards, and Somers missed a pass before Schmelzer broke to the 38.

From the 38, reserve fullback Mike DeZonna ran away with the ball for a touchdown at 3:04, and Harris sealed an almost insurmountable lead of 34-0 as the half ended.

The Cardinals seemed more relaxed in the second half, playing more of a defense-oriented game rather than the offensive game played earlier. Somers fumbled the first time Arlington had the ball in the second half, leaving the Panthers at the Arlington 21 and setting them up for their only score.

Even so, Glenbard had their problems on the road to their only score of the cold evening. The referees greeted them with a call of illegal procedure on the first play, but quarterback Dowd bounced back with a pass that halfback John Glenn was barely able to haul in at the five.

RUNNING PLAYS showed no gain for the Panthers on their next two tries, so Dowd took to the air again and found Glenn in the endzone and connected on an aerial that accounted for only the fourth TD that got past the steadfast Arlington defense all season.

Ewart returned the kickoff 15 yards to the Card 40, and Somers hit Baumgartner at about the line of scrimmage, and the quick end added 40 yards to the play on his own running capabilities.

The Somers-to-Baumgartner worked again, this time to the Panther 17. Meacham worked up to the four, Ewart rushed to the one, and Meacham scored on his second try to put the Cards over the 300 mark at 6:21 in the third quarter. Harris missed the PAT, leaving it 40-6 for Arlington.

THE FIRST time, Will Heinemann dropped back and attempted his first pass of the season. He found his target in Baumgartner at the Panther nine. The next play showed a four-yard loss, but then Meacham cracked a few shoulders en route to the six.

Somers lost his footing and was nailed at the 12, but redeemed himself with a touchdown pass on the next play to Baumgartner.

Harris completed the scoring for the season for perhaps the most successful squad in the history of Arlington High School with his PAT leaving the final score at a romping 47-6 for the Cardinals.

Arlington two-sides end Jim Baumgartner breaks away from Glenbard North's Don Anastasi (21) and John Glenn (22) after hauling in a Todd Somers aerial at the line of scrimmage and breaks away for a 40-yard run.

Falcons Fall in Last Minute, 6-0

Falcon Bos Kasper (13) takes a Fremd pass away from halfback Larry MacPhee as Rick Weaver (81) moves in on the play.

By Jim Ewart

If the Forest View-Fremd game had been a minute shorter, it would have ended in a deadlock, but instead it recorded as a mark in the win column for the Vikings at 6-0.

The Falcon offensive unit pushed deep into Viking territory five times during the afternoon moving withio the 10 yard line twice, inside the 20 on two occasions, and to the 24 of Fremd. However, on each instance the Viking defense tightened to deny FV from realizing a score, and their second conference victory.

FOREST VIEW'S defensemen, not to be out done, allowed Fremd to penetrate and threaten only once to the 11 yard line keeping the Vikings at bay while possessing the ball during the remainder of the contest by both rushing and passing.

The Falcons began their total domination in the first quarter as quarterback Doug Hotchkiss hit Jim Daggett on a seven-yard pass play. Thor Hibbler broke through the Fremd defensive line for a gain of seven and a first down, and in the same drive Keith Bauer, running from fullback, drove for 12 and another first down. However, the drive ended when a Falcon fumble was recovered Fremd's Steve Deverea.

Fremd was unable to get going and was forced to punt on fourth down after which Hotchkiss threw again to Daggett, this time for eight yards and a first down. After four additional downs though, FV had punted to the Vikings and, as Bob Moloznik, halfback, hit the unyielding Falcon defensive line the ball was knocked out of his grasp and FV again owned the ball which was recovered for them by center Chris Janczkowski.

FALCON BAUER bolted for 12, and five more for a first down followed by a Hotchkiss to Daggett aerial for 11, and Bauer carried for seven yards to the Fremd four where the drive ended as FV ran out of downs before they could score.

The Vikings again had the ball only four downs and punted to their 30 on fourth. Hibbler sprinted to the Fremd 18 for a gain of 13 on the Falcon's first play, and Bauer returned the ball to the four where it had rested moments before covering 14 yards on the way, and drove to the two on the next play. In a second and two situation the Falcons were penalized five yards for illegal procedure and the Falcons, after a three-yard dive by Daggett, could move no closer prompting them to attempt a field goal that failed.

Fremd took over, first and 10 on their 20, and on second down, FV's Howard Mock picked off a Tom Bruns pass on the 35, while one play later a Hotchkiss pass was grabbed by Viking Chuck McGuinn, who returned it to the Falcon 47. Fremd, after three downs, fumbled to Forest View's Bob Kasper and the Falcons moved the ball seven yards before the half ended.

FOREST VIEW kicked to Fremd to open the second half, driving to the Falcon 42 as halfback Bob Gill ran for 18 in three carries before Kasper intercepted another Bruns pass for the Falcons at the FV 18.

Forest View was unable to gain more than seven in three attempts and on fourth down punted and, almost in imitation, Fremd, came up short and punted after gaining only six. The Falcons again failed to move after a penalty and a fumble Kasper recovered, consequently FV puated with fourth and 12.

The Vikings went incomplete on first down and on second down Bruns found a receiver, Falcon Kasper, who took the ball to the Fremd 45 where he was bit out of bounds by Bill McGuinn, and Fremd was charged with a personal foul and penalized 15 yards as a result.

Forest View then moved to the Fremd 13 before they were turned back and forced to give up the ball. Fremd could not move out from deep in their own territory, punted, and then recovered a fumble to move to the Forest View 47 were Kasper again intercepted a Bruns pass and gave the ball to Forest View at their 37.

THE FALCONS failed to move the ball after three downs and punted on fourth to the Fremd 30, and after three impotent plays, the Vikings attempted a fake punt but failed to make the yardage, which resulted ia a Forest View takeover. Dave Long rushed from the quarterback slot for nine and skirted left end for three more for the first down ia a shot gun formation. Long then attempted a pass that went astray, and Fremd took over on their 13 yard line.

Fremd could make no headway and punted allowing FV to put the ball in play on their own 49 yard line. There Long Hit Rich Olsen for 11 yards and a first down, while the next pass missed and, on second down, lost 18 after Long dropped to pass and found no open receivers. On third down, a bad snap put the Falcons farther back and on fourth down Long was in punt formation with less than a minute left to play. After receiveing the snap from center Long's punt attempt was blocked by Viking Scott Murphy and gathered up by Chuck Goodman for the game's only score.

As the final seconds ran out FV was unable to go the distance and Fremd ied when the gun sounded 6-0.

The effort that won and lost the game. Falcon Dave Long's punt is blocked by Scott Murphy of Fremd, after which the blocked punt was picked up and lugged in for the only score of the game by Chuck Goodman of the Vikings.

Horoscope

FOR WEDNESDAY

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) -- Allow your interests to run equally between work and play. A good day for the Scorpio who acts instinctively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) -- Take advantage of a quiet day to gain some meaningful insight into yourself. Your way of doing things may need changing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) -- The Capricorn who exaggerates his financial status may well be in for an unpleasant surprise late in the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) -- Strive for control over your emotions. This is a day which could easily create confusion for you if you fail to be rational.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 21) -- Productivity wins the day for Pisces. Knowing people of influence will do you little good at this time.

ARIES (March 22 - April 20) -- A day when the practical Aries can have it all over the competition. Don't fall victim to your own powers of imagination.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21) -- This can be a melodramatic day in every way. Get the most mileage you can out of ordinary happenings.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) -- You can raise yourself above your present level of thought and productivity -- and in so doing gain an advantage you thought lost.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) -- Ideas with no practical basis should be jettisoned without hesitation. Now is the time to latch on to stark realism.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) -- If you fail to understand another's motives, you will surely fail to understand his action. Make a study of the situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) -- It is the earnestness of your purpose that counts most today. Don't be afraid to ask another for advice.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) -- Bone up on social and political goings on. You need all the information you can get if you are to win a vital argument.

Rev. Lindstrom Takes Pueblo Plea to State Department

By Gary Shiffman

The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom of Prospect Heights, national chairman of the "Remember the Pueblo" crusade, observed Veterans Day by flying to Washington, D.C., in a renewed appeal for the release of the Pueblo and its 82 crew members.

Lindstrom of 203 E. McDonald conferred with Winthrop Brown, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, and conducted a service at the John Paul Jones Naval Memorial.

Also in Washington were Michael Sherman of 1720 S. Cumberland, Park Ridge, Chicago area coordinator for "Remember the Pueblo," and four members of the family of one of the captured crewmen. They are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Layton and their sons, Fred Jr., 28, and Richard, 25, of Binghamton, N.Y.

"We felt that Veterans Day was appropriate for our visit," said Lindstrom, "because the thoughts of the nation are naturally directed toward our servicemen, past and present. The safe and prompt return of our 82 sailors should be an integral part of those thoughts."

LINDSTROM, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty, said he spoke briefly with Sec. of State Dean Rusk when his group arrived at the State Department. Rusk then called Brown and arranged the meeting.

"The purpose of the meeting," Lindstrom said, "was twofold. We wanted to determine if the United States had any new course of action for bringing the return of the men from North Korea and we wanted to show publicly that the parents and relatives of the crewmen were not satisfied with the present course of events."

Lindstrom, 28-year-old father of two girls, said the presence of the Layton family was one of the few public appearances of a Pueblo crewmen's family.

"The State Department has put pressure on all the families in an effort to prevent them from making public statements on the Puebleo matter," the pastor said. But he said "they are slowly coming out of the shell of quietness," the pastor said.

Lindstrom said he expects many of the families to be in Washington for a rally Jan. 23 marking the first anniversary of the capture of the ship off North Korea.

BROWN OFFERED no new hope for the return of the ship and men, Lindstrom said.

"He said diplomatic meetings with the North Koreans will continue-- there have been 24 such meetings in the 293 days since the ship was captured-- but there are no other plans for bringing about the return," Lindstrom said.

Lindstrom quoted Brown as saying "The return may take a long, long time."

He said Brown became irritated when the visitors pressed him for answers to some of their questions.

"I asked if he considered the action of the North Koreans to be criminal," Lindstrom said.

"He said 'yes.'

"I then asked why one branch of the government, the State Department, negotiates with criminals if another branch of the government, the FBI, will not negotiate with criminals.

"At that point Brown became angry saying, "Rev. Lindstrom, we have discussed the situation before and I have nothing else to say now.' At that point he ended the meeting."

Lindstrom said he had spoken to Brown and Rusk early in July.

"At that time," Lindstrom said, "Brown was rather surprised at the facts we had obtained concerning the Pueblo situation."

Rusk according to the pastor was made a charter member of the "Remember the Pueblo" committee early in July after the secretary stated publicly that he considered himself a charter member of any organization working for the repatriation of the Pueblo and its crew.

"Rusk," said Lindstrom, "recently asked that his name be removed from the organization's letterheads, though he has not formally resigned as a charter member."

LINDSTROM said he is concerned about the "seeming lack of concern by the government."

"Not only have our negotiations been unsuccessful," said Lindstrom, "but the government has also kept the nation in the dark about many aspects of the Pueblo incident."

Lindstrom pointed out that most of the letters from the captured crewmen to their families have been postmarked in the United States-- either in New York or Florida. He said he was told by Brown that the letters probably were being mailed by diplomats from Communist countries.

"Most of the letters," Lindstrom said, "have been turned over to the State Department by the families. Mrs. Layton has pointed out publicly that three letters from her son were identical down to the last word."

THE WASHINGTON service consisted of prayers and Scripture reading.

Lindstrom, who spoke briefly to President-elect Richard M. Nixon during his visit to Prospect High School Oct. 19, said he hopes to have further contact with Nixon concerning the Pueblo after he becomes President Jan. 20.

"We will invite Mr. Nixon to our rally Jan. 23," Lindstrom said, "and we hope he or one of his aides will speak at the rally."

"We will also attempt to contact all the senators and representatives to invite them to the rally," he said, adding that many of the congressmen including Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) and Rep. Donald Rumsfeld (R-Ill.) have announced their support for the "Remember the Pueblo" crusade.

Christmas Parade Fund Drive Goes Over Top

By Barry Petersen

The drive to raise $10,000 for the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce Christmas parade ended Tuesday when the fund reached $10,020 Chamber executive manager Harold Bell said yesterday.

The drive to reach the $10,000 goal had been faltering during October, but pledges and contributions have pushed the fund "over the top," Bell said.

THE PARADE, scheduled for 9:45 a.m., Nov. 30, will feature some 40 balloons in the shape of animals and fairy tale figures.

The contract with Giant Balloon Parades, Inc., a New Jersey firm, was signed last Sept. 18. At that time, collected funds covered the cost of the parade.

Bell said about 20 per cent of the $10,000 has been earmarked for Christmas decorations in the downtown area. Two weeks ago a Chamber committee toured downtown Arlington Heights and finalized plans for the decorations.

Bell said plans at that time included the decoration of light poles along Northwest Hwy. from Evergreen to Highland with evergreen garlands and Italian (Small) Christmas lights.

THREE Christmas trees will be decorated, said Bell. The trees will be located at:

--The municipal parking lot on Dunton.

--On Evergreen by the North Western station.

--On Northwest Hwy. on the island at the Highland intersection.

Bell said smaller trees in parking lots along Davis will also be decorated.

"Also this year we'll have the nativity scene at the northwest corner of Davis and Arlington Heights Rd. It was very effective last year, and I think it will be even more so this year."

He said the nativity scene will again be floodlighted.

"The emphasis this year is on natural greenery," Bell said. "We don't want plastic decorations. We want the real thing."

THE CHAMBER has ordered 6,000 light bulbs for expansion of last year's decorations and for replacements, said Bell.

Bell said the low cost of the decoration downtown - $2,000 - "is made possible because the village public works department has offered to do the work involved." This year's decoration expenditures are about $600 more than last year when the Chamber spent $1,389 on Christmas decorations downtown.

He said public works director Gene Willroth was included in the tour to finalize the Christmas plans.

"We couldn't do it without their help," Bell said.

The chamber is also trying to have decorations on local stores tie in with the overall downtown decorations, Bell said, "so they can light their premises and tie into the overall scheme as we have done in the past."

THE CHRISTMAS parade will feature 40 large balloons, made by the same company that manufactures the balloons for the Gimbal's parade in New York City.

Included with the balloons will be floats sponsored by civic, church, and business organizations.

The parade theme is, "Arlington Heights Voices of Christmas," Bell said, and a $100 prize will be presented to the best civic or church float in the parade.

Tentative plans call for the estimated 100 unit parade to form at Arlington Park at the corner of Wilke and Euclid, move south on Wilke to Campbell, along Campbell through the central business district, to Dunton, then north on Dunton to Miner to the Miner Junior High School where the parade will dissemble.

Chamber officials estimate a crowd of about 100,000 will line the parade route.

"It's the first balloon parade in the Chicago area," Bell said. "If it's successful we hope to make it an annual event."

"Sleeping Beauty," a 50 foot balloon, will be one of 40 balloons featured in the Nov. 30 parade sponsored by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. Chamber executive manager Harold Bell said yesterday the $10,000 goal for the parade and for Christmas decorations was reached and passed.

Track Limits Racing Hours In Its Petition

Arlington Park officials yesterday specifically asked for racing hours between 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. for the 1969 racing season.

The track is not obligated to designate hours, and must only conform to Illinois Racing Board regulations that racing be held between noon and midnight.

A final decision on racing hours for the track will be made Saturday when the board meets.

The move drew praise from Arlington Heights village officials.

Mayor John Woods said he is "pleased and gratified" at the change in the petition, which will be decided on by the state board Saturday.

"I'm very pleased that we apparently have avoided protracted and acromonious debate and possible litigation," Woods said in a prepared statement after the tracks action yesterday.

Report Tells Village

Decide First Things First

By Mary Zoeckler

A solution for problems caused by Arlington Heights' "transportation corridor" - Northwest Hwy. and Chicago and North Western Ry. - should not be prepared until other problems are resolved.

Any changes to be made in traffic flow, parking and commuter operations should precede a decision on the highway and railroad that bisect the business district, a new planning report suggests.

The $25,000 De Lauw, Cather and Co. preliminary planning report, commissioned by the village's board of trustees, recommends other central business district policies be determined first, because of the permenance of any change in the elevation of roadways and railway through the village.

THE PLANNING firm has prepared a series of four reports on land use, parking, circulation or traffic flow and grade separations - considered critical planning areas - in the recently-completed year's study of Arlington Heights' central business district.

The board of trustees and other village officials will meet with a representative of De Leuw, Cather and Co. Thursday to discuss the report and the village's objectives in the areas studied.

Studies were made of four alternative methods of raising or lowering railroad crossings. All alternatives included recommendations for improving the intersection of Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy.

The company said "track depression would offer the most benefits to the community," though this would be substantially more expensive than construction of automobile underpasses or overpasses.

Estimates of the cost of depressing the railroad tracks are from $15 to $21.2 million, while elevating the railway cost estimates range from $5.6 to $10.8 million, depending on the number built.

THE REPORT said elevating the railroad tracks to provide underpasses would result in unattractive structures and land fill in the village.

Disadvantages of depressing the tracks in addition to the cost include the problems of engineering a track 30 feet below the present level.

Before considering raising or lowering the railway level, the planning consultants advised the village to promote additional general retail space in the south portion of the central business district to compete with area shopping centers.

Woman Gets $350,000 In Mate's Plane Death

A Palatine woman has received a $350,000 settlement in the death of her husband who was killed in a plane crash in 1966.

Mrs. Anita Holman of 35 Pleasant Hill Blvd. was awarded the settlement for the death of her husband, Jack, who died in January, 1966, in the crash of an Air India jet near Zurich, Switzerland.

The settlement was approved by Judge Robert Dunna of Cook County Circuit Court.

Holman was a project director for a Des Plaines manufacturing firm at the time of the accident. He was in Europe on a business trip.

Mrs. Holman's suit charged the airline with operating the jet in a careless and negligent manner and charged that the plane was flying at less than the legal minimum altitude when it struck a mountain and burned.

District 59 Schools May Get U.S. Grant

More money for District 59 schools?

Maybe.

Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights has just been named one of the nation's 50 top schools for its program of individualized instruction to students. It is the only school in Illinois on the list.

NOW THE U.S. Office of Education will decide whether to choose Low as one of its model schools, and to give it a special grant. Decision date: probably March.

November 21 is "we'll-let-you-know" date for a Northwest Suburban Education Center, which District 59 would run for 10 area school systems. Federal funds requested total $85,038 for a three-year period. Colleges and universities would also be involved in the teacher-training project. And Holmes Junior High School, in Mount Prospect, is in the running for a grant from the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis. If chosen, the school would be one of seven in the country to receive this recognition.

DR. GENE L. Schwilck, vice president of the Danforth Foundation, who visited Holmes last week, said that his group would announce its decision in late spring.

Trustee Wants to End Planning, Decide Now

Reaction to the De Leuw, Cather and Co. report on preliminary planning in Arlington Heights included a call for "practical answers and permanent solutions to the problems of the village."

Charles Bennett, a member of the village board of trustees, in a written statement to the board, said "after 18 years of listening and participating, I am thinking in terms of more permanent solutions."

"We spend $25,000 for a study and they spend the first $15,000 figuring out who we are and where we live," Bennett said. The village has commissioned four similar studies since 1954.

Bennett's suggestions included adopting the planning consultant's proposal to raise the railway elevation, the less expensive proposal which would change the level of the tracks.

The two main problems considered in Bennett's detailed report-the railroad traffic problems and congestion at the intersection of Northwest Hwy. and Arlington Hts. Rd.- both would be solved by grade separations.

"If we make a decision now to elevate the railroad tracks, it will be several years before the job would be done," he said.

The board member dismissed the proposal to depress the tracks as "not economically feasible."

"My main purpose in the statement is to stimulate discussion and policy decision. If we start now to make a long-range program, we can deal with other areas like parking and traffic as they come up," Bennett said.

Educator Suggests 20 Experiments Child Can Try at Home—and Safely

By Donald H. Rick
Science Co-ordinator
Palatine District 15

Recent trends in science education involve students in using the scientific method. Children design experiments. They make observations, form hypotheses, predict results, and test theories.

1. Does water always circle around your sink drain in the same direction? What do you predict? Try it.

2. Poke two holes in the bottom of a tin can, one twice as large as the other. Would you think that twice as much water would come out of the large hole as the small one? How could you find out?

3. Measure the temperature of the air in your bedroom at a level one foot above the floor, two feet above, three feet above, and so on. How can you explain the results?

4. Make two electromagnets by winding wires around two spikes. Wind one with 25 turns of wire and the other with 50 turns of wire. Would you predict that the one with 50 turns would be twice as strong? Try it and see.

5. Cut enough lengths of soft iron wire to equal the size of a spike in length. Wrap 50 turns of insulated wire around the bundle of soft iron wire to make an electromagnet. Replace the bundle of wires with a spike. What difference did you notice between the magnetism of the spike and the bundle of wires?

6. Predict which will stay warm longer—your mother's iron or a hot water bottle of the same weight. Try it. What hypothesis would you give to explain the results.

7. Plant two seeds. Keep one in the dark and one in the light. Predict what will happen. Does it?

8. Plant two seeds, one in moist soil, the other one under water. Predict what will happen. Try it and see. Can you explain the results?

9. Drop a lump of white sugar into a glass of water. Wait a few minutes. Where did it go? Why can't you see it anymore?

10. Tie a paper clip to the bottom end of a thread about 10 inches long to make a pendulum. Try hooking various numbers of iron washers on the paper clip to see if the number of washers affects the number of swings per minute the pendulum will make.

What would be your predictions? Try it and see. Try changing the length of the string.

11. Devise an experiment to see how much a reading glass or a pair of binoculars magnifies.

12. Make a graph of your body temperature every hour or every two hours from the time you get up till you go to bed. How would you explain the results?

13. Find out how much water would be wasted if you had a leaky faucet. (Catch the drops in a bowl and see how much is wasted in one hour).

14. Do magnets attract metals? Try pennies, nickels, quarters, and aluminum.

15. Will magnets attract paper clips through paper? Glass? Can you find some material that magnetism won't go through?

16. Comb your hair briskly several times. Then bring one end of the comb near (but not touching) a tiny stream of steadily running water from a faucet. What do you observe? Can you explain it?

17. Stick a straight pin through a small cardboard circle about two inches in diameter. Blow down through a spool of thread. (Have the carboard against the bottom of the spool, with the pin in the hole of the spool.) Take your hand off of the cardboard while you are blowing. What happens? Why?

18. Hang two apples from two long strings so that the apples will be about one inch apart. Predict what will happen if you blow between them. Try it. Were your predictions correct?

19. Drop a small needle gently onto the surface of still water on a dish. How can you explain what happened?

20. Place a playing card on top of a glass tumbler. Place a quarter on top of the card and over the center of the tumbler. Snap the card off the tumbler with your finger and thumb. What happens to the coin. Why?

MERKELBACH SALTGLAZED STONEWARE
from Germany

You must see it to appreciate the unusual beauty and quality.
- EACH PIECE IS AN ORIGINAL
- TIMELESS ... ALWAYS IN FASHION
- TRUE CERAMIC INSULATION
- STANDS UP TO DAILY USE

Saltglazed stoneware from the Reinhold Merkelbach pottery in Germany was much favored by the settlers of the Colonial period. You may see it at Williamsburg or at the Ford Museum.
A great part of the charm of saltglazed stoneware it its uneven finish. Its surface offers constant surprises, because it has been licked by the flames of a fire set to reach 2400° F. and it takes on unpredictable patterns as it absorbs the sizzling particles of salt which make the difference between an ordinary pot and saltglazed stoneware from Merkelbach.

Day Light

The River Flowed Backwards

BY RICHARD CRABB

"The Mississippi River flowed backwards for four days."

The weekend earthquake that shook the Midwest from Oklahoma to Wisconsin was fortunately just below the Richter scale destructive point of 6. Although the western part of the United States is considered to be earthquake country, generally overlooked is the fact that the greatest earthquake of which we know since the Mayflower landed at Plymouth Rock took place right in this same area of the midwest. The earthquake over the past weekend may well have been a "curtain call" to the big one.

IN TERMS of rearranging the countryside, the biggest earthquakes since the United States was established, or ever to shake the United States, took place in a period of 53 days between Dec. 16, 1811 and Feb. 7, 1812. The area most vitally affected was from Memphis to St. Louis, the same area most violently shaken this past weekend.

This was just six years before Illinois became a state. Fortunately, the entire area most severely affected was only lightly populated with Indians and even more sparsely populated by whites and Negroes.

IT IS natural for us to be stricken with terror when something upsets the balance of nature as we have come to know it such as sudden, unexplained darkness in midday, a mountain shaken to pieces or a river suddenly cut off. There are thousands of persons in southern Illinois, western Kentucky and Tennessee, eastern Missouri and Arkansas for whom the earthquake this weekend held a special, almost personal meaning.

I've talked to some of them. One man told me that his grandfather had talked to "a lot of men who had seen the Mississippi River flow backwards for four days." There was evident a trace of the fright on the man's face that the Midwest pioneers had felt when the ground shook with a violence to knock people from their feet, a violence that caused the landscape to sink or rise and leave large crevasses in the ground.

Few saw the great reverse flow of the mighty Mississippi River, but in a remarkably short time everyone knew of it for hundreds of miles around.

THERE ARE many lasting evidences of the great quakes that occurred 155 years ago.

One of them is Reelfoot Lake in the northwestern tip of Tennessee, just west of Union Town on 45W, the Chicago to Memphis highway. Hundreds of fishermen from the northwest suburbs have gone to Reelfoot Lake to fish for trout, one of the great havens for this sport to be found anywhere in the United States.

The depression in northwest Tennessee that makes possible Reelfoot Lake, and the beautiful Reelfoot National Wildlife Refuge that now surrounds it, was a result of these great earthquakes.

There were a number of such depressions, and it is thought that the reason the river flowed north for several days was to provide the water to fill these depressions, creating some impressive lakes such as Reelfoot and thousands of square miles of swampy land, especially on the west side of the river in southwestern Missouri.

AFTER crossing through this swampland in the Bootheel, that little tip which extends south out of Missouri into Arkansas, for what seemed endless hours, I once asked a native, his house built on high stilts to prevent water damage, if he ever got lost in roving the area.

"No, I've been confused at times for a day or two but I don't ever recollect being lost."

While we are not much concerned about it here in the Chicago area, you can be sure there are people in southern Illinois wondering if this quake might be the first of a series as was the case when the big one struck in December of 1811.

DOCTOR SAYS

Contacts Will Overcome Child's Extreme Shyness

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

A mother writes that her daughter, 6, is extremely shy. Her teacher says she will not take part in any school activities or play with the other children. Her behavior at home is perfectly normal.

This is not an uncommon problem in children who have not had much contact with children of the same age. Pushing them into large group activities will only aggravate the trouble.

This mother should invite one or two of her daughter's new acquaintances into her home two or three times a week. At first she should stay with them and keep the party going.

As her daughter comes to accept new friends, she should gradually increase the number and withdraw so that they can be on their own.

The child should not be scolded or teased about her shyness but, as she comes out of her shell, her mother should start in a quiet way to present the advantages of joining a Brownie group when she becomes old enough.

Q -- My daughter has a nervous habit of nicking at her upper lip until it bleeds. How can I get her to stop?

A -- She will have to do the stopping for herself. She may need the help of a child psychologist to find out why she does this. In addition to spoiling her looks, there is the danger of infection.

Q -- My child has molluscum contagiosum. What causes it? Is it serious? What treatment do you recommend?

A -- This skin disease is caused by a virus. It is not very contagious, but the victim may spread it from one part of his body to another. It is not serious. The usual treatment is to incise each papule, squeeze out the contents using aseptic precautions so as not to spread the infection and apply trichloracetic acid or silver nitrate to the cavity. If the disease is extensive, your doctor may also want to give your child a sulfa drug.

Q -- My son, 2½, is covered with spots that look like the start of chicken pox. A skin doctor says he has uticaria pigmentosa. What causes it? Can anything be done for it?

A -- In this disease hives develop, last for several weeks, then gradually become brown. The cause is probably an allergy. The lesions are aggravated by rubbing or scratching and, for this reason, a soothing lotion should be applied. An antihistamine usually shortens the course of the disease. Children often outgrow it.

Q -- My doctor says I have hardening of the arteries. My blood cholesterol is 389. Is this serious?

A -- The normal level is 160 to 230, but for safety's sake you should try to keep it under 210.

Q -- A friend died with arteriosclerotic CV disease. What is this and how does it affect a person?

A -- Arteriosclerotic cerebrovascular disease is hardening of the arteries in the brain. The manifestations vary with the severity of the lesion and the part of the brain involved.

Ruppert, the Mouse

By Catherine O'Donnell

There stood Father Robert Carey of St. Viator's High School for Boys looking at Ruppert. Ruppert was in a glass jar that stood on the counter in the school office.

Oblivious to the contemplative look of the priest, he nibbled away at some sort of grain that filled the bottom of his glass cage.

On the outside of the glass jar there was a pencil printed sign saying, "Please give me a home. My name is Ruppert."

"Two little girls just brought it in," said Father Carey. "They are donating it to the science department. Wait until Father Reardon sees this." Father Dan Reardon is head of the department.

One of the little girls left her name in case there were any more questions about the mouse. She is Janet Wilkiewicz of N. Dryden.

Ruppert is joining a collection of donated foundlings from the tiny animal world that inhabit the science department at the school. At the end of the school year, Father Reardon usually redistributes the gifts among the students because the school is closed during the summer.

"Sometimes," said Father Carey, looking happy about it, "we get calls from mothers of sons who bring home the snakes."

MAIL TO MANILA

Now see here, Sgt. Jay Chaiser. Will you please write home?

Jay is stationed with the Air Force in Manila and he gets a copy of the Arlington Day so his mother is sure he'll read that message.

The reason he isn't writing is that he is still on his honeymoon.

Jay was married Sept. 19 to Rose Alcid of the Phillipines. His mother, Mrs. Robert Chaiser, understands that the days are passing so quickly that there just isn't time enough for lengthy letters.

"The only thing I want to know," she said, "is whether Jay got the three pairs of size nine football shoes we sent him."

Sgt. Chaiser is the athletic director for the squadron. The shoes could not be found in the Phillipines so he wrote home asking for them.

The young couple should be headed home in the not too distant future.

But meanwhile, Jay, let the family know if the shoes arrived. The Robert Chaisers live on Rand Rd.

SEEING IS BELIEVING?

There at the corner of S. Windsor and Kensington was the car of the crossing guard, a Cadillac. And there in the center of the road was the guard beautifully dressed with a milk stole.

"How come?"

The woman lives very close to the corner and she was driving to the city to meet her husband for dinner when she saw this band of youngsters trying to cross Kensington.

"I couldn't pass them by. They were waiting such a long time. It was after the regular school hours so I just pulled up and got them across the street. Don't you dare mention my name."

ATTENTION GETTERS

People are talking about the organization of the campaign to support the grape pickers of California in their demand for a union.

The organizational meeting was scheduled to be held at the Northwest Opportunity Center last night.

At a previous meeting a representative of the United Farm Workers' Union described the history of the grape pickers' strike.

And people are talking about the young boys and girls in Palatine Township who are on their way to raising the $100,000 they need to build a youth center.

Residents are being asked to make loans by purchasing $25 bonds without interest. The money will be repaid in 12 years.

So far there are more than 300 youngsters in the organization. The eager kids will raise the money through door to door solicitation.

Just a Housewife

BY MARY BRUCE

Have you noticed lately how often we are urged to answer the question of our occupation with tones loud and clear? Not housewife in a humble voice but "HOUSEWIFE." Makes one wonder if there's an underground movement going on that we're not aware of.

Do you suppose that people who worry about things like this are afraid we are planning on resigning our jobs for something better? Maybe they are just trying to build up our jobs and egos so we won't feel dissatisfied.

Seems pretty silly to me, who ever heard of a mother turning in her resignation to the boss just because the hours were too long, no coffee breaks, poor transportation or the unco-operative attitude of her fellow workers?

CAN YOU imagine the boss placing an ad in the local paper reading "WANTED: Housewife to fill vacancy. Must have neat appearance and be healthy. Must be ex. in cooking, marketing, nursing, washing, ironing, painting, animal training, bookkeeping and other misc. odd jobs that may arise. Hours open, subject to the demands of the employer. Salary open to whatever you can salvage out of the household budget. Good working conditions with frequent coffee breaks permitted. Chauffeur's license a must."

If by chance any one should find the job intriguing, you could always do the interviewing and give her a rundown of the requirements of her new position.

FIRST AND foremost a housewife must always keep cupboards, shelves, and cookie jars filled so they can be emptied. She must wash dirty clothes so they are clean, so that she can iron the wrinkles, out, so they can be worn to get dirty and wrinkled, so she can do them over again. She will be required to make meals which take an hour or more, so that the members of the household can consume them in seven minutes flat.

For this her token payment may be a pat on the head from the head of the house, with an offhand remark such as "You're alright, kiddo." (This is one of the fringe benefits.) Immediately after this she can wash all the soiled dishes so they will be clean so she can get them soiled again.

WE WON'T mention the floors that are scrubbed so the kids of the house can track in mud, so she can do them over again, or the beds that have to be made so they can be unmade to sleep in.

Now, if all this doesn't discourage her and she asks for any other necessary requirements, you could elaborate a little and add your own observations. She must have the patience of a saint, the wisdom of a scholar, be impartial as a judge and knowledgeable as an encyclopedia. And, oh yes, as inexhaustible as a mule.

If she hasn't turned green by now and asked why no bonus was mentioned, you might gently explain that there are bonuses and bonuses.

FOR EXAMPLE, the spring bonus was a wilted bouquet of dandelions in a jelly jar. The Christmas bonus was an original sketch, my portrait done in living color, shocking pink and livid purple crayon. Of course, there are daily bonuses of peanut butter and jelly kisses at lunch time and maybe another pat on the head.

As the frightened applicant is scrambling out the door you might shout after her retreating back that you'd be happy to stay and show her around.

On second thought, this job sounds so good I think I'll stick around and keep all those bonuses for myself.

Wigs Are On Club Agenda

Baptist Women's Guild To View Church History

The Women's Guild of the South Church Community Baptist will see and hear some of the history of their church at their breakfast meeting Nov. 19, at 9:30 a.m. The meal will be followed by a program featuring the senior pastor of the church, the Rev. Edwin I. Stevens.

Pastor Steve, as he is commonly called, will show slides from interesting points in the history of the church and provide a historical commentary. He became the first pastor of South Church over thirty years ago, before the first unit was built.

The South Church began in 1937 with 42 members and experienced a fairly steady growth to its present approximately 1,000 members. It has undergone three building programs and is now in the process of studying its future needs and responsibilities.

PASTOR STEVE has indicated that the pictures shown to the women will include some of purely sentimental value - yesterday's children now grown to adulthood - and pictures which vividly illustrate the growing-up process through which the church has come.

Women of the Guild are asked to bring along slides or snapshots which would add to the historical perspective of the meeting. Scrapbooks of the church's earlier activities also will be on display.

Circle 5, with Mrs. O. E. Wilkinson as chairman, will serve this month. Reservations may be made through the church office, 253-0501. Free baby-sitter service is provided. Members are reminded to bring needles, straight pins and/or hooks and eyes, which will be sent to the Murrow Indian Children's Home in Bacone, Okla.

NOV. 14, five Women's Guild members will be attending the first United Nations Institute, at the La Grange Baptist Church. This is a new 2-year program of leadership development for American Baptist Women.

"The U.N. and the Mission of the Church" is the theme for the day-long meeting. Mrs. J. B. French, Women's Guild president, is in charge of reservations.

All women of Baptist churches in the Midwest are asked to give one book of trading stamps for the campaign which the Women's Auxiliary of Northern Baptist Theological Seminary has pledged $20,000 to help on the Student Commons Building on the campus.

Mrs. O. E. Wilkinson, and her Circle 5 members head the campaign for South Church.

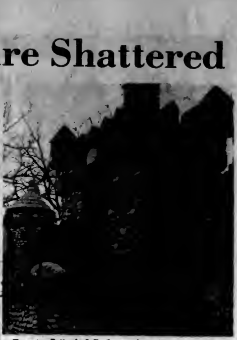
Princely Dreams Are Shattered

BY MARILYN HELFERS



To enter Bettendorf Castle you have to cross a moat on the realistic drawbridge.

Dreams of kings and queens and what it would be like to live in this real castle were shared by the thousands of visitors to Bettendorf Castle last weekend.

"You mean a REAL castle is for sale? Can we buy it? Wouldn't it be cool to live in a castle?"

The enthusiasm we had generated by announcing that we were going to visit a castle overwhelmed me. We thought the kids would enjoy seeing the Bettendorf Castle in Fox River Grove, but their wild imaginations had already begun to run rampant. They weren't even listening when I tried to explaio that we already had a house.

–"A real moat, keen – and a drawbridge, wow! Couldn't we buy it Dad – just for a summer house?"

While visions of prince charmings danced in their heads, we tried to calm the fire we had lit. With a fraction of success the oldest pleaded, "but if somebody gives it to me I can take it can't I?" How could we answer that without breaking her heart? So we didn't.

THERE WAS a mad race to the car and we were off (at long last) to see the castle. Little did our offsprings suspect that it was really their parents who wanted to see the inside of Bettendorf Castle.

For years as we had driven along Northwest Highway through Fox River Grove we had wondered and dreamed our own dreams of Camelot as we looked up the steep hill at the stone castle.

After all these years, we'd finally be able to see how it feels to be inside of a castle looking out.

OUR DREAM castle was built by Theodore Bettendorf, who grew up in Luxembourg – a land of castles. He often played in an unused castle near the town of Vianden. When he was 26, Bettendorf came to America. He lived in Chicago for a few years and then settled in Fox River Grove. He began work on his castle in 1931. Bettendorf was a machinist by trade until he retired in 1955.

He originally intended to simply build a three-room cottage for himself on the bluff overlooking the Chicago and North Western Railroad and U.S. 14, but when he found that his land was filled with rocks, his imagination began to work and he started to build his castle. He built it from his memory of the one in Vianden he had played in as a boy.

Now, since his death, the castle was being auctioned for his heirs who all live in Luxembourg.

FINDING a place to park wasn't easy. It seemed that everyone who had ever driven past the castle had nurtured a secret desire to see the inside of it. Policemen were busy directing heavy traffic and trying to keep pedestrians off the railroad tracks. We eagerly climbed the bluff to the stone fortess and waited in line with the thousands of other dreamers.

As we slowly wound through the stone walls there was plenty of time to admire the elaborate stone walls. The stones were set into concreta blocks and formed different patterns on the walls and turrets. (To illustrate just how slowly we were moving, we were able to pick out several fossils in the rocks that made up the walls.)

AS WE reached the drawbridge over the castle's moat, we looked down over the edge of the bluff – a spectacular view. The kids were intrigued by the guard turrets. Two little boys behind us climbed into one tower to watch the train go by below. "Where's the dragon?" they wanted to know. "Every castle has a dragon."

"I don't know," answered their father, "but I wish he'd blow some of his fire this way, I'm freezing."

"Look, Mom, there's a real wishing well," said our youngest.

"We're finally going to get inside," said the oldest. Sure enough, we had reached the house of the castle. Now we realized why it had taken us so long to get in – there was only one door in this magnificent castle and people going in and coming out had to go sideways to get through the front door.

"It's so dark in here. Boy, is this place small!" exclaimed one of our offspring. "They have to be kidding, this can't be all of it," said the other.

AS WE stepped into the living room of the castle, all of our dreams were shattered. The tiny room, with its buckled paneling had a fireplace that took up one wall. It was a beautiful fireplace – but that's about all there was room for, except the turret at one corner that served as a closet.

From the living room we entered a small corridor that was the kitchen. There was just enough room for a stove, sink end a cabinet (the refrigerator was in one of the bedrooms). A tower with a toilet was at the end of the kitchen. To the left of the kitchen was a cubicle of a bedroom with its own tower – a shower. To the right of the kitchen was the newest room of the castle, another bedroom.

This room hadn't been entirely finished before Bettendorf's death, but it was the nicest room in the house. Big windows overlooked the oak trees on the bluff and another window looked over the highway and railroad tracks.

THERE were hundreds of people inside the little house, but nobody was saying very much. Their dreams were probably in the same shattered state as mine. I felt sorry for the deceased owner of the castle. He had worked so hard and lived so simply.

Outside again we asked the kids how they liked the castle. The one who had been the most enthusiastic about owning the castle answered for all of us, "I wouldn't take it if they gave it to me!"

(P.S. Not everyone's dreams were shattered. The castle sold at auctioo for $81,000 to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wren of Highland Park who own an antique store in Highland Park. They plan to fix up the inside of the four-room castle and rent it to honeymooners.)

A&P vision has made America great

Men of vision and dedicated people have made America the industrial, manufacturing, and retailing leader of the world.

Take our founder as an example.
More than a century ago, he envisioned a new concept of efficient, low-cost mass food distribution. This concept set the stage for the development of today's modern A&P and for today's entire food retailing industry.

Similar vision characterizes the current management of A&P:

Men who recognize the cost-saving potential of computerized warehousing and ordering.

Men who are applying practical automation to manufacturing facilities.

Men who are relocating distribution centers to take advantage of modern transportation and roads.

Men who are constantly on the lookout for better, more efficient methods of food handling.

Men who are, as always, dedicated to the basic concept of our founder:
TO BRING THE MOST GOOD FOOD, TO THE MOST PEOPLE,
FOR THE LEAST AMOUNT OF MONEY.

All-Conference Team Named; 6 Cards, 5 'Cats Rate

By Linda Gammill
Sports Editor

The Mid-Suburban League All-Conference team for 1968 has been announced, and, as expected, it is crowded with players from the champion Arlington High School squad.

The Cardinals placed six men on the first team, three linemen and three backs. Wheeling also scored high on the list with five players making the team, four on the first team and one honorable mention.

PROSPECT HAD two linemen and one backfield man named to the conference squad, and one back was named honorable mention. Forest View and Elk Grove each had a lineman make the first voting and both also scored with a lineman on the honorable mention team. In addition, Elk Grove had a back named honorable mention.

The All-Conference line averages a solid 195 pounds and just a fraction over six feet tall. Only two juniors were named, both coming from Palatine High School.

THE HONORABLE mention team averages 176 pounds in the line and 166 in the backfield, and is just slightly shorter than the first team.

The backfield is made up of Jack Bastable of Wheeling; Todd Somers, Dave Ewart and Dennis Meacham of Arlington; Jim McGraw and Jim Farinosi of Conant; Phil Donahue of Palatine; Bob Gill of Fremd; and Mike Gaffney of Prospect.

Receiving honorable mention were lineman Bill Craighead of Wheeling; Bill Michalek of Forest View; Chuck Goodman and Kurt Jensen of Fremd; Bruck Rucks of Conant; John Glenn of Glenbard North; and Jim Holmes of Elk Grove.

Honorable mention in the backfield want to Chris Gruber of Elk Grove; Dave McKnight of Glenbard North; Al Bambrick of Palatine; and Scott Crawford of Prospect.

There were no juniors listed on the honorable mention team. Voting was completed Sunday evening and results were released last night. Coaches in the Mid-Suburban League were allowed to nominate six men from their squads, and the boys receiving the most votes were selected.

Shamrocks Stop St. Viator

By Bill Price

The St. Viator Lions suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of the St. Patricks Shamrocks Sunday afternoon. This loss, with the final score reading 26-18, decided the third and fourth place teams in the final standings of the Chicagoland Prep League.

From the start it appeared that the Lions might run into trouble as injuries plagued them throughout the first half. Junior end Denny Foreman was the first to feel the rough pace of the game as he incurred an arm injury after being tackled hard by a Shamrock halfback early in the second period. Senior Bob Batchelor also was not up to his full strength, this being due to a severe leg injury suffered in the Lions' game with St. Joseph last week.

JUNIORS MIKE Abinati and Bill Madden made up the slack for the injured Batchelor in the first half however and senior Larry Quinnet made a brillant runback of an interception to give the Lions a lead in the first half of the action.

Also missing from the lineup was co-captain Mark Walinski. The loss of Walinski and Batchelor both was more than the Lions could take as their lack of depth in the second half became apparent and the Shamrocks took advantage of this and finally controlled the ball game with the help of a number of decisive fumbles and interceptions.

On the opening kickoff, Shamrock superstar Dean Pfister took the ball on his own 34 yard line and didn't stop running until he reached the Lion end zone. This was accomplished mostly by Pfister's agility although he did receive a bit of help from his teamates in the form of well placed blocking.

THE LIONS were not to be outdone in this part of the game, however, as they launched their first scoring attack upon receiving the ball. Finally getting into scoring position on the basis of quarterback Kan Preski's short but crucial runs, the Lions started to make use of their replacement halfbacks Abinati and Madden.

Both were hard to stop and the Lions brought the ball to the Shamrock seven yard line with five minutes to play in the first period. Preski handed the ball to Abinati who reached paydirt almost unscathed. The PAT proved to be unsuccessful and the Lions kicked off with a 6-6 tie on their hands.

The Shamrocks couldn't rally at this point and turned the ball over to the Lions only to watch them drive the ball to the Shamrock 19 yard line. Foreman swept around the end for the second Lion score after smarly eluding his pursuers. Once again the PAT attempt fell short with one minute remaining in the first half.

WITH EIGHT minutes remaining in the first half, the Shamrocks marched to the St. Viator 25 yard line where they turned to the air in anticipation of an easy score. Shamrock quarterback Mark Rakocky went back to pass and instead of hitting end Mike Casey as he had planned, he threw the ball into the waiting arms of Lion Quinnett. Quinnett proceded to make the most striking play of the game, running the ball back 80 yards for the score.

His running ability was not to be questioned as he cut a neat path into the end zone. The St. Viator line lessened the difficulty of the run somewhat for Quinnett with their fine blocking.

It looked as though the Shamrocks would not get into scoring position for the remainder of the first half, but a Lion fumble on their own 38 yard line precipitated the final tally of the half. The ball was loose and guard Mike Levar scooped it up, meeting with little opposition on his way to the score. The half ended with the scoreboard showing it to be 18-13 in favor of the hard-luck Lions.

IN THE second half the lack of depth for the Lions howed through and they took advantage of three simultaneous fumbles, converting two of them into touchdowns. In the third period, Jim Kostruwa ran 28 yards following a Lion fumble and then made a decisive block for Pfister who made the score from 21 yards out. The PAT was successful giving the Shamrocks a 20-18 edge.

Jayvee Cardinals Prove Mid-Suburban Superiority With Win Over Hersey

By Curt Wilson

Arlington's powerful jayvee unit completed an undefeated season Friday night as they upset the Huskies of Hersey in a hard-fought battle in the snow and walked off with a surprise Mid-Suburban League championship.

Hersey jumped to the earliest-possible lead in the game as Steve Schuler ran back the first kickoff of the game for a 75-yard touchdown.

BRUCE FRASE completed the extra point attempt for the Huskies and the Hersey entourage proceeded to kick off to a stunned, but by no means defeated, Arlington jayvee squad.

A third down loss kept the Cardinals from moving the ball to a first down, and they relinquished to Hersey. The Huskies could not move the ball either and Arlington took over at the Hersey 36, due to a fumbled punt snap.

On the very first play, Scott Douglas swept wide left and made it all the way to the Hersey two. Two plays later, Paul Greene made the TD to even the score after John Meyer's PAT.

Scott Feige broke left with a second and 10 situation and scored another Huskie TD on the first play of the second quarter, but the PAT was missed.

Toward the end of the half, Hersey added another TD to their six-point cushion. It started on a quarterback keeper play by Dick Powell after backfield in motion call brought back a Schuler run.

POWELL MOVED the ball one yard and then 14. Feige picked up 10 yards and a first down at the 25, and the running of Frase, Powell and Feige moved the ball to the eight. After a temporary setback, Frase made the score at 1:52 in the half. Frase also converted the extra point for the Huskies to lead 20-7 at the half.

Arlington coach Chuck Haines must have had some sharp or inspiring words for his Cards at the halftime break, because it seemed like a different team trotted onto the field about 15 minutes later.

ARLINGTON duplicated the Hersey performance on the first kickoff and Gary Bratko took the kick and handed off to Sam Wit, who ran back the first boot of the second half for an 80-yard touchdown.

Meyer was once again successful on the extra point attempt to narrow the gap to 20-14, still in favor of the Huskies.

Both teams fought hard to seal a win throughout the second half, and, as both teams entered the game undefeated, and the Mid-Suburban League jayvee title rested on the outcome.

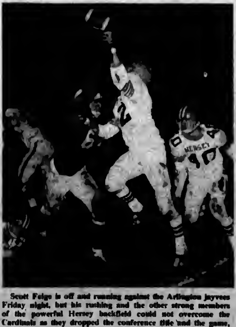
IN WHAT was one of the more freakish plays of the game, Powell flipped the ball back to one of his Huskie halfbacks, and the toss was over the head of its target. The ball rolled into the endzone before it could be recovered, giving the Cardinals a safety and putting them within four points of the lead.

On the next set of plays, the Cards took the lead and the game on a drive from their own 45.

Greene was the main instigator of the drive, carrying the ball almost every time, sharing the duties only with Douglas. After coming all the way down to the visitor's one yard line, Greene hurled over the line to put Arlington ahead permanently and seal the MSL jayvee crown.

MEYER COMPLETED the extra point for the third time that evening, giving the Cardinals the edge in what was destined to become a 23-20 upset.

With 3:09 left in the game, no further scoring was accomplished, and Len Burt's Huskies had suffered their first official loss of their first season. However, the 7-1 season record compiled by the young squad tells a lot about the MSL of next season, as does the junior Arlington's perfect record of 9-0.



Scott Feige is off and running against the Arlington jayvees Friday night, but his rushing and the other strong members of the powerful Hersey backfield could not overcome the Cardinals as they dropped the conference title and the game, 23-20.

From the Nickel Seats

By Jim Ewart

Nickel Seats this week is concerned with the post-season honors bestowed upon players for any number of reasons by their schools, team and coach, as well as conference and state awards.

Most awards have now been made known, their recipients have been informed, moving players, families, relatives, neighbors and ordinary fans to alation or disappointment, to praise or criticism.

HIGH SCHOOL awards usually combine athletic prowess and academic standing in their selections with more attention to grade point average.

Team awards by member balloting are more likely to chose the right player for the right award. They make a critical evaluation considering performance of a fellow participant.

Coaches are nearly as perceptive as players and make very few erroneous choices as they are aware of outstanding contributions and give honest consideration to nominees.

CONFERENCE DECISIONS are an entirely another matter, although the coaches name their team's candidates. The selections can be and sometimes are political as all the coaches vote in filling the all-conference posts and personal attitudes can conceivably include or omit one coache's players.

Further consideration might be given to the idea of placing players with the best game statistics for the season on the all-conference teams, or allow the participants to select players other than those on their squad, as is done in the pro ranks. No restrictions should exist restricting the number of players one team can place in nomination for the honors.

Such limitation does not insure selection by ability.

However, it should be noted that a player's future participation in a sport such as football does in no manner depend on the honors previously awarded. No matter if a player is all-city, all-area, all-conference, all-state, or all-American, he still puts his shoes on in the same manner as all other aspirants of the game, and is judged on ability and performance. It is often true that the biggest reputation warrants the first tryout, but as the name implies, it is just a test of ability depending upon performance.

ALL-STATE choices are more liable to be conjecture, as selection is based on reputation and statistics, and both can contribute to mistaken selections. The high school player with a good publicity man for an athletic director is more likely to be chosen all-state than one with a director of less literary ability. Many of the candidates named by the four major Illinois newspapers which rate the all-state teams have never performed before same.

Statistics might show that a player has exceptional ability in his conference, but he might not be as outstanding in a league that provides more forminable opponents.

Awards are fine. They look great hanging over a mantle or sitting on a desk and sometimes spark conversation in a lull. But few remember who won what when except perhaps the sports writers, and not many of them will stop you on the street to laud a player's past accomplishments, we're just too busy keeping up with what occurs today.

BUT ALL THAT is not important. Most players get much more from the sport of football than awards and fame, and most of the participants will concur that that "more" is difficult to define. It's a feeling and a way of viewing things that has a multitude of names, none of which correctly express it, and that is the most important thing, the reason a boy first goes out for the sport.

See you next week.

Pheasant Hunting Permits Available

--All state-operated pheasant hunting areas where hunters must obtain a permit still have openings according to the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Seven pheasant areas are managed by the Department of Conservation. They are Chain-O-Lakes, near Fox Lake; Des Plaines, near Joliet; Green River south of Dixon in Lee County; Iroquois County, near Beaverville; Shelby County, near Cowden; Clinton County, near Boulder; and Richland County, near Calhoun.

Hunters may obtain permits for weekends and week days on all areas except the Des Plaines and Chain-O-Lakes areas. On these areas there are week day openings only.

Sportsmen may still be accommodated on week days on the two state goose hunting areas in southern Illinois. These areas are Horseshoe Lake near Olive Branch in Alexander County and Union County near Ware.

Only one permit per hunter is issued for a pheasant area or a goose area. Sportsmen who have obtained their permit will not receive another, should they apply for one.

Hunters who apply for a permit must include the following information in their application: Hunter's name and address, a partner's name, the area desired, the date desired and an alternate date.

Citizens' Group Still Unhappy With 7:30 Night-Racing Plea

By Barry Petersen

A citizens' group opposed to night horse racing is still unhappy with Arlington Park's modified request for after-dark hours.

Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, chairman of the Citizens Committee Against Night Racing, said the move by the track for racing between 4 and 7:30 p.m. is only the "first move."

Arlington Park officials requested those hours in a modified petition to the Illinois Racing Board this week. Their original petition for night racing listed no hours.

Illinois regulations limit racing to between noon and midnight and do not require the listing of specific racing hours.

The petition, submitted after track and village officials met, will be considered by the racing board Saturday.

MRS. VIDMAR said the move by the track was "no concession" and criticized Mrs. Marge Everett, track operator.

"If she (Mrs. Everett) aks for 7:30 racing this year, she'll ask for 8 p.m. racing next year. Eventually she'll get her goal--midnight racing," said Mrs. Vidmar.

She said 7:30 is the "latest it can possibly go. If they extend it any more we'll have people driving after dark, which is what we're trying to avoid."

Mrs. Everett, when asked about Mrs. Vidmar's statements, said, "I have no comment to anything Mrs. Vidmar has to say."

Arlington Heights Mayor John Woods, in a statement Tuesday after the announcement of the petition amendment, said he was "pleased and gratified" with the change.

He praised the negotiations which brought an agreement without "protracted and acrimonious debate and possible litigation."

Mrs. Vidmar also rapped village officials, saying the "village should realize that this is only the first move. If the village doesn't do anything I don't know what we as citizens can do."

"Last year Mrs. Everett asked for midnight racing, but after we argued against it, she withdrew the petition altogether. This year she asked for the 7:30 limit and the village accepted it without any fight," Mrs. Vidmar said.

MAYOR WOODS said last night that Mrs. Vidmar's statements were "totally without foundation."

He said the petition to stop races at 7:30 was "an indication that Arlington Park and Mrs. Everett know the depth of our feelings, and that we are deadly serious in our opposition to night racing."

Woods said a "great deal of serious discussion" took place before the petition amendment was submitted to the Illinois Racing Board, and that the village "made clear" to Mrs. Everett the "feeling of the community."

"There is a great desire on the part of Mrs. Everett to comply with the feelings of the community,--more than some people want to admit," the mayor said.

Woods and Village Atty. Jack Seigel will attend the Saturday meeting of the racing board when the decision on racing hours is expected.

Chicago Policeman To Head Arlington Park's Security

Sgt. William Maloney, 42, member of the vice control division of the Chicago police department and formerly a member of the Illinois state police, was today named director of security and operation for Arlingon Park in 1969.

The position is newly created. Mrs. Marjorie L. Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises, Inc., which operates Arlington Park, described the move as a "major step in a relentless campaign to provide maximum safeguards for the hundreds of thousands of persons who attend the races and other events at the park."

Maloney will also serve as a special assistant to general manager Frank Kofron. In this capacity, Maloney will oversee such security related activities as race track admissions. Maloney and his security men will also be responsible for the welfare of guests at the new Arlington Towers, the ultra-modern 420-room hotel complex being built at Arlington Park and scheduled to open March 1, 1969.

THE NEW director of security will not have the responsibility for policing the handling of the horses to prevent doping and other fraudulent practices. The State of Illinois security officials have this responsibility. Once the state officials have ordered any individual ejected from Arlington Park, it will be the responsibility of Maloney's security men to see that the ejection orders are carried out and that the individuals involved are not permitted to return.

Maloney is being granted a leave from the Chicago police department to assume his new responsibilities at Arlington Park. He entered the Chicago police force in 1956.

Before that he had been a member ofthe Illinois State Police. He also served as security officer in the Illinois Attorney General's office for a period of three years.

In 1961 Maloney was made a sergeant and assigned to the 15th District's department of vice coordination. In 1965 he joined the vice control division where he has specialized in narcotics work.

Christmas Cards for GIs

'Greetings From Arlington High'

Project Christmas Card has been organized by Arlington High School students to show their support for servicemen in Vietnam.

"The most difficult part of the project is the wording of the messages," said Julie Noweck, 720 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights, Triple S president.

"HOW DO you say 'wish you were here' or 'hope you're home by next Christmas' without making the soldiers homesick?" she asked.

Recording secretary Debbie Ferguson, 1519 N. Kasper, Arlington Heights, agrees that writing cards is a difficult task. The them of her card was happenings at home.

Pat Givens, a junior of 422 S. Petton, Arlington Heights, wrote about herself and her activities.

"You have to be careful, though, not to show any feeling about the war policies," she said.

TRIPLE S, open to all girls at Arlington High, has been responsible for a transfer party for exchange students, a fashion show and a recent bake sale.

Profits from the bake sale will be used for the Red Cross School Chest which sends health supplies to a needy school in Iran.

Jaycees Building a Sign

The $2,800 sign will be built by Arrow Sign Co., a Chicago firm, and will be located on Northwest Hwy. either at the intersection of Evergreen or Dunton Rds.

R. Tom Pritchard, chairman of the Jaycee committee working on the sign, said construction should be completed within 10 weeks after work on the sign begins.

PRITCHARD said the sign, measuring 16 feet high by 15 feet wide, will be maintained by the Arlington Heights Fire Department.

"They will handle the maintenance, cleaning, and putting the letters on the lighted board," Pritchard said. He said anyone wishing to list community events on the board will have to obtain a permit from the city.

The sign will have 8-inch letters, with space for four lines.

"Construction might be delayed because we're having trouble getting an electrical contractor," Pritchard said.

He said his committee had been working for a year on the sign.

"It will be about the same as other signs on Northwest Hwy. listing civic events, except it'll be made by a different company," Pritchard said.

Fire Hits Chemicals Firm Here

By Gary Shiffman

Fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $10,000 damage last night at a Rolling Meadows chemical products firm.

The blaze broke out shortly after 9 p.m. in a second-floor research storage room at the Chemplex Co., 3100 Golf Rd.

Routed by the fire were several night shift employees and more than 100 company executives and guests at a cocktail party in a first-floor cafeteria.

Dave Findley of Chicago, an employee of the firm, was overcome by smoke after discovering the blaze. Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty and Lt. Ted Loesch were cut by broken glass while fighting the flames.

None of them required hospitalization.

Fogarty said the blaze was confined to the 15-by-20-foot storage room, but nearby rooms and hallways were damaged by smoke and water.

The room contained glass bottles and tubing in cardboard cartons. They were completely destroyed.

Fogarty said there was a specially-insulated refrigerator in the room which contained volatile chemicals. Though the outside of the refrigerator was charred, the chemicals inside were undisturbed, Fogarty said.

Loesch said the fire "would have turned into a blaze of major proportion" if it had reached the chemicals.

Fogarty said the fire would be reported to the state fire marshal's office, but "there would probably be no investigation because arson appears to be out of the question."

Parcel Post Package Stolen

A Parcel Post package was stolen yesterday from the hallway of an Arlington Heights apartment.

Mrs. Andrew Grant of 2424 E. Oakton told police a mailman announced over the apartment intercom that he was leaving the package in the hallway because it would not fit in her box.

Mrs. Grant said the package was gone when she went to get it less than five minutes later. She said she did not know what was in the package.

'Unsatisfied' Students Dominate Workshop

About 100 persons mostly educators attending the meeting heard student panel members scorn area high schools, their "irrelevant subjects" and "failure to discuss important issues."

THE SIX-PART workshop series is co-sponsored by School District 214's cooperative Instructional Resource Center and the Illinois Commission on Human Relations.

In addition to the students, the panel included a black and a Mexican American.

But the students reactions to secondary education in the area generated most of the questions and responses in the discussion groups which followed the panel.

"They want to do their own thing, but they don't know what it is," one teacher observed after hearing an Elk Grove High School senior say he was "looking For answers and not getting any."

Greg Novick, who transferred from Elk Grove to Chicago's Central YMCA High School said he is now taking "relevant courses," including an Afro-American history independent study course.

"IT WAS LIKE throwing away a security blanket," he said to leave Elk Grove.

Wendy Schreiber of Mount Prospect High School assured the group she knew what she wanted.

Student-faculty-(administration) advisory boards, students suggesting courses and an administration which will listen and act upon student wishes would help close the gap between students and the faculty and administration, she said.

"I've gotten the majority of my education from self-education," she said.

"Teachers don't give students all the alternatives in a situation like Vietnam."

Ben Williams, associate director of the education services department of the Illinois Commission of Human Relations, told the group that human relations involve "not just black and white relations."

ADMITTING he came to the suburbs expecting the workshop" to skirt the issues," Williams said the panel had "hit upon the entire theme of the workshop."

By facing the minority groups here-like the students-Williams said the residents could determine the ideas that "make white Americans in these suburbs detrimental to minority groups."

A second workshop session on "Racism: White Man's Burden" will begin at 7 p.m. tonight at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Reorganizing Schools

What One District Does Affects Others

No one except Dr. Donald Thomas is talking about it much, but his suggestion that Elk Grove School District 59 consider becoming a unit district may affect students, parents and taxpayers some distance outside the district's boundaries.

Dr. Thomas is superintendent of District 59, which now educates students in kindergarten through the eighth grade. Its entire territory lies within High School District 214, the largest in Illinois outside Chicago.

A UNIT district is one which would provide a kindergarten-through high school (K-12) education.

Dr. Thomas has said he is providing the District 59 board with information on unit districts, intermediate districts and plans for voluntary co-operative organizations with other districts.

The District 214 board has not yet discussed the fact that District 59 is studying the matter.

But Dr. E.H.Gilbert, 214's superintendent, isn't upset over the study.

"I would agree with Dr. Thomas that all possibilities of school re-organization should be looked at," said Dr. Gilbert, "We want to utilize our resources in the best possible way to give children a better education."

If District 59 turned itself into a K-12 system, the move would have a financial impact on District 214, which operates six high schools: Arlington, Prospect, Hersey, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Forest View. The latter two are within the boundaries of District 59.

POSSIBLY one-fifth of the 13,500 students in District 214 live within District 59, but District 59 contains more than one-third of 214's assessed valuation tax base.

There are some 4,000 students attending Elk Grove and Forest View High Schools. No exact residence figures are now available, but officials from both school systems estimate that 1,000 of the students attending Forest View live outside District 59.

District 214 has an assessed valuation of $660 million, $231 million of this in District 59. This is mostly due to the tax rich Industrial Park.

If the attendance estimate is correct, the 1,000 students would have to be absorbed in the remaining four high schools of 214 if 59 were to go it alone.

THE EFFECT on state aid for the two districts cannot be forecast accurately without the precise attendance figures, since the aid is based on a district's assessed valuation and its average daily attendance.

Dr. Thomas estimates that District 59 would receive about $400,000 a year more in state aid. This is because it would have more students--those in high school. The district's educational costs also would increase.

"Before any part of our district should consider becoming a unit district," Dr. Gilbert said, "full consideration would have to be given as to what effect such a move would have on the rest of our community.

"I would strongly urge that consideration be given to a plan that would take care of all of us. Let's do it in an overall plan that would take the total area into account."

Gordon Hansen of the Office of Public Instruction in Springfield, outlined legal procedures that District 59 would have to follow if it wants to become a unit district.

HE SAID that if 200 registered voters living within District 59 would sign a petition calling for a special election, the county superintendent of schools would hold hearings.

Any resident of the proposed unit district or of any district which would be affected by the proposed change may testify for the petition or against it.

The county superintendent then would decide whether to hold an election. Within 35 days after his decision, anyone who attended the hearing could apply for a review of the decision by the Circuit Court. This would stop all election proceedings until the court decides.

The next step, if the matter goes this far, would be an election in which only those living in the territory to be a part of the unit district would vote. In this case, residents of District 214 outside District 59 would not be able to vote.

The proposal would have to get a majority in all incorporated places and a majority in all the rest of the territory in order to carry.

THE SEVEN county school trustees would then decide how to divide the property, assets and debts of District 214.

Both District 59 and District 214 have made it very clear that no one--at this point-- is planning such a procedure.

But the state office of education in Springfield does like unit districts. In fact, two months ago it issued a booklet about the advantages and benefits of unit districts.

According to this booklet, such K-12 districts give taxpayers improved financing and purchasing, organization, administration, curriculum, supervision and instruction, special services for children, and better physical plants and facilities.

In the past 23 years, Illinois has eliminated 10,666 school districts by re-organization. In fact, 390 unit school districts now make up over 75 per cent of the entire area of Illinois.

"SUCH unit districts enable the schools of Illinois," says the state education office, "to offer a quality educational program to all boys and girls in keeping with the demands of the economic and social patterns of society in an everchanging world."

Schools in District 59 are Juliette Low in Arlington Heights, Frost, Jay, Dempstar, Forest View Elementary, and Holmes in Mount Prospect; Einstein, Brentwood, Devonshire, and High Ridge Knolls in Des Plaines.

Also, Ridge, Rupley, Grant Wood, Lively, Salt Creek, Byrd, Clearmont, Hopkins, and Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village.

Plan Commission Favors Rezoning

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission voted last night to recommend rezoning property at the northeast corner of Evergreen and Magnolia to R-5, for multi-family residences.

More than 50 nearby residents attended the hearing and several spoke against the petition.

The property, 135 feet by 300 feet, now is zoned R-3 for single-family homes.

Tha owners, Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Konieczski, plan to erect a two-story, 16-apartment building, with 8 two-bedroom apartments and 8 one-bedroom apartments.

The board was told, that the expected cost of the building alone was $255,000 and that there would be 30 parking spaces for the 16 apartments.

After tha vote, Chairman Fred Ainslie said the commission's recommendation would be presented to the village board Dec. 2.

Building Up, Value Down

Building permits issued in Arlington Heights for October were up 19 from last October's figure of 100, but valuation of the construction was down more than one million dollars.

Total building permits for October, 1968, was 119, with a total valuation of $3,495,000. Permits issued in October, 1967, totaled 100 with a valuation of $4,914,550.

Some 85 people applied for single family rasidenca building permits, the monthly report from the village building department showed, compared with 52 for last year.

Total permits issued for 1968, from January to October, numbered 1,000 for 1968, 990 for 1967 the report said.

Creating Interest In Science

Talk With A Teacher

BY ESTHER F. CULTON

Because of the increased interest today in science, what can be done at home, Mrs. Culton, to help my son with science in school? His chief interest seems to be in sports.

-- Mrs. Wm. B.C. Des Plaines

There is great variety in the thing and subjects which might help create an interest in science. Discarded objects in basements, attics and children's playrooms tell me that collecting different things might increase your child's natural curiosity about science in general. Collecting rocks, minerals, insects and countless other objects with your guidance and help might yield encouragement. Short trips to as many different places as possible might help. Few parents can answer all their children's science questions, but there are many good science books which give information and can be shared with children.

MY HUSBAND and I would like to know how to discourage our children from wanting the many, many toys which are advertised on radio and television. Many of them may be excellent, of course. My husband wonders how you would talk to the children.

--Mrs. R. McF. Palatine

Perhaps the father might suggest that before new products, including toys, are bought, other advertising of the same products should be compared and investigated. When children realize that many products are rated as excellent, that some of the advertising might be overrated, they may become more selective in their requests for the newer toys, and better thinkers.

WHAT ABOUT my three and one-half year old trying to read? It is actually all from memory.

--Mrs. W.K. Palatine

It is quite possible that you have what teachers like to call a fast learner, but to whom educators often apply the term, "gifted child."

There seems to be many children today being placed in special classes after tests have been given to classify them.

Gifted children usually talk earlier than other children. They have a strong liking for books, with this early ability to memorize complete stories.

You as a parent of a gifted child should not brag about this child, but should encourage him by reading aloud to him even after he learns to read. Games, hobbies, art and music should be made available to this child.

A learning center for your home could be planned in advance, ready for your child when he or she needs it.

The world needs these fast learning minds, but in too many homes and schools these children are being neglected and this is sad.

--A Mother of Twins

Mrs. P.T. Arlington Heights

One important thing to remember is that your twins, when they were born, were not like anyone else in mental ability. No two people grow alike, think alike, or advance at the same rate of speed.

One of my own daughters walked when she was nine months of age; the other one when she was fourteen months. As a teacher I have seen six-year-olds in first grade respond intellectually like four-year-olds, others like eight-year-olds.

The great danger is for parents to want their children to keep up with the behavior and accomplishments of other children.

Surgery for Elderly

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Some time ago, I stated that surgical operations on the elderly should, when possible, be performed in the home. Since this has given rise to some misunderstanding, I wish to make it clear that such cases must be carefully selected. This procedure would be most unwise in the case of an exploratory operation in the abdomen if the surgeon was unsure of the diagnosis and what he would find. Nor could it be used for brain surgery, chest surgery or any other procedure that would require keeping the patient under an anesthetic for a prolonged period.

In the case of simpler procedures that could be done quickly, however, the operations can be performed at home and even in the patient's own bed. This has been recently recommended by a noted professor of surgery not because it would make it easier for the surgeon but because uprooting an elderly patient from his home and sending him to a hospital is likely to cause a severe emotional upset.

A -- There are many kinds of streptococci. Those that cause disease usually enter body by being inhaled or by direct contact with a break in the skin or mucous membranes. As they grow in the respiratory system, they may cause sore throat, sinusitis or pneumonia. As the poisons they produce break down body tissues they may get into the blood and cause blood poisoning, rheumatic fever and other diseases.

Anyone who is recovering from an acute streptococcic infection should get a well-balanced diet. There is no special diet for these diseases.

Q -- How is strep sore throat transmitted? I've had it three times since January. Can it be prevented?

A -- The streptococcus is transmitted chiefly by contact with a person who is infected or is a carrier. Sources include discharges from the nose, throat or open sores. All such discharges should be burned and direct contact with infected persons should be avoided. Washing with germicidal soap helps to prevent infection. The victim can be cured with antibiotics.

Q -- You once wrote that the chief way to contract trichomoniasis was by sexual relations. Since I do not have any outside sexual contacts and neither does my husband, please tell us how else we could have gotten it.

A -- Many mysteries still exist in the field of medicine. In most cases, the exact source of an infection with the trichomonas cannot be found. It can, however, be cured if both husband and wife are treated with metronidazole at the same time.

Q -- I read your recent column stating that the nightly use of mineral oil may injure one's lungs. I have been using it for many years. Should I stop taking it? If so, what should I take for my constipation?

A -- I have always advised against the use of mineral oil for constipation and especially its regular use every night. It is a rare person who cannot regulate his bowels by the daily inclusion of a sufficient amount of vegetable and fruit in his diet. For elderly persons who have a great deal of trouble with constipation, malt soup extract or psyllium hydrophilic mucilloid are helpful.

Day by Day

This Is The End

By Catherine O'Donnell

One more election day story and then on to the business of helping President-elect Nixon run the country.

The story of his election day as Director of Operation Eagle-eye comes from Tom Novotny who incidentally has been reappointed to that post by C. R. Barr, Cook County chairman.

Tom's thoughts on the status quo in Eagle Eye operations before and during the election were almost obliterated on his last visit to Washington, D.C. where he was a guest of Ray Bliss, National Republican Chairman.

At a luncheon of appreciation, Bliss said he was still a member of the Board of Elections in Akron, Ohio. He cautioned his fellow Republicans to never take their foot off home base, according to Tom.

NEXT TO the luncheon, Novotny was most impressed by what he termed, "Ten thousand bright young men flashing job resumes around the city because they'll be out as soon as the new administration moves in. Then there are another ten thousand who are moving in." Tom said.

Tom said that he is now convinced that the leadership of the country did not change on election day.

"The top guys are changed, yes," he said, "but the same people who have made Washington their careers merely shift to other responsibilities and go right on running the country. They are the ones who are really running the country regardless of what changes there are in policy. Washington is not a place, it's a career," he said.

ON ELECTION day, Novotny decided that as director of Eagle Eye he should pick a section of Chicago that no one else would want.

He had been inspired by the memory of a Republican meeting he'd addressed in Birmingham, center of Jefferson County in Alabama, where he explained the principles and structure of the poll watching society.

"Those were the best results on a national scale of what we were trying to do even though there were only 300 dedicated Republicans present," he said.

He also gained impetus by a story told by Sen. Charles Percy at Bliss' luncheon about how he (Percy) had been thrown out bodily in 1964 and again in 1966 from a polling place in the 24th precinct which is in the riot-burned area of Chicago's west side along W. Madison and Van Buren.

TOM DECIDED to poll watch in that section. He is still surprised at the results.

Tom traveled all day with two other Eagle Eye watchers. The police, he said, were so very polite and so very well trained that the worst thing they encountered in that hitherto "unhealthy" area were "politicking" and poll signs closer to the polling places than the legal 100 feet. Republicans could do the same with the trees between.

He had only to mention it to the closest policeman (and it happened six times with different police), show his identification and the signs came down. The only reaction was that of one irate Democratic captain who didn't mind the signs coming down but he wanted to know why they were torn up.

TOM SAID the man told him that he had been up at 3 a.m. and had put signs all over his precinct. He told Tom he had put them on every other tree so that the

The Republicans came along at 4 a.m. and covered the posted Democrat signs with their own Republican signs. Tom was not happy with that news.

THE ONLY other thing they found was that three poll watchers and one judge had had their cars damaged, but Tom feels certain that it was the work of area juvenile vandals and not election dissenters.

Tom, as director of Eagle Eye, says that women make the best watchers.

"They stay calm and insistent," he said, "while men beat their hands in the air and get redfaced with anger."

He said it was almost impossible to determine how many votes were saved by poll watchers.

TOM HOPES that the next step with the National Republican Committee for him will be staff work for the inauguration ceremonies for the President.

"That is," he said, "if the national committee handles it."

His nicest memento is a letter from a lonely man who understands the loneliness of a party frontrunner.

Earl Hall, Republican Chairman of Jefferson County, Alabama, sent him a note thanking him for speaking to them. "I'm going to frame that," Tom said.

Little Luncheons Prove Successful

BY LOU ANN BLAIR

A social event highlighting the lives of Catholic women of St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, was the Le Petit Dejeuner, "Little Luncheons," held throughout the parish Friday, Nov. 8.

Beginning with sparkling champagne cocktails in the homes of 19 hostesses, each group of 12 women enjoyed the fellowship of good conversation, good food and games of bridge during the afternoon in some of the homes.

DESIGNED to bring the women together in small intimate groups with the least possible effort on the part of hostesses and co-hostesses the format for the event was planned well in advance. Duties were outlined, a menu was selected and caterer engaged.

Supplies were ready for pickup by hostesses the day before at the St. James kitchen. Casseroles of chicken and almonds in wine sauce, chocolate eclairs, table prizes, pencils and score pads for bridge playing homes and hints for serving were all assembled for hostesses' convenience.

THE RECIPE for the luncheon salad was selected by the Le Petit Dejeuner chairmen Mrs. John Gavin and Mrs. John McGranaghan and directions were included in the detailed instructions provided each hostess. The particular responsibility of the co-hostess was the preparation of the cranberry-sour cream salad for her individual group.

Present at the home of Mrs. Dana Weithers were her co-hostess Mrs. Joseph Singer, Mrs. John Fellner, Mrs. Ralph Warble Jr., Mrs. Dan Gorey, Mrs. Thomas Adams. Mrs. Eugene Schlickman, Mrs. John J. Walsh, Mrs. James H. Mallon, Mrs. Frank Schroeder, and Mrs. McGranaghan.

Father Edward Hughes, assistant pastor of St. James, was one of several priests who made the rounds of the Little Luncheons and visited briefly with each group.

Mrs. Joseph Singer, co-hostess, and Mrs. Dana Weithers, hostess, prepare toast points for Chicken and Almonds in Wine Sauce, served at Le Petit Dejeuner luncheon sponsored by St. James Catholic Women's Guild.

Engaged

SHARON OVERMAN

The engagement of Miss Sharon Sue Overman to Michael S. Flaherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Flaherty of Palatine, is announced by Miss Overman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil S. Overman of Westfield, Ind.

Both Miss Overman and Mr. Flaherty are seniors at the University of Evansville where they both majored in speech and drama and are members of Alpha Psi Omega, the dramatic honorary society. Both are presently student teaching in Evansville, Ind.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Two Side Dishes

Speedy Gourmet suggests two vegetable recipes to add to your files. Eggplant Casserole combines eggplant, spaghetti sauce mix, tomatoes and Parmesan cheese for an Italian style casserole.

EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

1 small eggplant (about 1 pound)
1 envelop (1½ oz.) French's Spaghetti Sauce Mix with Mushrooms
4 large tomatoes
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Cut unpeeled eggplant into ½-inch cubes; soak in water 15 minutes. Drain eggplant and place in greased 2-quart casserole. Pour contents of sauce mix envelope over eggplant; toss lightly. Peel tomatoes; cut each tomato into eight wedges. Arrange tomatoes on top of eggplant.

Cover and bake in 350 degree oven 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. A sauce is formed from vegetable juices. Remove cover; sprinkle vegetables with cheese. Bake uncovered 15 minutes longer or until eggplant is tender. 6 to 8 servings.

FOR A simple yet special appetizer, Speedy Gourmet suggests Italian Sliced Baby Tomatoes. For 4-6 guests, combine 14½ oz. can Contadina Sliced Baby Tomatoes and juice with a 6 oz. jar marinated artichoke hearts, 1 cup thin cucumber slices, 1½ cups drained whole pitted ripe olives, 1 cup thin onion rings, 1 cup drained marinated mushrooms, ½ cup creamy French dressing, 1 teaspoon seasoned salt and ½ teaspoon pepper.

Appetizers For Holiday Parties

By Charlotte Erickson

With the holiday season upon us, now is a good time to get some appetizers or hors d'oeuvres in your freezer. You'll have one less thing to worry about when entertaining, and you'll feel so smug when unexpected guests drop in!

APPETIZERS BY THE YARD

This is a nifty way for the busy homemaker to literally make appetizers by the yard and quickly.

Purchase a large loaf of sandwich or butter-crust bread at your local bakery; have it sliced horizontally as you would for a sandwich loaf. Spread these l-o-n-g slices with scrumptious topping and freeze. Later, just before serving, these long slices are put under the broiler for a few minutes, cut into strips or triangles and you have a whole platter of hors d'oeuvres in a wink!

CRABMEAT CANAPES BY THE YARD

Single Recipe:
Yield: 3 large slices sandwich or butter-crust loaf, sliced horizontally
2 3-oz. packages cream cheese
1 7-oz. can crabmeat
1 teaspoon mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Double Recipe:
Yield: 6 large slices sandwich or butter-crust loaf, sliced horizontally

4 3-oz. packages cream cheese
2 7-oz. cans crabmeat
2 teaspoons mayonnaise
½ teaspoon celery salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Mix thoroughly, then chill (covered) about one hour. Meanwhile, toast one side of long bread slices under oven broiler, watching closely so that they don't get too dark or burn. Now spread the untoasted side with chilled crabmeal mixture.

You may broil and serve immediately or else put slices on a large tray or cookie sheet and freeze for about one hour. Then lay a double thickness of waxed paper on top of each slice; stack the slices so that a double thickness of waxed paper is in between each slice. Wrap in foil or large freezer bags, label, date and freeze.

TO SERVE WHEN FROZEN: Remove only the number of slices needed. Seal remainder securely in freezer-wrap and return to freezer. Place long slices of bread on a cookie sheet. Put under preheated broiler just long enough for the cheese mixture to become bubbly. Watch closely because the crabmeat spread burns easily.

Remove hot bread slices from oven and slice into strips or triangles. These may be served plain or garnished with sliced stuffed olives, small pieces of pimento that have been cut into various shapes with small aspic cutters, parsley or even salted whole nuts.

PORTED CHEESE BALLS

Cheese balls or logs are always nice to have on hand at any time of the year, but especially so during the holiday season. Serve with hot mulled wine, cider or Glog for a real festive flavor.

For those of you who make most of your Christmas gifts, these cheese balls or logs make lovely gifts, yet are very simple and quick to make; the trick is to have all the ingredients at room temperature.

Single Recipe:

Yield: One large or 2 medium size cheese balls or logs

Time: 5 minutes
1 4-oz. package blue cheese
1 8-oz. package cream cheese
1 teaspoon instant minced onions
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons white port wine
¼ cup sesame seeds, toasted*
½ cup snipped parsley

Triple Recipe:
Yield: 3 large or 6 medium size cheese balls or logs
Time: 7 minutes
3 4-oz. packages blue cheese
3 8-oz. packages cream cheese cheese
1 tablespoon instant minced onions
¾ cup butter
1/3 cup white port wine
¾ cup sesame seeds, toasted*
1½ cups snipped parsley

*Sesame seeds bought in the little 2-oz. spice and herb jars are quite expensive if you expect to use them in quantity. All health food stores carry them in 1-pound packages at one-fifth the cost. Preheat oven at 425 degrees F. Toast sesame seeds in shallow pan for about 4 to 5 minutes or until seeds are golden brown.

Combine blue cheese, cream cheese, instant minced onions, and butter in mixing bowl (make sure all ingredients are room temperature) and beat until light and fluffy. Add wine and mix well. Set your bowl in the refrigerator for about 1 hour.

Combine toasted and cooled sesame seeds with snipped parsley on a sheet of waxed paper. Shape chilled cheese mixture and roll in parsley and sesame mixture. Return to the refrigerator or set on cookie sheet and into the freezer for about 1 hour or until hard. Freezer wrap, label, date and return to freezer.

VARIATIONS: These cheese balls are also very attractive when shaped into logs. Make logs 1¼ to 1½ inches in diameter. Serve logs on large platter with rows of crackers alongside or slice with cheese slicer and put on cracker or toast rounds.

Form individual balls about 1 inch in diameter and serve with a toothpick in each. (You may need more parsley and sesame seed mixture if you are going to make the entire recipe in individual balls.)

See THE FREEZER COOKBOOK for Nippy Cheddar Cheese Ball recipe.

Right--Bake a homemade tender and velvety Grape Cake. Made as two layers, the cake is then assembled as a spectacular torte with a jewel-like filling and a pastel fluffy frosting. (Courtesy of Swans Down Cake Flour)

Grape or Cranberry

Bake A Cake From Scratch

With the feeling of winter in the air as your inspiration why not bake a cake? Have you really ever known a family that wouldn't prefer a homemade cake made "from scratch"?

For a special recipe for this special cake try our Grape Cake or Cranberry Cake.

BASED ON bottled grape juice, a package of pudding and pie filling, and flaked coconut, the filling can be quickly cooked while the cake rises in the oven; then the filling chills while the cake is cooling. The pastel frosting is a cooked one of the four minute type, and echoes the grape flavor of the filling.

The Cranberry Cake takes advantage of the abundant supply of fresh cranberries on the market this month. It is baked in a tube pan and is crowned with a simple Orange Glaze. But it's rich and buttery enough to serve just plain.

GRAPE CAKE

1¾ cups sifted cake flour
2¼ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup--plus 2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Grape and Coconut Filling
Fluffy Grape Frosting

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream shortening. Gradually add sugar; cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Stir in vanilla.

Pour into two 8-inch layer pans which have been lined on bottoms with paper. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted into centers comes out clean. Cool cake in pans 10 minutes; then remove from pans and finish cooling on racks.

Split each layer in half, making 4 layers. Spread Grape and Coconut Filling between layers, using about 2|3 cup for each. Spread Fluffy Grape Frosting over top and sides of cake. Sprinkle top of cake with about 2/3 cup flaked coconut, if desired.

GRAPE AND COCONUT FILLING

1 package (3¼ oz.) Jell-O Vanilla Pudding and Pie Filling
1 cup grape juice
¾ cup water
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter
2/3 cup flaked coconut

Place pudding mix in a saucepan. Gradually stir in grape juice, water, and lemon juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat; stir in butter and coconut. Chill. Stir before spreading. Makes about 2 cups.

FLUFFY GRAPE FROSTING

1 egg white
¾ cup sugar
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons grape juice
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients in top of small double boiler or in small bowl. Beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until thoroughly mixed--about 1 minute. Place over boiling water and beat constantly at high speed of electric mixer until frosting stands in stiff peak--about 4 minutes, stirring frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper.

Remove from boiling water. For a very smooth and satiny frosting, pour at once into a large bowl for final beating. Beat until thick enough to spread--about 1 minute. Makes about 2¼ cups.

CRANBERRY CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt 1 cup butter
1¾ cup sugar
3 eggs
1 egg yolk
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon orange juice
¾ cup chopped fresh cranberries (about 1 cup whole berries)
½ cup finely chopped nuts (optional)
Orange Sugar Glaze

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter. Gradually add sugar; cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs and egg yolk and beat thoroughly. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add rind, juice, cranberries, and nuts; mix well. Pour into 9-inch tube pan, which has been greased and lightly floured.

Bake at 375 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool cake in pan 10 minutes; then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. Spread Orange Sugar Glaze over top, allowing it to run down sides of cake.

ORANGE SUGAR GLAZE: Place 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar in a small bowl. Gradually add about 1 tablespoon hot orange juice, blending well, until mixture is thin enough to spread over cake. Makes 1|3 cup.

Celebrity Booth To Highlight Bazaar

The Arlington Heights Double Dydee Mothers of Twins Club is planning a Christmas bazaar and bake sale Saturday, Nov. 16 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Clearbrook Center for Retarded Children at 3201 Campbell, Rolling Meadows.

An interesting part of the bazaar will be the Celebrity Booth in which celebrities who are twins, have twins or are active in retardation have sent in items to be sold. Phyllis Diller, Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop, Lady Bird Johnson, Art Linkletter, Jerry Lewis and Gov. Ronald Reagan are among those who have sent articles.

All proceeds of the Christmas bazaar and bake sale will go to the Clearbrook Center.

Study Group To Hear Peace Corps Member

A member of the Peace Corps in Nepal for two years, Mrs. Peter H. Fritts of Evanston, will relate her experiences to members of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club Friday, Nov. 15. The International Relations study group program will be held at 1:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Samuel Wit, 643 S. Newbury Place.

A 1964 graduate of Swarthmore, Martha Fritts began her career of service to others as a student at Marple-Newton Township High School in Pennsylvania where she was instrumental in founding a chapter of the American Field Service. During the years 1964-66 she worked as a medical research assistant at Michael Reese Hospital while her husband was attending the University of Chicago Law School.

COLOR slides will illustrate Mrs. Fritts' talk to the study group. These include scenes of India and the Orient as well as the kingdom of Nepal where she and her husband served as teachers and agricultural aides from 1966 until early this year.

In an attempt to expand the local diet from rice and pea soup, the Fritts team started a poultry and rabbit farm and planted a demonstration vegetable garden. Their work included a reforestation project and improved seed program.

At present Mrs. Fritts is doing recruiting for the midwest regional Peace Corps office in Chicago where her husband is a practicing attorney.

Teacher Lists 12 Experiments Parents Can Do With Child

By Donald H. Rick
Science Co-ordinator
Palatine District 15

Here are science experiments a child can try at home if his parents are working along with him.

All of them involve the kinds of activities the child is doing as he studies science in school.

Recent trends in science education have children making observations, forming hypotheses, predicting results and testing theories.

In short, they are using the scientific method. Here are some way he can do it at home.

1. -Test to see if putting high-test or regular gasoline in your car affects the miles you get per gallon.

2.-Does over-inflating your tires by three pounds affect your gas mileage?

3.-Do blindfolded people walk in circles? Go to a large field or school playground. Have your dad blindfold you. Try to walk in a straight line. What happens?

4.-If copper is a poisonous metal, why is it used on the bottom of some cooking pots and pans? Can you devise an experiment to test your hypothesis? Get your mother as a partner in the experiment. You might start by putting a blob of candle wax on the end of each of two wires—one aluminum; the other copper—and heating both. Which drops off first? Why? What does this have to do with cooking pots?

5.-Make a simple wind speed meter. Have dad help calibrate it by holding it out your car window on a still day and driving at various speeds.

6.-Have your dad drop two objects of different weights out your second-story window while you observe at ground level to see if the heavier object hits the ground first. What would you predict? What happened? What is your explanation?

7.-Wash your can opener. Then put a white piece of paper underneath the can opener. Have your mother cut off the tops of some empty cans while you watch to see if any pieces of tin fall on the paper. Try different size cans.

8.-Sprinkle some talcum powder or baby powder on the surface of some water in a pie tin. Touch one side of the water with a small piece of soap. Can you explain what happens?

9.-Freeze a thin layer of water in the bottom of a square or rectangular pan. Hold the thin piece of ice up to a light and look through it. What are the long things you see? What other odd thing do you observe?

10.-Take a fluorescent lamp tube into a dark room. Have your dad hold one end of it while you hold the other. Scuff your feet on the rug. What happens? Why?

11.-Put a dab of food coloring on your right cheek. Look in a mirror. Which check (in the mirror) has the dab on it? Can you explain this situation?

12.-Make a pin-hole in one end of an oatmeal box. Cut out most of the other end and cover the opening with wax paper or onion skin paper. Point the pin-hole end toward a lighted candle. Move the box toward or away from the candle until the reflection on the wax paper is clear and sharp. What seems to be odd about the reflection?

Tomorrow: 219 science fair projects your grade-school child can try.

Jim Daggett Rushes to Athlete of Week

Jim Daggett, slotback for the Forest View Falcons, has been chosen as the Day's Athlete of the Week for his performance throughout the season and especially in the Fremd contest Saturday.

Placing second in the league in pass receiving, grabbing 20 for a 309 yard total and two touchdowns, Daggett also was recently an Mid-Suburban All-Conference selection.

Against Fremd Daggett carried 16 times for 85 yards to lead his team in rushing, as well as taking two passes for 22 yards and defending at end against the Vikings.

LAST YEAR DAGGETT won his letter as a member of a Mid-Suburban co-championship team mainly as a kicker according to Falcon coach Paul Jordan, and "It was a pleasant surprise when Jim performed so well this season," said Jordan.

"He is a good blocker and defensive end, and his running and pass catching abilities are exceptional," continued Jordan. "He is our best receiver."

Daggett expresses an interest in playing college football, at a school of respectable size, but not a big school he added. Jordan recommended that he continue playing, saying, "He has always worked hard for us, he is very coachable, and he has always been able to do what we asked of him. He possess a lot of desire," said the Falcon coach. "es when he was injured, he still was bound and determined to play, and didn't miss a game this season."

DAGGETT IS NOW participating in gymnastics where he competes in the free exercise event, a sport in which he also lettered last year and presently has been awarded a total of three letters at Forest View High School.

In addition to those activities, he works 15 hours at a small food store to gain money for future college expenses.

Other Nominees were;

Bob Kasper of Forest View for grabbing three interceptions and recovering a fumble against Fremd. Kasper, now in his sophomore year, contributed to the strength of the Falcon secondary this season.

Wheeling's Jack Bastable ran for four touchdowns and passed for two to lead the Wildcats past Prospect in their final game of the year. Bastable was also named to the MidSuburban All-Conference team.

Prospect's Sandy Qalliea for his consistent defensive effort in the Wheeling conflict, dogging star Bastable throughout most of the game.

Canvasback Duck Decline May Bring Stricter State Regulations on Hunting

Concern over the possible continued decline of canvasback duck migration this fall may lead to stricter regulations to assure the survival of the canvasback's existence as a sporting species.

This statement was made by John S. Gottschalk, bureau director of the Interior Department's Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, in a mid-November statement endorsed by the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, a State affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation.

The canvasback, a favorite target of waterfowlers, has been hit hard by recent droughts in its' favored prairie pothole nesting grounds. Since they nest in vegetation over water, canvasbacks are exceptionally subject to decrease as the potholes get drier. They do not "bounce back" as quickly as most other ducks when water returns since the growth of nesting greenery takes at least an extra year.

Gottschalk said that a special study is underway across the nation to explore better ways to protect the species during the hunting season, with Illinois fish and game officials, among others, cooperating in aerial and ground surveys of major movements and important concentrations.

The flight this fall is expected to be the lowest in recent years. Hunters are permitted a daily bag and possession limit of only two canvasbacks in the Pacific Flyway and one canvasback or redhead in the daily bag and possession limit in the other three flyways.

Unless another drought happens next year, the species' nesting habitat should be in good condition in 1970, according to Gottschalk.

Skunk Hollow Ski Club Becomes Show Winner

Skunk Hollow has moved its base of operations from Chicago to Des Plaines in the past year, and they are now looking for members-skiers only need apply.

Shunk Hollow Ski Club is a member of the Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council and participated in the International Ski and Winter Sports Show at Arlington Park last weekend. They also won the trophy for the best booth by a ski club.

THE COMPETITION for the best booth started in 1965 when the ski fair was held at McCormick Place in Chicago. The Alpine Ski Club was the winner then, and they were followed in 1966 by the Nomad Ski Club, and in 1967 by the Oak Park Ski Club. The Skank Hollow group was second in 1966 and out of the running last year when their electrical display failed at judging time.

The club is active throughout the year in sports car races, picnics and water skiing as well as planning several out-of-state ski trips for this winter. On tap for this season is a trek to Heavenly Valley-Squaw Valley, Calif. in late February and early March.

Proving themselves not just recreational or lodge skiers, the Skanks brought home first, second, third, fourth and sixth-place racing trophies from competitions held by the CMSC during January and February of each year.

A get-acquainted party will be held tomorrow evening for all interested skiers at the Park Ridge VFW, Canfield and Higgins Rds. at 8. Admission is $1.50 Wednesday, Nov. 20, will be a night of ski movies at the regular meeting at the Forest Vue Bowling Lanes on River Rd. in Des Plaines.

Dryland ski instruction follows at the Dec. 4 meeting and a night of dancing at Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect is scheduled for Dec. 15. The first ski trip, to Indianhead-Powderhorn, will take off Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

Hawks Take Shape as First- Season Cage Squad

The Hawks' head coach John Gelch will be fielding a good team in the team's initial season of competition in the rough Northern Illinois Junior College Conference. According to Gelch, "in this league, I think you'll find the top junior college teams compare quite favorably with your major collegiate teams. We have some outstanding teams and individuals in our league.

SO FAR THE practices Gelch has conducted have been concerned mainly with condition drills, however, he has also been holding nightly scrimmages. Things are looking good according to Gelch. "I'm still looking for a starting five, but we do have some good ball players. I would have to single out Dave Willy as our most experienced man, and it shows up in our practice situations. The guard positions, the center and the other forward are still wide open. I'll probably use Willy as a corner man. He's big and strong and may play the pivot once in a while.

Willy played high school ball at Palatine High where the 6-4 sophomore was an all-Mid Suburban League center. Last year he played at North Park College as a guard.

Gelch has a number of other good prospect for the forward positions. Lyle Kiszanas, a 6-4 freshman from Des Plaines who played at Maine East last year is a good possibility. Bill Keehan, a 6-5 sophomore transfer from California, is an excellent prospect for either center forward. Keehan is currently from Arlington Heights.

ANOTHER ALL-LEAGUE performer out for the team is former Wheeling High School star Scott Bischoff. Bischoff, a 6-0 sophomore, can play either forward or center. He is a good outside shooter, hailing Bischoff from Prospect Heights.

Bob Spore, another 6-4 freshman, is a possibility for either forward or center. Spore played at Prospect High School last winter and is from Mount Prospect.

Two former St. Viator players are in the running for guard and foward slots. Dave Stacheiski, a 5-11 freshman from Hoffman Estates, is a forward prospect while Mike Deuding, a 5-10 sophomore from Arlington Heights is shooting for a guard position.

The guard positions could be very strong this year. Soph Jim Mellen of Libertyville leads the list. Mellen was an all-North Suburban League guard who averaged close to 20 points a game year before last. Mellen is 5-10. A former Palatine player, Angelo Coduto, is a top prospect at the other guard spot. Cudoto is a 5-9 freshman also from Palatine. Rodriguez played both guard and forward for Notre Dame High School in Niles last year.

John Knopf, a six letter winner at Elk Grove High School from which he graduated last spring, is now playing University of Dubuque varsity football.

Knopf caught 26 passes for a total of 279 yards and one touchdown placing third among his team's receivers this year by just one yard.

Brausch Claims Chance in Rusty Nail Sweepstake

Robert A. Brausch, of 107 N. Maple, Mount Prospect, may be the winner of two tickets to Scotland and $1,000 in the Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes.

And Then There's Bruce

By Catherine O'Donnell

The Arlington High School choral groups will combine for an evaning's entertainment tonight. The program will be called A Magical Musical Tour. It will begin at 8 p.m. in the Grace Gym.

Now the above paragraph pretty much indicates what is going on tonight at Arlington High School. That is, it would have except that the faculty directors turned everything but the direction over to the students.

The chairman of publicity for the choir is Bruce Harmon. Once you've talked to Bruce Harmon, you've forgotten that it is just another high school program. You get carried away in the flood of enthusiasm that makes this seem like a night that no one will ever forget

Talk to Bruce and you're certain that regret will haunt you if you stay home.

SERVING on the committee with Bruce are Liz Galloway, James Rybski, John Moerenberg, Donna Wadsworth and Debbie Vanek. The Magical Musical Tour will be a trip around the world in song.

"One of the kids has a father who works for Pan-American and we were able to get those really wonderful posters from them," said Bruce. "We've got them strung along the ceiling like banners.

"In each of the four corners there will be a display that will point out certain well-known cities. For instance, in the French corner we'll have one of those round things where papers are sold."

"The whole thing started when Mr. White received a letter from a teacher friend of his who is in Peoria. He had done a similar program. When Mr. White described it, the idea caught on."

BOYD WHITE will present the senior choir, the Revelaires, the Harmonettes, and the Freshman Girls Glee Club. Jerome Pugsley is the faculty member directing the Girls Glee Club, the Choraliers and the Mixed Chorus.

There will be four soloists. The bass soloist is Jim Larson; soprano is Kim Hofstad who will do Waters Ripple Flow, and Tha Donovans will be sung by tanor Darrell Rowader. Russian Picnic will be sung by Stephen Latta.

BRUCE TALKS with enthusiasm and in the current fashion of short words. For instance the Girls Glee Club becomes the Girl Glee.

"The AV," he said, "will furnish the lighting. That will be special with spot lights on the singers. They will stand in the center of the gym floor and on the screen, slides of the countries they're singing about will flash on the screen.

"The whole program is really a salute to the Illinois Sesquicentennial," he said. "The choirs wear their robes. The mixed wears grey with yellow stoles.

"The choirs wear red with white stoles, the girl's glee wear black drasses with something around the top, the ensemble has the Reveillers in maroon, the Choraliers in blue with a white rope around their waists and the Harmonettes wear yellow."

"The technical director is Mr. Eugene Kavanaugh from the audio-visual."

BRUCE SAID that sometimes things happen when the kids from that department get going and the lighting may turn out to be a psychedelic blast.

"Whatever it is, it will be a great program," he said. "I'd better remember that the narrator will be Jim Mayhercy. At the end, all of the groups combine to sing This Is My Country. That's really something to hear. All of them singing This Ia My Country."

Fifteen minutes of talk with young Mr. Harmon and the listener is inclined to race over to the school and get a ticket before they're all gone.

They'll be available at the door. They cost one dollar. Anyone who stays home tonight when 300 kids are singing their hearts out with a great technical backup of more kids is a – is a – hey, Bruce, what's that word?

In Play

David Amling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Amling, 719 N. Forest, Mount Prospect, was one of 20 cast members who appeared in "Once Upon A Mattress" Nov. 8 and 9 at Drake University in Des Moines. The all-campus musical was staged by the Student-Faculty Council Committee for the Creative Arts. David is a freshman at Drake, majoring in education.

Elda Sharpless of Arlington Heights as "Birdie"; Marcy Vosburgh of Mount Prospect as "Alexandra"; and Dorothy Baker of Des Plaines as "Regina", are appearing in the Des Plaines Theatre Guild's production of "The Little Foaes". Performances of the Lillian Hellman drama continue on Friday and Saturday nights through Nov. 23 at Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Little Foxes; Gorgeous Hunk Of Theater

BY HERB BRADEN

There's a gorgeous hunk of theatre on display at Des Plaines Theatre Guild's playhouse, 620 Lee St., called "The Little Foxes." The opening night performance of Lillian Hellman's acerbic drama was emotionally compelling, often funny, always entertaining.

"The Little Foxes" isn't for the cocktails-and-ha-ha set. But for those who like gutsy theatre, it's a heady brew indeed.

It is an ugly portrait of mankind's social and moral failings, set against the neo-genteel background of reconstruction Georgia. Miss Hellman's incisive genius lays open the cosmetic-encrusted surface of people's lives to expose the cancerous underlayer. But decadence isn't confined to one family or one state.

As Miss Hellman's script says, "...there are hundreds of Hubbards ... in rooms, like this. All their names aren't Hubbard, but they are all Hubbards ... and they will own this country some day."

DIRECTOR Doris Detman succeeded notably in making her actors aware of themselves, aware of their past and future, aware of their relationships to each other and to their environment.

By doing this she provided the audience with a compelling emotional experience, one seething with conflict, love and hate.

Some of the most beautifully moving moments came from Elda Sharpless as Birdie, wine-stained remnant of a proud pre-war Southern aristocracy.

Her tipsily tearful scene at the beginning of Act III was great theatre in every way. She built it brilliantly with beautiful restraint. At her exit there were few dry eyes in the audience. The applause that followed was almost sacrilegious.

As young Alexandra Giddens, Marcy Vosburgh displayed immense histrionic talent. When she worked with Miss Sharpless, the two showered the audience with streams of emotional sparks. Miss Vosburgh's final bitter scene with her mother was a fitting capstone for the entire performance.

VETERAN ACTOR Ed Sauer created a sensitive, tortured Horace Giddens. Sauer knows how to handle language, how to move from one mood to another. When it comes to emotion he is a master builder. His last scene with wife-in-name Regina crackled with mounting rancor, leading inevitably to the heart attack that sent him toppling to his doom.

As Ben Hubbard, bullying big brother of Oscar and Regina, Dick Galloway added to his physical stature with a quietly menacing demeanor and an excellent characterization.

IN COUNTERPOINT to Calloway's Ben was George Lopez's Oscar Hubbard. He provided much of the play's humor with his alternately blustery and craven behavior. But it's hard to laugh at a man who hits his wife. Lopez did this so effectively, the audience spent the last act relishing his demise.

Oscar's brashly inept son, Leo, was ably characterized by Jim Frey, contrasting effectively with Alexandra.

It would have been easy to play Cal and Addie, the family servants, as stereotyped minstrel-show negroes, but Ann Shalla (Addie) and Bob Price (Cal) chose to create deeply personal interpretations, thus adding much to the play's believability.

TALENTED AS the individual actors were, their greatest virtue lay in the ability to work with each other in creating a memorable evening of theatre.

They should thank their director for this and they should thank every member of the backstage crew. Like the actors, every technical element blended into the production as a whole. Ken MacGowan's set had great visual depth, functioned well, and was beautifully executed down to the stained-glass window, and the interesting staircase.

Add to set the authentic and tasteful decor of Phyllis MacGowan, the subtle lighting of Ray Lundahl, excellent costumes and makeup, and you have technically professional theatre.

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild production of "The Little Foxes" is infinitely more exciting than the television version. It can be seen Nov. 15 and 16, 22 and 23. Curtain time is 8:30. Call 296-1211 for reservations.

Spoof Next At Ivanhoe

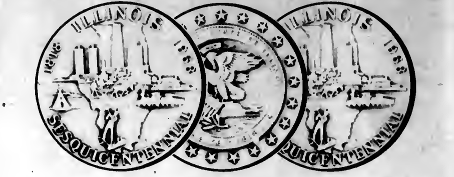
"Little Mary Sunshine," a hilarious spoof of the Jeanette MacDonald – Nelson Eddy musicals of the '30s and '40s, has been chosen as the Ivanhoe Theatre's first musical production. Eileen Brennan will recreate her award winning title role for eight weeks beginning Tuesday, Nov. 19 and running through Sunday, Jan. 12.

The off-Broadway musical was a smash hit in New York for 1,143 performances beginning in 1959. This will be the first professionally staged production made available to Chicago audiences. The producer-director is George Keathley.

THE SHOW won an armful of acting awards for Miss Brennan, including the Theatre World and "Obie" for Best Actress of the Year, plus the Newspapers Guild's Page One Award, given to an off-Broadway actress for the first time. Eileen Brennan became, in fact, an overnight star.

Curtain times are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 6 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and 7 p.m. Sunday. There is a matinee each Wednesday at 2 p.m. Tickets, priced from $3.50 to $5 are now on sale at the Ivanhoe Theatre box office, 3000 N. Clark St. For information and reservations phone 248-6800.

FREE Your Sesquicentennial Medallion



We have three silver and twenty-five bronze medallions which we shall award absolutely free in commemoration of Illinois' 150th anniversary as a state. These are first-issue medallions which were authorized by the Illinois Sesquicentennial Commission and were rapidly sold out. They are already collectors' items, worth many times their original value.

On the face of the medallion, designed by the noted sculptor and medallist, Trygve Rovelstad of Elgin, new skyscrapers soar behind Fort Dearborn, the Famed Chicago Water Tower, and a typical Illinois farm. An Indian tepee, a farmer guiding a horse-drawn plow, and an old-time railroad train recall how Illinois pioneers developed the lonely prairie into a rich agricultural, commercial, and industrial empire.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN GET this valuable keepsake, absolutely free!

Simply visit the Association offices and register your name and address with us (one registration per person). Drawings for the Sesquicentennial medallions will take place on Wednesday, November 20, 1968.

SEE THE SESQUICENTENNIAL COLUMN!

While you are at the Association offices, make a point of seeing the Sesquicentennial Column which will be a present from the Association to the Arlington Heights Historical Society. This lucite column, 18 inches high by 5 inches square, has six embedded Sesquicentennial medallions, including one silver and one bronze from the original "strike."

Fatal School Bus-Car Collision Trial Today

The trial of the two drivers involved in a fatal auto-school bus accident Sept. 25 is scheduled for this morning in Arlington Heights Traffic Court.

Mrs. Hester Leto, 53, of Franklin Park, school bus driver, is charged with reckless homicide and failure to yeild right-of-way after the accident at Palatina Rd. and Buffalo Grove Rd. (Windsor Dr.).

Patricia Numerowski, 17, of 522 Isa Dr., Wheeling is charged with driving too fast for conditions. Two passengers in the auto Miss Numerowski was driving were killed in the crash.

Killed in the accident were Susan Larson, 17, of 18 E. Robert, Prospect Heights and Debbie Huber, 16, of 109 Rose, Prospect Heights.

Lack of traffic controls at the fatal intersection was among the causes cited by the police for the accident--and by coincidence, new traffic lights were scheduled to begin operating there also this morning.

The trial, originally set for Oct. 25, was rescheduled for today at the request of Mrs. Leto's attorney.

Youth Killed As His Car Rams Tree

A prospect Heights youth was killed late last night when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a tree on Wolf Rd. near Camp McDonald Rd. in Prospect Heights.

Robert Peters, 17, of 2 N. Lee, was pronounced dead at Holy Family Hospital.

Cook County Shariff's police said the youth's southbound auto crossed the northbound lane on the two-lane road, struck the tree which stands 50 feet west of the road.

Wheeling firemen used cutting torches to free Peters from the wreckage.

Police said the path of the auto led them to believe Peters may have been passing another auto when his car went out of control. The tires on the driver's side of the car may have gone off the road onto the muddy shoulder, police said.

The first persons on the scene were northbound motorists who did not see the accident, police reported.

Tha speed limit at that section of Wolf is 50 miles per hour, Police said they could not determine how fast Peters' car was going because there were no skid marks on the rain-slicked pavement.

Funeral errangments for Peters who lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Zigaut, were incomplete early this morning. The date of the inquest had not been set yet.

Contracts Let to Build Honeywell Office, Plant

Construction contracts have been awarded for the naw multimillion-dollar Honeywell Inc. office and factory building in Arlington Heights.

Construction will begin almost immediately the company announced.

Completion of the building is expected by Nov. 1, 1969.

The new facility will have a two-story office building next to a one-story assembly plant. The rolling land at the site will allow the second floor of the office section to be on the same level as the factory.

Chicago-based operations of Honeywell's commercial division will be housed in the facility, eliminating present operations in Lincolnwood, Niles and Bellwood.

The division manufacturers temperature controls for commercial, industrial and institutional buildings, fire and security equipment and mechenical automation systams for large building complexes.

Mrs. Hersey Thanks Students for Gifts

When John Hersey High school students and faculty last week honored author John Hersey, for whom the new school is named, Mrs. Hersey visited here with her husband.

Other mementos from the trip for Mrs. Hersey were a metal pin with large initials "J H 68", and a stuffed toy dog, a husky, like the high school's husky pup mascot.

This week, the student body received the following letter of appreciation from Mrs. Hersey:

"To the Students of John Hersey High School,

"I love your school, I love my pin, I love my husky, I love my beret, but most of all I love you! We will long remember your warmth and friendliness. Every minute of our stay was happy and comfortable. How proud we are to share your name. Thank you one and all. We hope to see you often.

Tracks, Traffic Plans Spark Debate

By Barry Petersen

A plan to lower Chicago & North Wester Ry. tracks in downtown Arlington Heights was termed the "best solution" for traffic problems there by Mayor John Woods.

Woods was speaking at a meeting of the village board and representatives from the De Leuw, Cather & Co., to discuss the continuing study the Chicago firm is making in Arlington Heights.

THE PLAN to depress the railroad tracks was one of five suggestions the firm made to ease traffic flow through the downtown area.

The others were elevating the tracks, the construction of an underpass at the intersection of Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy., and funneling southbound traffic off Arlington Heights Rd. onto a Belmont Av. bypass.

Woods said he was opposed to raising the tracks "solely on an esthetic viewpoint.

He said the elevated trains in Chicago cause the neighborhoods through which they pass to "look like slums."

Arlington First National Bank President Douglas Dodds, attending the meeting with a Chamber of Commerce committee studying the De Leuw, Cather & Co., reports, also opposed the elevation of the C & NW trains.

"I CAN'T think of a greater way to destroy the values in this town," Dodds said.

Village Trustee Frank Palmatier said the plan had "no virtue, but it has no deficit either."

He said he would accept the overpass proposal despite the "esthetic problem involved."

Several trustees said the cost of depressing the tracks, estimated at $15,000,000, made the project prohibitive.

Woods said federal and state funds might ease the load, and he felt the plan could be accepted by Arlington Heights residents if "they didn't have to pay for the whole project."

Marwood Rupp, representative of the De Leuw, Cather & Co., explained his company's suggestions at a meeting Wednesday night of the village board. Rupp warned that moving the Chicago & North Western Railway station would only be "moving the problem somewhere else."

Congestion at the intersection of Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy. was discussed, and Woods suggested that suggestions by the firm be carried out immediately.

A STUDY of the intersection by the firm suggested that a remedy for the congested intersection would involve:

would involve acquiring a large piece of land for another station plus parking space."

—Having C & NW westbound trains stop so that the last car on the train would be past the intersection. Presently, trains stopping in Arlington Heights during the evening rush hour stretch back across the intersection, blocking traffic until the train leaves the station.

—Traffic signals being rephased to furnish more flexible control during periods when the crossing is closed.

—Shortening concrete medians on Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy. to ease left turn movements.

—Widening the westbound approach on Northwest Hwy. to incorporate an extended left turn lane, easing flow in the two already-existing through lanes.

"The improvement of this intersection is something we can do almost immediately," Woods said.

Woods also objected to a proposal to move or eliminate the Arlington Heights C & NW station, saying he was "afraid the installation of a station elsewhere might curtail service to residents."

"AS WE visualize it," Woods said, "the overriding defect in trying to move the station is the fact that it

A representative of the consulting firm, Marwood Rupp, agreed, saying "moving the station would just be moving the problems we have now."

Woods said that Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy. are the "best streets in the area to serve the station."

"If we put the station south of the tracks between Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, we would only compound an already-serious traffic situation. It would be an absolutely deplorable situation."

Woods suggested that additional stations, one between Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, and one between Arlington Heights and Palatine, might be a solution to traffic congestion around the Arlington Heights station because it would "take some of the pressure off here in what is becoming an intolerable situation."

Rupp suggested the establishment of a bus line to eliminate what he termed "kiss and ride" traffic, wives who bring their husbands to the C & NW station, drop them off, and return home.

"WE CAN'T point to a single instance except Chicago where a feeder bus line has worked," Rupp said, "but there have been three demonstration projects in the last year where feeder lines, pushed with concerted effort, have worked."

Dodds pointed out that an experiment by his bank three years ago with bus service to the C & NW station had been "disappointing," but said he would "be glad to join in another experiment."

Trustee George Bennett reiterated his suggestion that "we get off our hands and do something."

"We knew all this several years ago," Bennett said.

Bennett issued a policy paper several days before the Wednesday meeting, saying, "We spend $25,000 for a study and they spend the first $15,000 figuring out who we are and where we live."

He pointed out in the paper that the village has commissioned four similar studies since 1954.

"I WAS of the opinion," he said Wednesday night, "that a consultant was charged with the job of advising us on what we ought to do to solve our problem."

Trustee Palmatier, later in the meeting, agreed with Bennett:

"I don't think we should hem and haw about this any longer," he said.

The group discussed a one-way traffic plan for the downtown area, which Palmatier also agreed with.

"My viewpoint is that we need one way street patterns. It was obvious a year ago that we needed them," he said.

Dodds read a statement supporting the Belmont Av. bypass to ease traffic on Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy. He said he favored the plan, if it were implemented by outlawing left turns at the intersection of Arlington Heights Rd. and Northwest Hwy.

Arlington-Gulf and Western Merger Formally Okayed

The multi-million-dollar merger between Gulf & Western Industries, Inc., and Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises, Inc., which owns Arlington Park, became final Thursday.

Gulf and Western directors, meeting in New York, approved the merger unanimously. David N. Judelson, Gulf and Western president, made the announcement.

THE PROPOSAL to merge was announced at an Arlington Park press conference Oct. 8. Judelson and Mrs. Marjorie L. Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Industries, Inc., appeared at the press conference and issued the statement jointly.

The merger, accomplished by an exchange of stock on which no exact estimate of value was made public, involved both the Arlington Park race track and the Washington race track at Homewood in southern Cook County. The transaction also includes hundreds of acres of high-value real estate located adjacent to or near the two race tracks.

Thursday's announcement disclosed that the Chicago Throughbred Enterprises, Inc., also owns a 30-per-cent interest in the new Balmoral Harness Racing Assn., which is to open at Crete south of Chicago on Dec. 2.

The two individuals who will guide the future operation and development of Arlington Park and the additional real estate located near Rolling Meadows, Palatine and Barrington are Mrs. Everett and Philip J. Levin, president of the Gulf and Western real estate subsidiary, Gulf and Western Reality Corp.

Mrs. Everett will continue to operate the Arlington Park and Washington Park properties. Included in Arlington Park is the Carousel Restaurant complex and the new 420-room Arlington Towers hotel now being built and scheduled to open March 1, 1969.

"FINAL APPROVAL of the merger will make available funds to accelerate the improvements planned for the track area at Arlington Park," explained Mrs. Everett. "In addition to building the hotel, we will be adding fireproof stables for 500 additional horses and we will continue improvements of the clubhouse and grandstand begun two years ago."

Levin promised that work of improving the land owned by Arlington Park, but not used in connection with the racing or convention activities, would be given attention immediately. "It is our intention to develop this land, which has never been fully utilized, as rapidly as possible. Our first step will be to make a careful study of the best use to which each section can be put. This study will require several months."

There is relatively little development land near Arlington Park. There is a tract of less then 15 acres immediately west of the Carousel Restaurant between Rohwling and Illinois 53. There is a somewhat larger tract southwest of the intersection of Wilke and Euclid.

These are the persons who will direct the future of Arlington Park and its related real estate now that the merger between Gulf & Western and Arlington Park was given final approval Thursday. Mrs. Marjorie L. Everett (left), of Arlington Heights will continue to manage the race track, the Carousel complex and the new Arlington Towers Hotel. Philip J. Levin, president of Gulf and Western Realty Corporation, will be in charge of the development of hundreds of acres of land in suburban Cook County not used by the race track.

Defense Sirens Almost Ready

The new eight-siren civil defense system for Arlington Heights is nearing completion, civil defense director Lt. Jack Benson said yesterday. "We've got four of the sirens ready," Benson said.

Sirens located at Wilson Elementary, Hersey and Arlington High Schools, and on the village municipal building were hooked up, he said.

THE FOUR sirens located at the new Rand Junior High School, Berbecker Park, the intersection of Fernandez and Kirchoff, and the new fire station on Arlington Heights Rd. are still being worked on.

"We hope to have all the work done in 10 days," Benson said, "but I can't be sure. We had some trouble before because Illinois Bell Telephone discovered they had to put in underground cables, and the electrical contractor at work now might also run into unexpected problems."

Benson said it might be some time after the siren network is completed before the first tests are run.

"WE HAVE about 13,000 flyers to hand out, explaining what the signals mean, and I've had some trouble getting someone to get them out."

He said he had contacted several Boy Scout troops, and was waiting to hear from them.

"I'm not too worried," he said. "This isn't really tornado season, and I'm pretty sure the sirens will be working by spring."

Merchant Still Will Get All of Shopper's Cash

The number of days between Thanksgiving and Christmas may be the fewest possible this year, but Arlington Heights merchants aren't worried, Chamber of Commerce executive Manager Harold Bell said yesterday.

"It's short," he said, "but the merchants will just push a little harder."

The short number of days - 22 - is due to the fact that Thanksgiving is a fluctuating date, the last Thursday of November.

Last year there were 26 days between Thanksgiving, the usual kickoff date for Christmas shopping, and Christmas itself.

"We'll just live with it," Bell said, "and hope we have good weather and people will still buy."

Good weather, he added, means snow and cold.

"We want it to snow and get a little colder so people get into the mood for Christmas," he said. "We're more worried about that than the short season."

He said merchants were prepared months before Christmas, and were ready for the Christmas rush - no matter how long or short it is.

Bell also predicted that sales during the Christmas season wouldn't be affected by the shortened season. Christmas sales usually average about 12 per cent of total annual sales.

"I don't think sales will suffer," he said. "The season is shorter, but not drastically so, and we've had shorter seasons before. We'll just intensify our efforts."

Park Board to Sell $1.3 Million in Bonds

The Arlington Heights Park Board decided Tuesday night to sell $1,300,000 in bonds.

Bids for the bonds will be opened at the Nov. 25 meeting of the board, Director Thomas Thornton said.

A referendum in July authorized the Park Board to sell $2,800,000 in bonds for new park development and development of existing parks. Thornton said the remaining bonds would be sold "in about six months."

The bonds are for development of three community parks, five neighborhood parks, five existing parks, and the swimming pool at Arlington High School.

Also at the meeting, Thornton said, the board held a discussion of new park names and park use policy, but no action was taken.

Holly Daze Ball Planned By Juniors

A giant 24-inch pine cone, frosted and decorated as a miniature Christmas tree, is being used to remind members of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club of their "Holly Daze" benefit ball to be held Dec. 14 at the Chevy Chase Country Club.

The Juniors are using a variety of cones from hemlock, fir, cedar and pine trees which they collected locally and as far away as Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan and the Canadian Rockies.

FIFTY SUGAR loaf pine cones were brought from the California Sierras to top the centerpieces and will be frosted and touched with tiny jewels from discarded jewelry. Smaller cones and candle cups will complete the setting, highlighted by gold spray and glitter. Mrs. Charles Altman, decorations chairman, supervised the collection of pine cones and assembling of the pieces.

Mrs. Jeremiah Crise, dance chairman, has announced that Sam Coniglio's band has been engaged to play for dancing after the dinner which will begin at 8:30 p.m.

For reservations call Mrs. John Hughes, reservations chairman, at 392-3333, or Mrs. Crise at 392-7890.

Coronets Hold Tryouts Sunday

BY ELEANOR RIVES

When more than 100 eager girls are striving with all their might to join a group that demands much time, rigorous practice sessions (some as early as 6 a.m.), extra work hours on projects, fund-raising activities, sewing a uniform, buying boots, paying $15 dues, and participating in national competition, that group must be something special.

When Mrs. Lynn Lindstrom, director for six years, elects to stay with the group even though she must now commute from Kenosha, about 100 miles, for each practice session, that group must indeed be something special.

THE CORONETS, now officially named the Coronets Color Guard and Drill Team, Inc., have been the VFW State Champions for the last four years. They were the American Legion State Champions in 1968 and won the VFW National Championship in 1967.

Tryouts for the Coronets will be held Sunday evening. Since early October, over 100 girls have been attending clinics to learn the basics. All girls, whether old members or not, must try out. Mrs. Lindstrom and the senior girls from the team will choose the members. They hope to increase the group to about 84 girls on the line this year.

Each girl who makes this snappy team will be sent a letter explaining to her and her parents what is expected and how she benefits by being a member. A meeting of team parents will be held Dec. 8 to discuss plans for the year. Movies will be shown of the girls at national competition last August in Detroit.

OFFICERS Larry Brousseau, Martin Voise, Dorothy Mirs and Stanley Dalley believe that once parents are exposed to the program, they become as excited as their daughters.

Those happy girls who successfully make the Coronets team benefit in many ways: they learn to get along with others and to accept responsibility; they make new friends and have new travel experiences.

Best of all, they experience that special joy and satisfaction known only when many individuals combine their talents to perform with grace and precision as a single unit.

He's 18 And Away From Home

BY GERRY WALSH

It's your first birthday away from home. You are a college freshman now, and you are fearful that your friends will find out that it is your birthday and throw you in the river! Meanwhile back at the castle, your family is missing you, and wondering if you are missing us too.

We asked what you would like for your birthday, and suggested shirts, sweaters, etc. We got the answer loud and clear - "Don't buy me clothes, I would like CASH." As a mother my unfavorite gift is cash; but I sent a check because I knew that was what you really wanted.

I recall my "Old" neighbor, who many years ago told me how lucky I was to be buying toys, books and games for my four young children. "Wait," she said, "when they are in college and all they want is a check for Christmas or their birthday." How awful, I thought, never-never--. Now here I am writing the birthday check. Never say never!

I HAVE always loved you - but I didn't like you as a young teen-ager; and you didn't like your family through those difficult years from 13 to 18. Richard Armour, in his humorous book THROUGH DARKEST ADOLESCENCE, called them a disease. I agreed with him, and you didn't like that at all. Now I see the light at the end of the long tunnel - your recovery and mine.

I like your high ideals, and I have learned a great deal from the cynicism of your generation. I am impressed that you do not smoke or drink as your parents do. I was proud that you made time in high school to work in the inner-city with emotionally disturbed boys.

It's hard to admin, but it is true - You and all college students have much higher standards of achievement than we did. You study more, worry more, fail more, and learn more. You know how I feel about grades - a necessary evil, often unfair, and certainly not a subject to be flouted at cocktail parties as a status symbol. I met a man at a dinner party last week who displayed not his son's picture, but his college grades. This is too much!

I THINK that all eighteen-year-olds should vote. I know you certainly were not impressed with either candidate. You wore a Dick Gregory button, because you had interviewed Mr. Gregory, as a high school editor, and you respected his intelligence and dedication, and most of all his honesty.

I'm pleased that you had the moral courage to wear that button, when you worked for a Dallas newspaper this summer. That is the kind of "Guts," that my friends don't have.

WHEN I called to wish you a Happy Birthday you said, "Tomorrow I register to get my head blown off."

You know that I deplore the Vietnam War, and I long to tell you there will be no more wars ever, but I can't; so I had no reply. I have faith that your generation will be the one to put an end to wars, and live in a world of brotherhood and justice. You deplore "law and order," without justice.

Your generation's concern is a real step forward toward a better world, and because they care, perhaps you will have an answer for your son when he is eighteen years old.

So I salute you, my eighteen-year-old son, because you are of an involved, committed, and questioning generation. I know the world will be better, much better, because of kids like you.

Love always,
Mother

Women Cancer Experts Stress Early Diagnosis, Early Treatment

By Eleanor Rives

The advice, "Early diagnosis, early treatement," was strongly stressed by cancer experts, each distinguished woman physicians and specialists in their own field, at the Cancer Seminar held Nov. 6 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Mount Prospect.

The luncheon, a small Christmas sale, and the panel program were presented by the Northwest Auxiliary of Mary Thompson Hospital with the help of Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae. Mary Thompson Hospital a women's and children's hospital in Chicago, is staffed completely by women physicians although there are men physicians on the courtesy staff.

PURPOSE of the seminar was to enlighten, reassure and allay the anxieties all women have concerning the spectre of cancer.

Dr. Rose V. Menendian, surgeon and former president of staff at Mary Thompson, introduced the panel's moderator, Dr. Eloise Parsons. Dr. Menendian was the founder of the Northwest Auxiliary.

Eloise Parsons, M. D., Ph. D., chairman of the tumor board at Mary Thompson, and grandmother of five, emphasized that early cancer detection can be achieved only by a thorough physical examination at least once a year.

In a survey of 2,000 people, she came up with some surprising figures; 26 per cent were "goers," had check-ups at least once a year; 17 per cent were past goers but no longer had regular check-ups; and 57 per cent never have complete physical examinations.

CANCER IS second only to heart disease as the leading cause of death in the United States. There were 600,000 new cases this year. It is estimated that the cancer death toll for 1968 alone will total 315,000 persons or about 860 a day.

"More than 50 million Americans, now living, will eventually have cancer," said Dr. Parsons.

How many will survive?

"At the present rate, in the United States, about one in three," she declared. "With early detection through regular physical examinations, it could be raised to 1 in 2!

"The cause is unknown," she continued, "but I now feel certain that within my lifetime, the enigma of cancer will be solved."

FIRST PANEL speaker was Dr. Evangeline Stenhouse, certified by the American Board of Dermatology, a founder of the Cancer Prevention Center, and past president of the American Medical Women's Association.

Discussing skin blemishes that may be cancerious, she stressed that very early detection by the patient is possible. Treatment is simple, satisfactory and excellent cosmetic results are possible.

"Any skin lesion that is recent in origin, changes in color or size, bleeds or ulcerates, or does not heal rapidly, should be examined by a physician as early as possible," she said.

Elaine Steubner, D. D. S., Professor of Oral and Maxillo-facial surgery in both the Department of Surgery and the College of Dentistry at the University of Illinois, showed colored slides of cancerous lesions of the lip, mouth and oral cavity.

"You can recognize these yourself," she said. "Ulcerations, white patches, numbness or swellings may or may not be cancerous, but let a physician determine this as soon as possible."

ACCORDING to Dr. Steubner, persons who smoke cigarettes, cigars or pipes, or wear ill-fitting dentures, are more disposed to oral cancer.

Dr. Sarah J. Daniels, Mary Thompson Hospital pathologist, discussed the "Pap" smear method of detecting cervical cancer, developed in 1943 and now widely accepted.

The test, 97 to 98 per cent accurate for vaginal and cervical cancer, detects cast-off cancer cells long before there is any lesion present, making very early diagnosis possible.

In 1961, six per cent of the women in Illinois had Pap tests. In 1966, the figure had risen to 23 per cent, almost 750,000 women. Dr. Daniels hopes the day is not far off when the figure reaches 100 per cent.

Gastro-intestinal signs and sysmptoms which indicate cancer were discussed by Dr. Adele Gecht, certified by the Board of Surgery, Follow in the American College of Surgeons.

SHE POINTED OUT the following signs which warrant a physical examination for cancer of the color: change in bowel habits, rectal bleeding (even once), hidden bleeding evidenced by symptoms such as anemia, weakness, pallor, etc.

Dr. Nancy Gubish, who does research at the University of Illinois and was a recent resident at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital in the Department of Medicine, discussed chemo-therapy in the treatment of cancer.

The role of drugs is becoming increasingly important. "We are producing durgs from nature, from the backyard, and man-made in the test tube," she said. "We hope to cure cancer with drugs, and in a few instances we have -- quickly and without a scar."

AFTER A question and answer period, Dr. Parsons reminded everyone to be alert to the seven warning signals of cancer: bleeding or discharge, a lump or thickening, a sore that does not heal, change in bowel or bladder habits, hoarseness or persistent cough, indigestion or difficulty in swallowing, and changes in a wart or mole.

She concluded by saying "Why don't you give yourself a birthday present? -- peace of mind. Be free of anxieties and fears concerning cancer. Have a physical examination during your birthday month every year."

Letters to the Editor

A Clarification Of Censorship Views

Editor:

As a responsible educator whose views you presented in an article titled SHOULD PARENTS CENSOR MOVIES? (Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1968), I feel it necessary to correct some false impressions created by this feature. Were I a parent whose children had been entrusted to Sacred Heart of Mary High School, I would seriously question the rationale evident in my quoted responses. And it is for this reason I request The Day to present this clarification to its readers.

The question of censorship is a very delicate one, debated the length and breadth of our land. Rightly, it seems to me, censorship resides in the home, as does all manner of education and presentation of values. However, little by little, church, school, and state have usurped the family's place by assuming an authority posture. Parents, therefore, today are faced with a serious dilemma: having been deprived by well-meaning institutions of their parental responsibility, how can they exercise any real authority, especially in the area of censorship?

When you asked me, Mr. Clarke, how I felt about youngsters seeing THE FOX, I answered in this way: Because the teenagers are seeing the film, I should, as an educator, provide the key to understanding the material therein presented. The problem of who should and who shouldn't see such a film is a family one. And parents certainly have the right and duty to say "yes" or "no," as they see fit. As for personally recommending this film to my senior students, I would have to deny this. Too much responsibility would be unjustly assumed by me through such a stance. Because the films students see, either through our daily film study course or outside the school situation, are certainly matter for class discussion, I feel responsible to unravel any misunderstanding about such films through enlightened instruction. Here my role ends. Whether the film in the area is WITH SIX YOU GET EGG ROLL or ROSEMARY'S BABY or THE FOX, I do not assign them to be viewed but will lead a discussion about them if the students have seen them.

The censorship question posed by the newspaper is a relevant one and raises several others, among them the responsibility of instructional agencies to provide film education courses both for adults, as well as for students. The verbal world of the parent generation is a different one from the audio-visual world of the youngster. According to Rev. John Culkin, S.J., Director of the Communications Center at Fordhem University,

"The case for film study in the schools can be put quite simply without invoking the intercession of a long list of respectable experts. We live in a total-information culture, which is being increasingly dominated by the image, both moving and static. By the time the average American student graduates from high school today, he was watched more than 15,000 hours of television and seen more than 500 films. The TV figure is the result of an average of twenty hours of weekly viewing for fifteen years; it adds up to two full years of twenty-four-hour-a-day viewing. During this same period, this average student has attended school five hours a day, 180 days a year, for twelve years, to produce a total of 10,800 hours of school time. Only sleeping time surpasses television as top time-consumer."

Intelligent living within such an environment calls for the development of habits of perception, analysis, judgment, and selectivity that are capable of processing the relentless input of such visual data. At a time when so many of our economic, political, and personal decisions are being shaped by the new visual media, we have to organize something to outnumber the vidiots in our midst and to replace them with seeing-eye children. Herein lies the responsibility of the educator.

Finally, because so much of the film fare today is of a highly sophisticated nature, where protests loud and long echo from concerned and puzzled adults, I would like to quote the distinguished film critic Ed Fischer. In an article which appeared in Ave Maria, May 23, 1959, he wrote:

"I am not against sex as the subject matter of fiction, and yet I have always resented a dirty joke. That doesn't seem logical, does it? A dirty joke is sex used as the subject matter of fiction. If someone told me a dirty joke about a wife's unfaithfulness to her husband, I would resent it, and yet I am convinced that Tolstoy's ANNA KARENINA, a story of a wife's unfaithfulness, is one of the great monuments of the human mind. The joke and ANNA KARENINA differ not in subject matter but in the art of the thing: why the story is told and how the story is told. That just shows how identical subject matter can be used to degrade the spirit or uplift it.

"Anyone not trained in the arts might think that subject matter makes the difference between the moral and the immoral. For instance, anyone without some understanding of art might always see the nude human figure as something erotic, never really convinced that nudity is not necessarily pornograpby. There are some people who see the ballet as immodest; they have no feeling for it as art.

"Any part of human experience is legitimate subject matter for the artist. But the artist must deal with all subject matter at a certain altitude.

"A friend of mine who reviews books pointed out that if some modern writers took the subject matter of OEDIPUS REX they would turn it into a sick, sick book. The play deals with incest, patricide, suicide, and self-mutilation. Few gaudy drugstore paperbacks can claim such an all-star lineup of evil. OEDIPUS REX is not a sick play but a great masterpiece because of the art in it."

Sincerely yours,
Sr. Gabrielle Corbally, R.S.H.M.

From North Shore Unitarian

Skyline Gets Uplift

The profile of massive strength of the southeast wall of the new addition to the North Shore Unitarian Church in Deerfield is balanced by the reflections of sunlight from the fused and faceted glass panels in the recesses in the 4-foot-thick structure. The interior of the worship area is similarly sculptured, rolling up into the ceiling and into natural skylights or bubbles high above the roof line. Residents of Arlington Heights, Barrington, and Des belong to the congregation. (Photo by Ron Dirsmith, Architect)

The religious skyline recently offered uplift in both spiritual and physical dimensions to northwest suburban churchgoers with the dedication of the North Shore Unitarian Church at 2100 Halfday Rd., in Deerfield.

The congregation of the 12-year-old church includes members from Des Plaines, Barrington, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, although it has attracted to it parishioners from the home community of Deerfield, and an outlying area embracing Highland Park, Glencoe, Lake Forest, North Chicago, Waukegan, Libertyville, Mundelein, Zion, Winnetka, Wilmette, Glenview, Evanston and Lake Bluff.

Nestled atop a wooded, grassy knoll on Route 22 just east of the tollway, the new church presents a blend of sculpture, architectural and natural features to provide a spiritual home for man's aspirations, according to architect Ronald Dirsmith of Highland Park.

DIRSMITH said the form for the sanctuary was conceived functionally to meet the needs and aims of the congregation. The new structure contains a new worship area, sanctuary, minister's study, hearth room with fireplaces, covered arcade, and one-story classroom wing, which faces a garden designed in a sculptured manner to provide a meditation and teaching location.

Special guest speaker at the Nov. 3 ceremony was Dr. John Hayward, chairman of the department of religion at Southern Illinois University. Dr. Dana McLean Greeley, Unitarian-Universalist association president, addressed the congregation. The Rev. Russell Bietzer, minister of the church, has served since 1960.

A key factor in the physical expansion of the church building to twice the size of the original 1960 structure has been to offer more youth the use of the church school facilities while their parents worship.

LOCAL artistic talents have been enlisted in the creative innovations of the Unitarian church, such as the sculpture of Bruce Fink of Northbrook, and the 22 panels of fused faceted glass by Robert White of Chicago. This project, not completed, is intended to present in the worship area windows the eye of man viewing the cycle of man's experience from historic origins to the cosmos.

The sculptured effect in the six dramatically crafted wood and iron doors leading to the sanctuary were evolved by Bruce Fink to suggest organic growth.

A massive 12-ton pulpit, quarried from native sandstone rock, is focal point in the worship area for the congregation. Seating more than 300 persons, this area is lighted by colored bubbles in the roof. The addition itself is asymmetrical, and presents sculptured curves to replace traditional sizes and shapes.

RICHARD C. Holl, Unitarian church spokesman for the congregation which financed the $300,000 addition, defined their rational approach to religious and social concerns while enjoying freedom of belief and expression in these terms: "Can a door handle requiring weeks to make have any significance in an age when men can fly to the moon in less time? Does an opaque, fused glass window cause anyone to pause who has color TV? Will a simple building expand our consciousness of each other, of love, of truth or of beauty?"

ANOTHER MILESTONE was reached in the relatively brief history of the 12-year-old NORTH SHORE UNITARIAN CHURCH in Deerfield with the recent dedication of a $300,000 addition shown here in a blend of sculpture, nature and architecture to provide expanded facilities for the spiritual needs of the congregation, drawn from adjacent communities, including Arlington Heights, Barrington, and Des Plaines. The Rev. Russell R. Bietzer is minister. (Photo by Ron Dirsmith, Architect)

Mortals And Immortals

"Thy hands have made me and fashioned me: give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments. Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may live: for thy law is my delight."

These words from Psalm 119 are part of the Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "Mortals and Immortals" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Related passages from the denominational textbook will include the following: "In Science, man's immortality depends upon that of God, good, and follows as a necessary consequence of the immortality of good."

Services at First Church of Christ Scientist, 401 S. Evergreen St., Arlington Heights, are held at 11 a.m. All are welcome.

Comic Opera to Entertain Area High School Students

BY MARGARETE MURPHY

Through the efforts of Boyd White, vocal instructor at Arlington High School, 125 young men and women are looking forward to enjoying an afternoon at the opera on Dec. 2 with a performance of "Don Pasquale," by Gaetano Donizetti.

Donizetti (1797-1848) was a contemporary of Rossini, when Italian melody became supreme. Today two operas of Rossini's as against five of Donizetti's are in regular operatic repertory, of which "Don Pasquale" is a great favorita with opera lovers. The composer's prolific talent produced 70 operas, among them the tragic "Lucia di Lammarmoor." "Don Pasquale" sparkles with melody, and the intriguing comedy makes it particularly appealing to young peopla.

A STINGY, old bachelor is tha hero, Don Pasquala (bass), annoyed with his nephew, Ernesto (tenor), who refuses to marry women of his uncie's choice. Instead, he prefers the young widow, Norina (soprano). Dr. Malatesta (baritone), a friend to both, decides to take e hand, in favor of Ernasto. Ha, therefore, visits Don Pasquala and tells him of a lady, supposedly his sister, who would make him a charming wife. This is Norina, sweetheart of Ernesto.

Norina is taken into the secret and instructed in the part she is to play. Under the name of Sofronia, a modest young woman just out of the convent, she is to consent to a marriage contract with Don Pasquale, but as soon as it is signed, she is to annoy and harass him, so that he wili be only too glad to rid himself of her, and will give his consent to nephew Ernesto's marriage.

IN THE second act Ernesto iaments his fate, when Pasuale, dressed for the wedding, arrives. Norina and Malatesta also enter, sha pretending reluctance to sign the contract; however, readily consents when the notary appears. She then shads her faigned modasty, which bewilders Ernesto, but at a sign from Dr. Malatesta, he remains silent.

Loving advances from Don Pasquala ara spurned by Norina, who informs him that she prefers Ernesto. She also instructs the housekeeping staff of her wishes and enrages Pasquale with har extravagances, who resolves not to pay the bills.

IN THE third act Norina is the center of milliners and dressmakers and when Don Pasquale is informed of her plans to attend the theater, he forbids her, which leads to a quarrel with Norina slapping him. Sha then coyly drops a letter as she leaves the room, adding jealousy to Pasquala's turmoil, but Dr. Malatesta comforts him, while Pasquala insists that she will have to leave his house immediately.

In the next scene Norina is accused of concealing a lover in the house, and Dr. Malatesta advises him to let Norina go, so that she can marry Ernesto. The don discovers that the so-called doctor's sister and Norina are one and the same, and the marriage was a hoax. Pasquale and Malatesta decide that the best thing to do is for Norina and Ernesto to unite in marriage.

Illinois Bell Offers Amends to Hersey

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. has made amends for a misspelling in its unusually reliable telephone directory.

The latest issue of the directory lists a "Hershey" High School in Arlington Heights. The new school's name is Hersey--without the chocolate-tinted "H"--in honor of Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright John Hersey.

The make up for the error, Illinois Bell prepared wallet-size mementoes of the school's dedication ceremony held earlier this month and is distributing several thousand of them.

It also has prepared two plaques commemorating the event--one to hang in the school and the other to be sent to Hersey.

Experimental Homily At Interfaith Service

An experimental audio-visual homily, "Violence and Hope--The Family of Man, Arlington Heights 1968" will be presented during the third annual interfaith service here Nov. 24.

The service will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Grace gymnasium of Arlington High School.

The homily, written by Dr. Norbert Hruby, vice president of Mundelein College, will be narrated by Robert Hawley of the First Presbyterian Church, a member of Village Theater.

The service will be preceded by a procession of members of Arlington Heights churches walking in congregational groups with their clergymen.

The prelude, the hymns and the postlude will be played by the brass choir of the Wheeling High School Band.

Counselor Visits Here

C. W. Post College, Long Island, New York, will be described here by Susan Sleeper, the school's admissions counselor, next Monday.

Miss Sleeper will visit the guidance department of Arlington High School at 9 a.m.; Prospect High at 11 a.m.; and Forest View High School at 1 p.m.

C. W. Post College is a private, co-educational school connected with Long Island University.

Laycock Heads Scout-O-Rama

Lawrence Laycock, 1114 Greenwood, Mount Prospect, has been named North Star District Scout - O - Rama chairman for the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America.

North Star, one of seven districts of the Northwest Suburban Council, and includes Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

The 1969 Scout-O-Rama will be April 26-27 at the Arlington Park Race Track exhibit hall, the first time it will be indoors in eight years.

Meet the Winners

WE'RE WORRIED, TOO!

Dear Soldier,

Yes, we're worried...hoping that you like all the crazy "in the cracks" things that we tucked in your Christmas box. Your real gift? Well, we thought and puzzled over that. What can you use overseas? THEN IT HIT!

We put the money we would have spent in a special savings account just for you. Now you'll have Christmas when you come home...you can use the money towards you stereo and EVEN those AWFUL records that you call "tough".

We'll add to it on special occasions-your birthday, Valentine's Day, and Easter, too. It will be growing and waiting for you until you're home, again.

GOLF MILL STATE BANK, where I opened your account, has employees with men over there, too. They asked for your address in 'Nam. I wonder why? Let me know.

Merry Christmas, soldier.

Harper Cage Squad Opening at Elgin Tonight

Scott Bischoff

Day SPORTS

November 15,
1968

By Dave Garland

Harper College's varsity basketball squad is taking shape as the Hawks are preparing for the season's opener this Friday night against Elgin College at Elgin.

According to head coach John Galch, "We're starting to jell pretty well. We're moving the ball well and the boys are beginning to learn more on both offense and defense."

Gelch held a scrimmage Nov. 6 which turned up some good points.

Gelch said that the team played well generally, "I think probably some of the good points were that we seemed to have good balance in the scoring. It was well distributed. We moved the ball well. However, they tended to pace themselves well."

"I think the important thing was that they relaized the lenght of a college ballgame isn't that much more demanding physically than that of a high school game. I though (Jim) Meilen and (Bill) Keehan had real good games."

THE SCRIMMAGE was one of the major factors in Gelch's decision to name a starting lineup as well giving him an idea of his squad's potential. Gelch was encouraged by the showing, "These boys like to run with the ball and we have the personnel. We will have to improve our rebounding, but we have the speed and the ball handling ability to be a good fast break ball club."

Gelch has decided to go with a starting linup of 6-4 Bob Spore and 6-5 Keehan in the corner spots while the center duties will be handled by 6-4 Dave Willy. The guard positions for the opener with Elgin will be filled by Mellen and Tom Keresturi, a 5-10 freshmen from Mount Prospect who has shown some promise.

However, Gelch said a lot of players will see action, "I expect to use a lot of ballplayers. I think it will be more of a team effort than an individual effort this year. We have a demanding schedule this year and I would like to use a 10 or 12 ballpalyers in each game, even if half of them play only four or five minutes all together."

"I expect to use (Scott Bischoff, (Mike) Druding, and (Lile) Kazanas a lot as subs in addition to my starting five."

For the intre-squad game, Gelch divided the team up into two squads, one red and other one in white uniforms. They played the regular collegiate 20-minute halves. The Reds won the scrimmage 81-71. The results are as follows:

REDS (81)

St. Viator Boasts Experience for Season

By Bill Price

The 1968-69 edition of the St. Viator High School basketball team will have three returning starters and four returning lettermen to lead into action when the season gets underway later this month.

The Lion cagers will be competing in the tough Chicagoland Prep League with such perrenial standouts as DeLaSalle and St. Patricks. Lion head coach Ed Wasielewski modestly reports that despite the wealth of returning talent he feels that his team will finish the season with a .500 percentage mark.

WASIELEWSKI PREDICTS that the basketball standings will probably be much the same as the football ratings were with DeLaSalle once again on top of the conference.

Leading the Lion cagers back into action this year will be Dave Erfort, Jack Brawley, Don Raising and Terry Cullen. All are veterans of last year's unit and lettermen. Erfort is expected to pave the way for the Lions as he has been a standout forward for the last two years and was 2nd in the scoring department for the Lions last year as a junior. As a team leader, Erfort has proved to be invaluable and is always seeking to improve himself while helping his teamates at the same time.

BRAWLEY, A FLEET guard was a starter all of last year for the Lions and should retain his first team status this year. Having one of the best outside shots on the team, Brawley is a definite threat to any team that uses a loose offensive strategy and leaves the guards open backcourt, according to his coach. Brawley and Erfort proved to be a fine offensive combination last year and are reported to be working very well together in pre-season practices this year.

As of yet, however, the starting lineup is still quite hazy even in the mine of Lion mentor Wasilewski. After two weeks of official practices Wasilewski reported, "There are still a number of gaps in the lineup that could easily be filled by any of seven boys. I probably won't know who the starting team will consist of until just before our first game."

In addition to those already mentioned, there are four more boys that have a chance of making the first team. Greg Doyle, Don Keskia, Tom Reno and Jim Hynes are all showing fine potential in the daily workouts the Lions have been holding.

The Chicagoland Prep League has consistently produced some of the finest teams in the Chicagoland area and some of them could prove a problem for the Lions as they try to improve upon last year's .500 plus season.

Skier Sigi Grottendorfer To be at Sears

Sigi Grottendorfer

Sigi Grottendorfer, a graduate of the Austrian State Ski School and a member of the Othmer Schneider Ski Instructors Group of Sears Roebuck, Inc., will appear at the Golf Mill Sears store Nov. 19-23.

Grottendorfer, who was an instructor in Salzburg, Austria, for five years before coming to the United States as a professional, has won races both in his native country and in America in giant slalom.

He is now ski school director at Sugarbush Valley, Vt., and has served under Schneider at both Boyne Mountain, Mich., and Portillo, Chile. The Austrian will be on hand to advise customers and sales personnel on the latest ski equipment, techniques and fashions.

Grottendorfer is one of many instructors throughout the country to tour the Sears stores on behalf of Schneider and the Ted Williams Sports Advisory staff. Schneider won an Olympic gold and silver medal in 1952.

4th-Place Lions Rate 6 Players On CPL All-Conference Team

When the All-Conference ratings for the Chicagoland Prep League were released, there are six representatives of the St. Viator Lions mentioned on either the first or second teams.

Chosen for the first team status were Marty Wendell, Denny Foreman, John Van Denberg and Dick Aylward. All were cited for their offensive work except Aylward who gained recognition as a defensive halfback.

On the second team were Mark Walinski and Pat Sheetz who made the team on the offensive standpoint.

THE LIONS FINISHED the season with a fourth-place rating in the final standings.

Plagued by injuries throughout the season, the Lions came back at the end with a number of exceptionally strong showings. Much of the credit for the teams' somewhat erratic success is credited to those six boys that were named to the All-Conference team.

Wendell, a senior, was a co-captain and fine leader for the Lions throughout the season. Starting at the center position, Wendell was instrumental in the success of the Lions' rushing attack. Teaming with VanDenBerg, the two beefy linemen were on the spot in many of the tackles on defense also. VanDenBerg also managed to intercept a pass and block two punts to add to his fine record.

Foreman, a fleet junior end, was one of the secret weapons for the Lions. On three occassions Foreman outdistanced his pursuers and took in a long pass that went for a touchdown. Foreman will be one of the bright spots for the Lions next year.

Aylward, definitely one of the finest defensive halfbacks in the area, specialized in interceptions. The final telly stood at 11 for the husky senior who ran a number of them back for more than 20 yards apiece. Aylward was also on the offensive unit for the Lions, starting at right end.

Named to the second team, Walinski served as co-captain with Wendell and also proved to a fine leader. Walinski scored six times for the Lions and was a threat throughout the season.

Sheetz started at the other end for the Lions and also played defensive halfback. Comparebly small in size, Sheetz made a point of stopping even the biggest backs in the conference repeatedly.

Paper Calls Arlington 4th

An Illinois newspaper, the Illinois Prep Sports Special, has listed its choice of the top 15 "large" football teams in the state.

That list includes Arlington in fourth place behind Evanston, LaSalle-Peru and Carbondale. The list also places Joliet West eighth and Glenbard West ninth.

Receiving honorable mention were Maine South and Notre Dame.

According to the poll, Arlington has the second best defensive showing allowing just 26 points to be scored on them all season. Best is Champaigh Centennial with 25. The Cards rank fifth in number of points scored with a 307. Tops is 329 by LaSalle-Peru, but the second place team also gave up 86 points to the opposition.

Evanston has piled up only 283 points against their tough Suburban League competition, and given up 27 points for the season.

Teams listed in the top 15 were: 1. Evanston, 8-0; 2. LaSalle-Peru, 9-0; 3. Carbondale, 9-0; 4. Arlington, 9-0; 5. Sandburg, 8-0; 6. Alton, 8-0-1; 7. Ottawa, 8-1; 8. Joliet West, 9-0; 9. Glenbard West, 8-0; 10. Champaign Centennial, 9-0; 11. Marshall, 7-0; 12. DuQuoin, 9-0; 13. Lincoln, 8-1; 14. Hinsdale Central, 7-1; 15. Belleville East, 7-1-1.

Day by Day

Success Story

By Catherine O'Donnell

It was Dad's Day last Saturday at Bradley University and Max Brittain of S. Gibbons grabbed an Ozark plane and flew down. He was almost able to fly back without the airplane. He was so proud of his son Max Jr., who is known around the old homestead as Butch.

Butch gave a speech to the visiting dads welcoming them and then announced privately to his dad that he'd been named to the Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities.

Butch is a young, handsome fellow, who graduated from Prospect High School in 1965. He is a senior at Bradley and his list of credits shows that he couldn't possibly have had time for the weekend visits he made to his home just to visit.

He was President, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and Political Chairman during different years with the Inter-Fraternity Council. He was freshman class president, on the Student Senate for three years as a member of the Executive Council, Chairman of the Traditions Committee, a member of the Campus Improvement Committee and the University Rules Committee.

HE HAS been a member of Sigma Nu for four years, serving on the Executive Council, as Rush and Political Chairman and as Commissary Steward. He was the Inter-Fraternity Council Representative and he handled their sports.

He played football for four years, softball for four years and golf for three years. He was with the Bradley Debate Team for two years and he served on the Executive Board and as Treasurer of the Young Republican Club of Bradley.

He was the Parliamentarian and the Dean of the Student Advisory Committee in the Politics Club. He was Chairman of the Kings and Queens Committee of the Frosh and Sophomore Dances. He was on the Personnel Committee of the Student Board of Control. He appeared in the Stunt Show one year and he sang for three years with the Bradley Panhellenic Fraternity Singers.

HE IS an honorary member of the Pi Kappa Delta forensics fraternity, the Pi Omicron Sigma, the inter-fraternity honor society, and the Pi Sigma Alpha, an honorary political science group. Through it all he maintained a 5.5 average on an 8 scale. Butch is a speech and pre-law major.

YOUNG MAX made his announcement just in time to make his grandmother, Mrs. Grace Wilbur of Glens Fall, New York, very happy indeed. Mrs. Wilbur is visiting the family for the holidays.

There is a constant murmur from adults, children and young people the age of Max Jr. who say there is nothing to do. There isn't? Ask young Max. For him, there just isn't enough time.

Explain Self-Evaluation System for Teachers

District 15 Board of Education members last night heard an explanation of a new self-evaluation system for teachers said to be "one of the most advanced in area districts."

Supt. E. S. Castor praised the program designed by teachers and principals which allows teachers to name self-set goals to improve their teaching skills.

The self-evaluation philosophy replaces the common method of principal evaluation of teachers. Principles now will review teachers only in the areas the goals set in the Fall.

A REQUEST to require all school nurses to hold a bachelor of science degree instead of only a registered nurses' diploma was referred to the salary committee with a recommendation to adopt the policy.

Mrs. Martha B. Loss, director of health services for the district, requested that nurses now in the district without B.S. degrees be given a five-year period to obtain degrees.

The board refused to make an exception in their free busing policy to include residents of the Algonquin Apartments on Algonquin Rd. The residents had requested the busing because their children would be forced to walk more than the 1½ mile limit to follow a "safe" route to Central Road School.

Additional business will be discussed at a continued meeting called for Nov. 20 to complete the agenda.

Frost School Gets Teacher

Mrs. Dolores Wiedermann has succeeded Robert Bauer as sixth-grade teacher at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights. Bauer has resigned.

Mrs. Wiedermann previously taught for 10 years in Des Plaines. She is a graduate of National College of Education and has a master's degree in musical education from Northwestern University.

Arlington Heights Woman Wins CPCU Designation

Mrs. Dorothy A. Duck

An Arlington Heights woman has been awarded the designation of Chartered Property Casualty Underwriter (CPCU), won by less than 10 per cent of the persons who took the necessary examination in 1968.

Newly designated as "CPCU" IS Mrs. Dorothy A. Duck, 1013 Belmont, who operates her own general insurancy agency, and is also affiliated with the Pate Insurance Agency in Arlington Heights.

According to the American Institute for Property and Liability Underwriters, which conducts the examinations and confers the CPCU designation, more than 5,000 persons took the examinations and only 461 were successful.

According to the institute, the series of five comprehensive required examinations given CPCU candidates covers subjects such as insurance, economics, government, law, finance, and management.

Mrs. Duck said that in addition to passing the examinations three years in the insurance industry is also required to achieve "CPCU."

"The CPCU designation is to the insurance industry what the C.P.A. (Certified Public Accountant) designation is to the accounting business," Mrs. Duck explained.

The designation was officially conferred at the annual meeting of the Society of CPCU, Oct. 9 in New Orleans.

Further recognition will be given local recipients of "CPCU" Nov. 26, at a meeting of the Chicago Chapter of CPCU.

Save That Dust

If refinishing wooden furniture is one of your pet specialties, make a point of collecting leftover sawdust in a glass jar, jot down on the cover or side the name of the piece "chair," "table," etc. Next time you want to fill nailholes or cracks in the piece, mix the sawdust with glue to obtain the perfect blend to match.

Ice Scraper

Store a plastic plate for electric wall outlets in your glove compartment and you'll always have a simple ice scraper for your car windshield.

County Computer Starts Processing

By Richard Crabb

Tax bills for the northwest suburbs, and the remainder of Cook County have a better chance of being on time and accurate next spring than at any time in recent years.

Sometime in the next few days, the spanking new Cook County Computer Center will get down to serious preparatory work on issuing nearly nine million tax bills to be delivered during a few days next spring.

JUST before leaving for a few days of rest in California, Richard B. Ogilvie, Cook County Board President and Illinois governor-elect, presided over a ribbon-cutting ceremony that activated the new computer. The electronic giant occupies 1250 square feet on the second floor of the County Building in the Loop. The computer's hardware occupies a space that is 38 feet long and 33 feet wide.

Most of the computer's work will be done for the Cook County treasurer. For that reason it is located in the treasurer's department. The IBM 360|30 computer is the first of its kind to be installed by Cook County and is considered by county officials one of the most modern and effective electronic equipment of its kind to be found in any county government in the country.

The new data processing center will be under the direction of Cook County Treasurer Edmund J. Kucharski. The new equipment was made to order for Cook County and was delivered several months ago. Since delivery the computer has been housed in temporary quarters. During the stay in temporary quarters, the new electronic system has been given as detailed a shakedown use as is given new sea-going naval craft.

"During its time in temporary quarters," explained Kucharski, "the system was tested and re-tested before the more than 8.5 million business transactions performed by this office yearly were entrusted to the computer's care.

"THE RESULTS of those test have proven that effective and efficient operation demands the use of modern business technology. In short, a county — which handles almost a billion dollars each year, as does Cook County — requires electronic data processing to keep track of the income and expense items, growth and depreciation in order to exist."

The County Treasurer pointed out that opening of the computer center in his office is one more step in providing fast and accurate financial records for the county and its taxpayers.

Among some of the components of the system located in the new Treasurer's Office Computer Center include: Central processing unit (the master brain of the system); 1100 line-a-minute data printer; disk drives each of which can store up to 7.5 million characters of information); disk control Unit; and input-output control unit.

In addition, the new facility houses: (4) tape drives (on which all the information in the Treasurer's Office is recorded); a tape control unit; a card punch unit; and a card reader.

In addition to the equipment, the center itself is specially constructed for computer service. The floor is elevated more than 8 inches to provide a space for the miles and miles of wire and cables needed to connect one data component with another.

Temperature control, a must in housing the ultra-sensitive system, has also been assured by the installation of an eight-ton air conditioner. This unit also filters the air, freeing it of dust.

Tax Deductions For Weather Losses

Damages from the ravages of winter weather seem inevitable. But a broad range of casualty losses to property can be eased through tax deductions that taxpayers should be aware of.

A casualty, says the Internal Revenue Service, is "the complete or partial destruction of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected or unusual nature."

Thus a motorist whose car was damaged due to an icy road and another whose car motor literally froze up were allowed deductions, as was the taxpayer whose garage wall collapsed due to an unusual freeze-and-thaw pattern.

Other taxpayers have won deductions when pipes burst, and when asparagus plumosus ferns and a tropical plant collection were chilled to extinction, the Commerce Clearing House (CCH) reports.

Eaves collapsing from ice and snow accumulation, ceilings and floors damaged through thawing of collected ice and snow, and the death of ornamental trees, shrubs and bushes by winter's wrath all have won tax deductions for taxpayers.

However, CCH said, there are certain rules to be noted about claiming a casualty loss deduction. For example, it is allowable only to the person who owns the property and he may take the deduction only in the year he sustains the loss no matter when he repairs the damage or disposes of the salvage.

Also he has to be able to prove he actually sustained the loss, and the amount deductible.

Further, he should be able to show the "before-and-after" value of the property through photographs and appraisals and the amount of any insurance or other compensation received or recoverable, including the value of restoration and cleanup provided without cost by disaster relief agencies.

Also, CCH said, in the case of plants, trees and shrubbery, the basis for the deduction for loss is the difference in the value of the real property before and after the casualty - not the cost of replacing the landscaping.

Winter Car Care Cuts Expenses

Cold weather can do expensive damage to a car not prepared for winter.

Automobile safety experts have prepared a checklist of things to be done to prepare a car for cold weather:

--Replace cracked wiper blades.

--Add a solvent to the water in the window washer bottle to keep the water from freezing.

--Check muffler and tail pipe for leaks.

--Check all lights to see that they are working properly.

--Buy a good flashlight and road flares, since shorter daylight hours means more driving will be done in the dark.

--Have the battery, battery cables and charging system checked.

--Add anti-freeze if needed.

--Replace medium or heavy weight summer oil with all-weather oil.

--Have tires inspected.

--Check the spare tire to be sure it is fully inflated.

A well-planned cedar closet features storage compartments on one side for blankets and bedding and the other section is reserved for storing wearing apparel. Red cedar wall lining and shelves makes the closet moth-repellent.

Converting Large Closets Increases Linen Storage

Make the larger closets in your home do double duty by building provisions for storing blankets and bedding into them.

Addition of some shelving and vertical dividers can give you, in effect a linen closet within a closet.

As part of any closet renovation -- particularly if the closet is used for the storage of woolens -- go one step farther and make the closet moth-repellent. Then you not only will be able to store your winter blankets where they will be free from moth attack, but you will have a place for your family's woolen apparel as well.

Converting a closet into a moth-repellent storage area is a relatively easy job for the home handyman. It's done by covering the closet wall with aromatic red cedar closet lining, a lumber material designed soley for this purpose.

Cedar lining comes in easy-to-handle pieces which are nailed directly to the closet walls. The pieces are tongue-and-grooved along the edges and at both ends to simplify and speed the installation. Complete installation instructions are included in each package.

To carry the cedar theme throughout, and to increase the moth-repellency of the closet, use cedar lumber to build your shelving and storage compartments.

Set off one section of the closet with a vertical divider. Shelves set about a foot apart will provide a series of convenient storage compartments.

In the section reserved for hanging clothes, lower the hanger bar so that you don't have a lot of wasted space along the floor. The hanger bar needn't be any higher than 5 feet off the floor. You can make better use of the space above the hanger bar than you can below.

If you have a high ceiling, install two shelves above the hangar bar -- about a foot apart -- instead of the customary one. The net result is better closet organization.

Storage Spot Brighteners

Instead of trying to hide your storage area, brighten it up and make it an attractive corner in its own right.

By taking the door off a closet, you can convert the recess into a book nook, or a section to hold such items as TV, HI-FI, records, tapes, games. Shelves covered with bright gay colored burlap, spray-painted and thoroughly dried before application, can match or contrast with the decor of the rest of the room. The same treatment works for the wall behind the shelving.

Boxes that contain the more unsightly items you want to hide from view can be covered with adhesive-backed paper in patterns to conform to your storage scheme.

House Checklist

Looking for, trouble? You should, assuming you're in the process of checking out an older house which has caught your fancy both for looks and price.

To avoid the later headaches and extra expenses you hadn't counted on, it's prudent to keep in mind some flaws or defects which may be present in your choice of home.

Such a list should include old or insufficient wiring; antiquated or clogged-up plumbing; tired-out heating unit; sluggish sewer system or defective septic tank; damp basement walls, or leaky floor; a roof that needs shingles or chimney flashing; rusted or broken gutters; a run-down water heater.

There's a good chance that only one or the other item needs some work and you then can rest secure in the knowledge that you've obtained a well-seasoned, sound structure which has provided shelter and comfort for the previous owners for many years and can be now expected to do the same for you.

Forget Do-It-Yourself Approach As House Selling Time Arrives

There's a time and a place for you to demonstrate your do-it-yourself abilities.

When it comes to selling your house, however, turn the job over to a pro. Select a realtor of reputation.

One of the first cautions he may give you may even hurt your ego, but common sense will quickly show how sensible a move this is. You may talk too much and spoil the sales talk the realtor plans to use. Buyers are usually alert to detect the anxiety you may feel and they'll start to wonder what is wrong with the house.

The professional handler of real estate is soon aware of the strong selling points of your property. He will also note the weaker features and act accordingly. But unless he brings you directly into the conversation, let him do the talking. Stay in the background.

You can be helpful by following his lead: he may propose that you get a paint job done on the outside or in certain rooms, or that you clean up the outdoor area, trim the hedges, mow the lawns, get rid of patio clutter.

For the rest, mum's the word.

Garish Service Stations Fuel Public Ire

All things considered, the average automobile is a handsome piece of machinery. There are flaws, to be sure, but stylists spend millions for these smooth lines and clean silhouettes.

Yet the automobile probably causes more ugliness than any other convenience invented by man, with the exception of the guy who put together the first bomb.

WERE IT not for cars, there would be no need for billboards, motels with incredibly garish signs, auto junkyards, pollution control laws, roadside stands, drive-in theaters and service stations.

All of these contribute their fair share to highway blight but service stations earn the Wheeling It Award for Calculated Defilement, mainly because they are all over the place.

Somewhere, in a dark cubicle far removed from reality, a clutter of bookkeepers whose education in architecture ended in kindergarten and whose education in aesthetics never began probably grinds out "designs" for service stations.

While architect Emory Roth can with some small justification pride in turning out glass-box skyscrapers with all the imagination of an adequate engineer, the defilers who make most gas stations look like porcelain refrigerator trays can't even be familiar with the word pride.

TO MAKE matters worse, apparently these trays can't stand alone in some sort of icy splendor. No, they must be decorated by color-blind aborigines who probably keep pink plaster flamingos in their front yards.

Multicolored pennants, posters, flashing neon "Last Gas Before County Line" signs, huge posts bearing the name and symbol of the oil company which perpetrated the mess and assorted burntout batteries, worn tires, pop bottles and automotive clutter give the countryside a surrealism which even Dali couldn't duplicate at his wildest.

These grotesque monuments to the automobile are disgraceful and the next phrase is, of course, "something should be done about them."

Fortunately, the industry is beginning to recognize the situation for what it is and has softly done the mea culpa bit. Said A. J. Rumoshosky, marketing director for the American Petroleum Institute, to a group of marketers;

"UNFORTUNATELY, we still have too many unsightly stations. Listen to our critics and you get the point quickly. And who are our critics? They include city councils, zoning boards, garden clubs, homeowners, church congregations and other civic groups.

"In short, it is our customers who are our critics. It is our customers who are telling us they don't like the way we've been running our business. They are demanding that we be better neighbors and that we respect upgraded community standards."

Well, that's a step in the right direction. The industry admits it really hasn't given much of a damn for community standards.

In fairness to the defilers, the customers have been conditioned to expect these refrigerator trays. Why, aren't service stations supposed to look cruddy?

There are some hopeful signs. Reports Rumoshosky:

"It's the station which is 5, 10, 15 and 20 years old which is inciting the wrath of citizens across the nation. Major companies, independents and jobbers have all shown that old stations can be effectively remodeled. Porcelain boxes have taken on colonial and ranch-house flair, featuring brick, native stone, wood panelling and shingles...

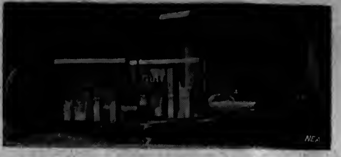
"It's not a bandwagon yet," reports the API marketing chief, "but I'm pleased to see a cutback in the use of pennants, excessive and distracting use of signs and the piling of station driveways with merchandise."

AND, IN truth a number of the new stations recently built do blend almost unobtrusively into their surroundings. They are not quite architectural triumphs (though they could be, without vast expenditure) but they are acceptable.

Rumoshosky pulled no punches when he lectured the marketers:

"Unless we buck up our housekeeping practices we could lose the ball game, despite all of our work and planning and spending. Without proper maintenance, even the $150,000 company pride and joy can become a dump with pumps - an expensive one, admittedly, but still a dump."

In the final analysis, it's all up to the oil companies. They've got the muscle to enforce a few, minimum standards. After all, a gas station without gas soon develops a problem or two.



This service station in Reston, Va., a planned community, reflects the community's tastes. Note absence of pennants and "Last Gas Before Roanoke" signs. At least one northwest suburb--Des Plaines--also is considering imposing some sort of "beauty" standard on service stations. Such a measure is now being studied by a committee of the Des Plaines City Council.

Marge Yeats, a Nelson Realty sales representative, has passed the $2 million mark in real estate sales for 1968.

Power Blowers Make Snow Easier to Take

Power-driven snow removal equipment has been taking much of the backache out of the job in recent years. Snow shovels are starting to go the way of the nonpowered lawn mower.

Snow throwers (or blowers) are now available in all shapes and sizes and in a wide variety of prices. Prices start under $100 and go up past $500. Most of the big brand names in power equipment are represented.

IN THE past few years designs have been improved to make the equipment easier to use and more dependable. Winterized engines have taken care of most of the starting problems. On some units you can add an electric starter, allowing you to ignore low temperatures altogether.

There are blowers that are available as accessory units on the front of a power unit. Consider this sort of setup if you are interested in other accessories for mowing, plowing, cultivating, etc.

Big advantage of the snow blower over the older snow plow is that instead of just pushing the snow aside, it lofts the snow 20 to 30 feet away. The snow is thrown to either side of the machine. Since wind direction can affect this feature, make certain that the unit you buy has an adjustable discharge chute so that you can vary direction and angle.

AS YOU go through the dozens of units available at your dealer's you will encounter certain features that may or may not interest you, terms that may not be clear.

The smaller and lighter units are generally referred to as single-stage. The spiral auger or fan which picks up the snow and chews it up also tosses it out. In a two stage unit there is another fan or impeller that tosses the snow after the first blade has picked it up. This is a feature of the larger and heavier machines.

MAJOR breakdown of snow blowers will be in the two categories of push-type or self-propelled. In the first you provide the push while the unit throws the snow. In the second power is supplied to the wheels so that you just guide it.

Simplest of the push types is the small power shovel, selling for around a hundred dollars, handy for cleaning the sidewalk and a short driveway.

How big a unit depends on how much snow you have to remove. A long, wide drive and lots of sidewalk will require a heavy unit. Make certain you have room to store the size unit you buy.

If the unit is self-propelled, consider one that you can reverse. It will be a lot easier than pulling it out of a drift. There should be a seperate clutch so that you can eliminate power to the wheels while the blades keep going or the other way around.

SEE THAT all controls are easily accessible. Will you be able to handle them in cold weather with gloves on? Shop around. Compare features and quality. Consider the importance of obtaining parts and service.

Some Problems to Watch for in a New House

Expect to have a few problems with your new house.

People expect problems in an old house; expect on the other hand that if they have bought a new one, they will have none at all.

Actually, you can almost count on problems in a new house, especially during the first year which is a sort of break-in period. Major defects should be called to the attention of the builder. Minor problems you should learn to take in stride. Learn which are which.

EVERY house will settle. Count on it. And there also will be both shrinkage and swelling of the materials in the house.

If a house settled evenly there would be no problem. But the earth under a house may settle in one spot and not in another. Some structural cracks will appear. Minor hairline craks around windows and in corners are normal and they don't affect the strength of the walls.

Shrinkage in the framing lumber also will cause minor plaster cracks in ceiling and walls. Don't be in a hurry to repair them unless they are large. Shrinkage can go on for a couple of years. By then you will be ready to redecorate. Fill the tiny cracks with spackling compound and paint.

CRACKS MAY appear around doors and windows in dry weather. Relex. Most of them will close up when it gets humid again.

Expect some swelling of doors and windows. Don't plane off a lot of wood. Don't haul out a wood rasp. Just lightly sand the high spots. Taking off too much wood will make the doors loose when they shrink back to normal.

In the winter when the air is dry, expect to find some hairline cracks between floor boards. If the floor were too tight it would buckle in humid summer weather.

NOW, WHEN are problems major and when should you yell for the builder? Figure that all plumbing, heating and wiring ought to last out the first year without trouble. Save copies of manufacturer's guarantees on such items as water heaters, furnaces, dishwashers, all built-in appliances, all name-brand items.

Cracks that are wider than a pencil point are not normal. Same goes for good size cracks in foundations. Doors that are so badly warped that you can see daylight through one side should not be your problem. A wood floor that buckles is bad lumber or bad workmanship or both. A heating plant that cannot be adjusted to keep all rooms at about 70 degrees regardless of the cold outside should be checked out.

IF WATER comes through a basement wall or up through the floor let the builder know.

Minor moisture may be caused by settling of the earth around the house causing drainage toward the foundation instead of away from it. Watch this problem yourself.

Let the builder know your problems in writing. Don't bother him with occasional small complaints one at a time, but give him a list of things that will make it worth his time to send a repairman around. You have a right to expect him to correct serious problems.

John R. Soning, Realtor and president of Home to Home, Inc., with offices at 960 E. Northwest Hwy. in Mount Prospect, has announced Midtown Realty in Palo Alto, Calif. recently joined Home to Home, Inc. Home to Home is a franchising organization designed to assist corporations and Realtors who relocate "transferees" from one location to another.

Atmosphere Counts: Banish Chill by Covering Walls

Problem: how to convert a castle into a home. Just making the monthly payments doesn't do that magic trick.

THE OUTSTANDING feature of castles in medieval tales or Hollywood films always seemed to be how cold and dank the interior walls were.

Maybe your new home at first presents a bit of that chill atmosphere. You can banish it and provide a snug secure feeling by covering your walls properly.

You can do this with paint or wallpaper. The color or pattern you pick will do it all in one operation, without need of pictures or other ornamentation.

Of course, if you can invest in just the right scene, properly framed, the whole wall comes alive.

Then,--and here we wave a magic wand towards the floor: the rug, carpet, or other floor covering you put down, after careful balancing of pros and cons to achieve the exact affect you seek, usually will remove any faint vestige of the chilly, bare feeling your "castle" walls created.

NO NEED NOW to lift the drawbridge to be assured of that atmosphere of pleasant contentment which makes a real home out of any castle.

The trend in home interiors is a move "up and away" but while it seems to be startling in its applications, it is really an evolutionary movement, since it actually retains in most cases the best features of old ideas.

FOR A START, take bedroom furniture. The traditional Hollywood bed is still as useful and practical as ever. But many new married couples go either all out for a headboard in absolute color contrast and design to the bedspread's motif or else they scrap the headboard entirely and have bolster pillows covered with material identical to the bed coverings, sometimes even the walls or the rugs.

In the kitchen, you'll find stainless steel or chrome furniture, with colorful Naugahyde-topped bar stools set off by brick or rough stone walls such as are still seen in the Dutch farmhouses in the Hudson River Valley in New York state.

Chairs are a good clue to the current feeling for exciting new designs. The simple curved or rigidly braced functional styles pioneered by the Scandinavians compete now with geometric designs.

Growing in popularity are cluster chairs, large fully upholstered-chairs, which can be grouped in twos, or threes or even quartets if you have the space.

They can be fitted together, shoulder to shoulder, in combinations limited only by your ingenuity.

YOU CAN make a tight circle in the center of a room, or you can place them for quiet tete-a-tete chats in remote corners. They even solve the problem of having unobtrusive room dividers.

Significantly, all these chairs may look new, different, part and parcel of the jet age scene.

Yet they are all comfortable, and even the types that appear to be monoliths of foam rubber covered with easy-to-clean materials do function just the way they should:they are intended for sitting.

Don't Heat Outdoors

Wearing a sweater and thermal underwear is not the best way to lower fuel bills.

Following a few simple tips can do much to reduce home heating costs, according to the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council, the area's information and education center of the hydronic (modern hot water) heating industry.

Some people, the council says, are paying to heat "the great outdoors" by keeping the windows open in the room where the thermostat is located.

This room becomes colder, and the thermostat continually "calls for heat." Close the window, advises the council, or lower the thermostat setting.

Those people who prefer an open window while they sleep should keep their bedroom doors closed.

Snow Comes - Lawn Chores End

Most gardeners are about ready to give a sigh of relief as the lawn care season comes to an end. It means a temporary rest from a full season of activity. There are just a few final chores to do before snow arrives.

By all means keep cutting the lawn as long as it need it. You can cut it at the same height or even a little shorter. Left long, it means you will have to rake out a lot of dead grass next spring.

Disease problems will be reduced if all leaves are raked from the lawn now. Their soaking and matting will prevent air circulation and thus create favorable humid conditions for the various grass diseases.

EVEN BEFORE leaves are raked some lawns this fall are exhibiting powdery mildew. If severe, it can kill fall plantings of new lawns. A heavily infected lawn looks as if it has been dusted with flour or lime.

Examination of the grass blades reveals a white, powder-like growth. Since this fungus grows on the outside of the blade of grass it can easily be controlled by an application of Karathane.

Some persons apply fertilizer at this time. This eliminates storage of leftover partial bags which may become lumpy over winter. However, during a warm, late fall, it can cause a flush of growth that is less winter hardy. Many people feel it is safer to wait until next March.

After all the lawn chores are finished, it is a good idea to wind up with some special care for the power mower.

A few minutes spent now will save hours next spring and will probably increase the mower's life.

Start by draining the oil and replacing it with new oil. Next run the motor to thoroughly circulate the new oil. Allow the motor to run until the gasoline supply is exhausted.

This will dry the tank, fuel lines, and carburetor. Gasoline left in the motor over winter will evaporate leaving a gummy deposit. This will make spring starting difficult.

FINALLY remove the spark plug and add a tablespoon of oil in the hole. If the spark plug is on a side, inject the oil from a measuring spoon with an eye dropper. Turn the engine over a few times by pulling the starter cord. This will coat the cylinder and valves with the rust-preventing oil. Be sure to replace the spark plug.

Finally, check the air cleaner, the cutting blade, and cover the exhaust pipe with a tin can.

Lease Insurance Is a Useful Tool For Small Firm

The owner of a suburban ladies apparel and department store was suddenly faced with the prospect of being forced out of business when plans for a new shopping center were announced. The merchant had operated successfully for 25 years.

He knew that a shopping center location would increase his business, so he approached the developer of the center. Then his dreams were shattered.

The developer said he could lease only to firms having an AAA credit rating, and he was talking to several nationally known clothing and department stores about rental of space.

ALTHOUGH the local merchant was a good businessman he was not a good credit risk because his business, a sole proprietorship, was subject to the risks of death, illness, domestic and personal difficulties.

Not only was the merchant unable to move into the shopping center, but it seemed he'd soon face formidable competition.

About this time he read about commercial lease insurance. After investigating, the merchant found that he could qualify for this new form of insurance.

Later, with his lease fully guaranteed, the shopping center developer was more than happy to have him as a tenant. And the businessman was able to relocate and increase his business as he had hoped.

Basically, commercial lease insurance protects a landlord against default. It guarantees up to 100 per cent of the rent on the commercial industrial properties.

Although the concept is relatively new it is already causing a wave of interest among real estate brokers, developers, mortgage lenders, private investors, banks and savings and loan associations.

THE EFFECT of commercial lease insurance is to give the small businessman the status of an AAA credit rating. This allows him to relocate, expand or take advantage of other business opportunities.

Lease insurance is available to single unit retail stores, wholesale stores, shopping centers, warehouses, industrial parks, restaurants, franchise operations and other businesses.

COMMERICAL lease insurance was developed by private enterprise working in cooperation with the Small Business Administration.

It was realized that many small businesses faced major problems due to urban redevelopment and highway construction programs. Many small businesses didn't have the funds or the credit rating to relocate.

To solve this problem private enterprise backed by federal government re-insurance developed the commerical lease insurance program. Now, all small businesses can utilize for lease guarantee program:

Unusual Crafts at Countryside

Photos by Marilyn Helfers

An intriguing mechanized piece of art known as a construction is hanging this week in the window of Countryside Gallery, 407 N. Vail, Arlington Heights. It is merely one of several unique, yet equally strange and fascinating creations now being exhibited there by area artists.

"This show is a good reflection of how far the midwest has come from the image of the hayseed farmer," remarked Less Rebbeck, well-known local teacher and artist upon visiting the show at Countryside. "Many of the pieces show technical virtuosity. Some have an almost classical quality."

THE WORK of eight gallery artists and four guests make up the present exhibition of pottery, construction and crafts which will delight even the most discerning observer. Guest craftsmen include Bertha Banjamin, Skokie; Reynold Mejer and Astra Strobel, Chicago, and Tina Krythe, Evanston.

Pottery by Masey Dorf and Peg Tootelian is included in Countryside Art Gallery's present exhibition of pottery, construction and crafts.

Bertha Benjamin is recognized for her mosaics. The walls of the Gallery are now brightened by several of her lively pieces. Wild flowers leap from the frames, their texture made interesting by Mrs. Benjamin's use of beautifully tinted fragments of stone. Reynold Mejar's enamels add contrast to the work displayed on the pottery racks. Their fragile appearance and delicate coloring compliment the solidarity of the other art forms.

Astra Strobel, a weaver, has contributed several lovely hand-woven and embroidered pillow covers as wall as several other fine pieces. Tina Krythe has brought to the ancient art of stitchery many modern innovations. Her designs are well executed; her colors, unusual and interesting.

GALLERY CRAFTSMEN Dorothy Kruse and Dianne Syverson are constructionists. Their works are not only the result of hours of work in a studio, but also of tireless searching for unusual materials. Mrs. Kruse displays several constructions in which she has used everything from clocks and machine stampings to motorized springs, with a few pieces even moving. After watching the burnished metal tick and click away, the observer soon begins to feel that he is looking at a small industrial universe working in precision. The effect is both fascinating and hypnotic.

Dianna Syverson, who studied at the John Kennedy School of Fine Arts, Cape Cod, Mass., brings the flavor of the past to her work by utilizing materials collected from old homes, barns and towns. In a construction titled, "Climax Revisited," she uses a rusted metal doll's head which was gleaned from a deserted mining town named Climax. A yellowed "Wanted" poster, a weathered chair leg, plus several other items of western memorabilia, give the whole piece a lonely look and captures the feeling of a lost generation.

THE WHITE pottery racks at the Gallery are filled with the work of three gallery potters. Don Johns, who is quickly becoming one of the midwest's best known potters, offers some fine pieces. His work is sophisticated and shows excellent control. There are several tall, narrow-necked pots done in subtle browns and rich blues. The glazes are technically perfect. Each of Mr. Johns' works has an individuality completely its own.

Masey Dorf, who is a new craftsman at Countryside this year, has exhibited and won many awards in the Chicago area. His approach to pottery is modern, and he uses new techniques which enhance his basic designs. One of these techniques is the addition of a jagged opening on the side of several pieces. The sides of the openings project outward in interesting patterns, allowing a view of the inside. Each of Mr. Dorf's pieces would be worthwhile additions to any pottery collection.

PEG TOOTELIAN studied at the Chicago Art Institute and has also won awards in the area for the general excellence of her pottery. Her work is in stoneware and consists mainly of functional pieces such as bud vases, casseroles, and sugar and creamer sets. Much of her work has an organic flavor - dark, rich colors, and unusual glazes. Her versatility is demonstrated by a white casserole dish and top which bear a design that is distinctly Grecian.

Theo Leffmann has added a new dimension to the art of weaving. This is her second year with Countryside, and she is showing many new and original designs. There are several striking wall hangings which consist of woven cloth, attached to various types of backing. One, titled, "Sand Storm," is an intricate piece of brown, black and white weaving, fastened to a brown cork board in such a way that it resembles a small whirlwind. In another, she has woven several leafy willow-wands directly into the fabric.

FRANCES and Michael Higgins work together in Chicago as designer-craftsmen in fused, enameled glass. They create many one-of-a-kind pieces designed to be useful as well as beautiful.

The Gallery has many of their ash trays, large bowls and trays in which the designs in the glass seem to flow; the colors sparkle. Their work has been seen at the Good Design Exhibition of the Museum of Modern Art and at the Corning International Exhibition of Glass. The prices of the Higgins' glass, as well as of the other work displayed in this show are very reasonable.

Palaces, Gardens Thrill Tourists

BY BETTY AINSLIE

"We agreed on our two favorite spots on the trip," said Thelma Hoshor of Arlington Heights reminiscing over the vacation she and her husband, Karl, took last month to Greece, Italy, Switzerland and France.

"They were the palace and gardens at Versailles and the Villa d'Este outside of the city of Rome," she said. "The Villa was built about 1500 and there are acres of fountains which all operate through gravity--getting and returning water to the river which flows through the property."

Thelma and Karl began their trip in Greece by flying directly to Athens. "A bustling, modern city," said Thelma. "Just twenty minutes away though it is just like going back to Biblical times."

The Hoshors were surprised to find that Greece was eighty percent mountains--"and gray ones at that," she laughed.

The highlights here were viewing the acropolis and Parthenon and a bus trip to Delphi to see the ruins there.

"WE DIDN'T care for the Greek food too much," Thelma admitted, "and wine was served everywhere with our meals. I don't believe we ever had a glass of water served to us on the entire trip," she said. "The coffee was terrible everywhere until we got back on the plane to come home."

From Athens they took a bus to Patras and after an all night boat trip landed on the Island of Corfu.

"A beautiful little gem of an island," was Thelma's description of the island where they lingered a couple of days. Karl tried his hand at motor scootering to get in practice to handle the petite car they were to rent in Italy.

"We stopped everywhere," Thelma recalled. "Sat in those stiff seats as the train was so packed we were lucky to get them. We had no reservations--couldn't possibly sleep and were really stiff and sore. I must say this was the only time I felt maybe we could have done better with a reservation. Otherwise we never had trouble anywhere. Our only reservation was in the hotel in Athens."

The Hoshors, Thelma is small but Karl is a six foot husky build, rented a Fiat car with stick shift and drove it over 2,000 miles. Found it never needed water or oil and only occasionally gas. Drove it around hairpin turns a bigger car would never had made through the Alps--mastered big city traffic everywhere and loved every minute of it.

"It's the perfect way to see everything," they both agreed. Although there just weren't any street signs in Europe the roads were good and there were many expressways everywhere.

They stayed at a Gasthouse in Zurich and decided not to venture into Paris with the car but instead to stay somewhere close to transportation to be able to take a train or bus into Paris.

"We discovered the ideal spot in Versailles. Actually we had little trouble with the language anywhere. Between my high school French and a gesture we made it. But I learned something about the French language. It is spoken thirty percent faster than English so it takes a bit of getting used to," she laughed.

"PARIS, WELL--," sighed Thelma. "Paris is special--it has elaborate and fabulous buildings, and I don't know--" she shrugged her shoulders. "Paris just wasn't like anything else we saw. Traffic noise, color, lights, excitement that was Paris the place we both want to go back and see again."

It was in Paris they took an unusual sightseeing bus where headphones were attached to each seat of the double deck bus and each person dialed his own language to listen to the sights being described in his native tongue.

There was the Eiffel tower of course, the Louvre and boatrides on the Seine, sightseeing all of Paris and the restful train trip that took them back and forth to their hotel.

THEY HATED to leave Paris, but soon it was back to the Fiat and a leisurely drive along the French Riviera section which Thelma declared is "plush and pretty" and back into Italy to Rome which she labeled a "city of contrasts with the impressive St. Peter's, of course."

The Hoshors had never been to Europe before. Karl had never driven a compact car. They were a bit doubtful about taking off on their own, reservationless. But found the people everywhere went out of their way to point out directions and to help.

"In Paris one woman who went really out of her way to point out a spot where we could get a bus, wanted me to be sure and understand that the French really do like Americans. They have always liked Americans and will continue to like Americans in spite of De Gaulle."

DALE A. KASL of 434 South Ridge, Arlington Heights, has been named administrative assistant to William T. Branham, executive vice-president and director of sales of Field Enterprises Educational Corp., publishers of The World Book Encyclopedia. Announcement of the appointment was made by Branham, who lives at 243 Butternut Rd., Barrington Hills.

Fire Burns Hay, Truck

Arlington Heights firemen were summoned to the John Hendricks Co. at Arlington Heights and Rand Rds. yesterday when a fire started in a hay-filled semi-trailer truck parked in the rear of the firm.

James Cunningham, vice president of the firm which supplies hay for Arlington Park and other businesses said most of the hay was destroyed but the truck was only damaged slightly.

Firemen said the cause of the fire was not determined.

Welcome to our new, exclusive 1/10% Mortgage Interest Rate

We've broken with the traditional 1/4% increments for variations in home loan interest rates. Our new 1/10% progressive rate structure will provide a new flexibility to assure home buyers of the most equitable rate at all times. And it can provide considerable savings over the term of a mortgage depending upon the original down payment. It's just another example of Bell Savings' constant effort to make home ownership easier and more enjoyable. Bell is known for making the best possible commitment on the best possible terms. With careful attention to the details that can reduce the immediate cash outlay for home buyers. And offering such items as pre-payment privileges and open end provisions tailored to your needs.
